Girl, 5-Year-Old Nephew
Die as Flames Engulf Home

WEST BEND (AP) — Twenty-year-old Janet Peters and her 5-year-old nephew, Randy Peters, died Saturday in a fire that raced through a farm home in 7 below zero temperatures.

Authorities said they were trapped in an upstairs closet. Janet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Peters, were hospitalized, and her brother, William, 18, escaped injury when not get in.

He jumped through a window to safety. Another brother, Donald, 15, had left for work earlier on a neighbor's farm.

The fire destroyed the Peters' two-story frame residence, two Randy and Janet but the stair-amilies south of West Bend. The way was filled with smoke and cause was undetermined but it flames and he was driven back, apparently started in the kitchen area.

3-Story Building Engulfed

Madison Fireman
Victim of Flames

MADISON (AP) — One fireman died in choking smoke as a three-story business and apartment building near the state Capitol Saturday night.

The flames charred a carpet store and six apartments above it with damage estimated by owner at $250,000.

Daniel Parkinson, 32, a Madison fireman, was dead on arrival at a hospital after he was carried from the smoke-filled building.

Winds up to 15 miles an hour fanned the flames and sent towering plumes of black smoke billowing above Madison's downtown district.

Four-Hour Struggle

The blaze was brought under control after a four-hour struggle by more than 75 firemen. Parkinson evidently died of smoke inhalation, authorities said. He was carried from the burning building about two hours after he had entered it with oxygen.

The fire broke out in bitter cold with temperatures about 12 degrees above zero. Firemen said the blaze apparently erupted in the basement of the stone building.

The first floor of the building was occupied by Sergerian's Carpet Store. The apartments were on the upper floors.

The fire attracted thousands of spectators. A nearby movie theater was evacuated.

A fire wall blocked the flames from spreading to an adjacent department store, although it suffered smoke damage.

The store is two blocks from Capitol Square in Madison's business district.

Marshall B. Sergerian, owner of the store, said six apartments occupied by college students and working girls were located above the shop. He said all 16 girls living in the apartments safely fled the building.

Question Posed by 'Mansfield Report'

Can U.S. Win Viet Nam War?

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The report on the war in Viet Nam by Sen. Mike Mansfield and four colleagues raises grave questions about whether the United States can ever win its major goals in that conflict regardless of whether the fighting is halted now or continues to expand indefinitely.

These questions appear to pose the main challenge for President Johnson when he goes to Congress in the next few weeks for massive new appropriations to finance the struggle. They sharpen what is likely to be the central issue in the forthcoming debate. Where do we go from here?

The President will have an opportunity to give his answer to this consuming questioning when he reports on the state of the union next Wednesday night before a joint session of Congress.

Decision Is Due

The traditional speech will be broadcast on television and radio — and it will come at about the time some officials have been expecting a decision on whether and when the bombing of North Viet Nam will be resumed.

Mansfield's assessment of the conflict is not necessarily the same on all points as that of the Johnson administration. Administration officials have taken the position that what they call a reasonable peace settlement — one securing the independence of South Viet Nam — is not beyond possibility. Most top officials also believe that Red China would prefer to keep out of the war. But no one knows, in fact, what it may do in the months ahead.

The White House and State Department are giving the Mansfield report, and particularly its conclusions, careful study. The trip taken by the senators was undertaken with President Johnson's approval and their findings are bound to command administration attention.

The White House said Johnson had thanked Mansfield for the report.

Influential Man

Mansfield is believed to have had some influence on the President's Vietnamese policies already. After he returned from his 3,000-mile journey through Europe and the Far East Dec. 18, he called for a prolonged suspension of the bombing of North Viet Nam in hope of enlarging the possibilities of moving the whole struggle to the conference table. His views are reported to have been influential with the President in prolonging the bombing pause after the Christmas truce.

The senators' assessment of the outlook for the conflict are

U. S. Jets Have Hit Ships, Trucks
Carrying Munitions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jet pilots are reporting excellent results from massive raids on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos during the lengthening pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam, informed sources said Saturday.

Squadrons totaling up to 300 planes, packing nearly 1,000 tons of bombs and rockets, are hitting daily at strategic junctions and southbound Communist convoys on the maze of roads and waterways making up the trail, these sources said.

Pilots told of numerous secondary explosions from ammunition-laden sampans and trucks that Hanoi dispatched to take advantage of the lull that descended over North Vietnamese territory by President Johnson's order Christmas Eve.

The informants, who are reliable, preferred not to be identified. Nor was there a pinpointing of the bases from which the jets have put the Laotian phase of the war into full swing. No official U.S. or Vietnamese spokesman would comment.

At one time or another in the past year pilots based in Thailand, in South Viet Nam and aboard U.S. 7th Fleet carriers in the South China Sea have made runs over Laos. Announced combat activity of the latter two groups has been limited for the last 16 days to strikes against the Red enemy within South Viet Nam.

Abel Adheres to

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Steelworkers President I. W. Abel said Saturday he had done away with a Washington hotel suite, two limousines, a chauffeur, several body guards and three secretaries which he inherited when he took over the union's top office last June.

"This is enough to give you some indication that if we're going to ask directors and staff men to live within trade union principles, we ourselves are going to be willing to do it," Abel said.

Abel was elected president of the union, the nation's third largest, last year in the climax of a bitter power struggle with David J. McDonald, who had been president for 12 years.

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops have launched their biggest operation of the war in a push near the Communists' iron triangle, it was announced Sunday.

For security reasons the Vietnamese high command was not even notified of the operation until the last minute and no

Vietnamese government troops took part.

The Royal Australian Battalion, the Australians killed six Viet Cong, while allied casualties were light. American troops ran into light opposition in four helicopter landing zones.

The Australians seized three weapons, 5,000 rounds of ammunition, 35 grenades and some equipment, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The allies were, roughly, deployed in a "U" shaped formation with the open end facing the river. Intelligence agents reported that a Viet Cong regiment

Killed Saturday
By Red Sniper

MENASHA — Word was received late Saturday night that a Menasha Marine, Pfc. Ronald H. Jahnke, 22, was killed Saturday by Viet Cong sniper fire in the vicinity of Da Nang in South Viet Nam.

Jahnke's father, Albert A. Jahnke, 116 Abbey Ave., was notified in a telegram received at 11:28 p.m. The message was sent by Lt. Gen. R. C. Mangrum, Washington, acting commander of the U.S. Marine Corps.

According to the message, Jahnke received a gunshot wound in the chest from sniper fire while he was involved in a re-supply mission to his company's defensive position.

The young Marine, who would have been in the corps five years in June, has a wife, Sally, who lives at route 1, Bow, Washington.

North Vietnamese
Premier Says U. S.
Peace Efforts Trick

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Pham Van Dong of North Viet Nam praised the Soviet Union Saturday for its help for Vietnamese Communists fighting in Viet Nam.

He assailed U.S. gestures for peace as tricks, and said peace can come only when the United States halts bombing raids "unconditionally and for good" against North Viet Nam.

Pham spoke at a reception in Hanoi for a Soviet delegation headed by Alexander N. Shelepin. Radio Hanoi broadcast an account of it.

Replying, Shelepin repeated Soviet support for North Viet Nam's four peace demands. These include the evacuation of South Viet Nam by U.S. troops before talks begin. The United States has rejected this.

Shelepin had talks during the day with President Ho Chi Minh and other Vietnamese officials but the nature of the talks was not disclosed in either Hanoi broadcasts or by the Soviet news agency Tass.

Red China, meanwhile, said the United States hopes to sell its Viet Nam peace campaign through Shelepin.

Pham seemed to counter preparing to announce the des-ignation of the University of Chinese criticism of the Soviet Union in praising Moscow for its help in the war. The Chinese had charged that the Russians have skimmed on their help.

Johnson is expected to dwell at length on Viet Nam peace efforts and the impact of the war on the domestic front.

Expect Conflicting Demands

With his world-wide peace offensive having shown no tangible signs of Communist willingness to negotiate, Johnson apparently will hear conflicting demands from lawmakers who favor resumption of aerial attacks on North Viet Nam and those who believe the bombing lull may yet open a way to peace.

Submission by Jan. 25 of a new budget calling for around $115 billion in expenditures for the fiscal year beginning July 1 will touch off a guns vs. butter battle. Members who believe domestic spending on such projects as the antipoverty program should have equal priority with military outlays will be pitted against those who say that financing of the war must come first and don't think even a booming economy can support both.

There are some indications that Johnson will scale down requests for domestic programs. To offset this he is likely to ask for action on non-costly legislation designed to benefit consumers such as truth in packaging and truth in lending bills.

No Immediate Tax Hike

The White House has said that the President is not now considering any request to increase taxes. But the possibility of some such action has not been ruled out if increased federal spending depend the threat of inflation.

Senate and House Democratic leaders have promised quick action on an expected presidential request for an additional $12 billion or $13 billion in supplemental defense appropriations. Republicans say they will demand an accounting of exactly where this money is to be spent but few cuts are likely.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana has forecast a limited program of new legislation. But there are a number of vexing issues left over from last year.

Other Legislation

Other major legislation to be considered —Minimum Wage: A House committee bill proposing an increase from $1.25 to $1.75 hourly and extending coverage to 78 million additional workers is likely to be pared back.

—Unemployment Compensation: There is strong opposition to establishing federal standards and action is doubtful.

—Food for Peace: Expansion of this program is probable.

—Foreign Aid: New requirements for economic self-help and social reforms may be written into the program.

Withholding Rates

—Income Tax: An increase in withholding rates above the present flat 14 per cent is possible.

Highways: Congress will have to decide whether to go on with the interstate program despite mounting Viet Nam costs.

The Senate Commerce Committee has scheduled a detailed inquiry into the massive electric power failure in the Northeast on Nov. 9-10. Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) said the starting point will be the Federal Power Commission's report that there is no guarantee that it will not happen again.

$650,000 Blaze In New Orleans Called Arson

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Fire officials Saturday placed a conservative $650,000 damage tag on the prewar fire which chewed up two floors of a skyscraper bank building and destroyed a suburban school.

The fire at the McDonough No. 25 Elementary School in Gretna just across the Mississippi River was blamed on arsonists. Witnesses told authorities of a dull explosion heard just before the fire raced through the two-story brick building.

The school fire "definitely was arson," said Gretna Fire Chief Leo Reese. School authorities said the school was not integrated and had not figured in any racial controversy.

anti-Communist troops in years. Backing up the huge operation were batteries of 105 and 155 millimeter artillery and self-propelled 8-inch howitzers in the field and 175 millimeter cannons in American base camps some miles away.

Artillery Barrages

U. S. commanders hoped that if a major Viet Cong force can be flushed out, it could be destroyed by massive artillery barrages.

One fear was that the Communists would slip across the Saigon River into the iron triangle. Flares illuminated the river at night, but the Viet Cong in the past have managed to slip out of what appeared to American commanders to be airtight traps.

5 'Outlaws' Join Friend Behind Bars

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Five members of a motorcycle club called the Outlaws were arrested at the Safety Building Saturday when they sought to cheer another member jailed the previous night.

James Bisenius, 23, the club's bearded president who wore a German army helmet, and his brother John, 21, were charged with disorderly conduct after police said they kissed each other in the waiting room of the Safety Building.

Four other persons, including Kenneth K. Markins, 25, who had been jailed after a tavern disturbance Friday night, were charged with carrying concealed weapons—heavy steel motorcycle chains weighing up to five pounds each.

Nine members of the club came to the Safety Building after Markins' arrest. One wore a coonskin cap, two wore gold earrings, and another wore a sign, "Beware of Dog."

Charged with Markins were Michael P. Nelson, 22, Oliver G. Waters, 30, and James H. Brooks, 25.

We are fighting society and mental control but in which domain that's what we want," said elder Bisenius. He also was charged with carrying a concealed weapon.

All Lanes of the Queens Midtown tunnel connecting Manhattan and Queens were made outbound from Manhattan Friday to ease possibly the biggest traffic jam in New York's history Friday due to the city's transit strike. Between 5 and 6 p.m., some 3,933 cars passed through, 884 more than the day before. Hopeful mediators said Saturday that they hope to settle the strike so that service can be resumed Monday.

'Mansfield Report' Raises Questions

set forth in the concluding paragraph of the report in which they make these points:

1. The prospects for effective negotiations at this time are slender and likely to depend on the initiatives and efforts of the combatants.

This point has been partially overtaken by events, since the President has already taken the initiative in starting a peace offensive aimed at North Viet Nam.

2. Even if a cease-fire and freezing of the battle positions is achieved it would simply stabilize the situation in which the majority of the population remains under nominal government control but in which domination of the countryside rests in the hands of the Viet Cong.

The fact that no clear territorial divisions exist in the guerrilla war in the south is a source of considerable concern to the administration because the cease-fire would be hard to maintain and an eventual just peace difficult if not impossible to negotiate.

Indeed, the senior Republican member of the group, and of the Senate, Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, has gone well beyond the report in recommending we get if the Viet Cong is sitting at the negotiating table? Victory will come when the Viet Cong lay down its arms. Then we can negotiate.

But Aiken obviously does not represent a Republican policy position. The party's congressional leadership has been supporting Johnson's moves on Viet Nam but their applause has been louder for his actions to increase the weight of American military blows than for his peace efforts.

Perhaps significantly, the Republican Senate leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said in a news conference Friday there can be no honorable field group tends to place them negotiation until the Viet Cong more among the "doves" than lays down its arms.

He put it this way: "Where do the 'hawks' and the 'doves' among the 'hawks'?"

Efforts to Hike Overseas Tobacco Use 'Shock' Solon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, a leading congressional sponsor of a law that requires cigarette packs to carry a health hazard warning, expressed shock Saturday night at a report the Agriculture Department is subsidizing cigarette smoking into a travelogue for distribution in eight countries and is also spending $210,000 to subsidize cigarette consumption abroad.

"How can a civilized country and Austria promote increased cigarette smoking in foreign countries?" he asked in a letter to the U.S. tobacco industry and Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman.

For a Travelogue where governments have acted to discourage use of tobacco.

For Some Americans, Viet Duty Is 'Best in the Army'

By BOB POOS
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — For some American GIs, Viet Nam duty is "the best in the Army."

For others, it means long stretches of boredom, sitting in foxholes by the hour waiting for an enemy that never seems to show, taking long, weary walks through rice paddies and jungle that sometimes erupt in a blast fire from hidden machine guns. The American GI in Viet Nam is not quite like the GI of Korea and World War II. His officers are likely to think that he's smarter, better trained and tougher than men of the earlier wars.

A search for a typical GI is futile because all are individuals, although molded into a military pattern with its discipline and anonymity.

Most complain about the food, weather, military life in general and about the enemy. They call him Victor Charley or Charley Brown and respect him as a soldier.

Mostly Volunteers

Thus far, all large U.S. units in Viet Nam except the 1st Army Division has a preponderance of regulars, men who joined up for three years. This will change in some outfits like the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division as stateside replacements pour in. But units like the paratroopers and Marines will probably retain a majority of volunteers.

Most of the noncommissioned officers boast that they are "RA" (Regular Army) all the way and in to stay.

Even draftees are likely to admit they would rather be here than "running up and down hills at Ft. Benning to no purpose," as a 1st Division private remarked.

"They're the finest kids — and the best troops — in the world," said Capt. Henry Thorpe, a native North Carolinian who commanded a company of the 2nd Battalion, 7th Cavalry in the Ia Drang Valley.

He ought to know. Thirty-one of his men died in that battle.

How does the U.S. soldier live on base and in the field? What does he do for entertainment in those rare hours off duty? Let's take a look at a few of them:

Spec. 5 Martin Torres of Guam is an aircraft maintenance man of the 545th Aircraft Battalion stationed at Camp Holloway, an Army air base just outside Pleiku in the central highlands.

Plans on 20

He's been in the Army six years and plans to stay in for 20.

"In a way, it's the best duty I've ever had," he said. "I have to work hard and I don't mind because I'd rather drop dead from exhaustion than let down one of those guys flying our aircraft."

"We do our work and aren't bothered by spit and polish inspections."

Torres is an enterprising young man. He bought a motor scooter for $350 and put-puts around the Pleiku area. In town there is little to do except break the monotony of Army food with a meal at the only Pleiku Chinese restaurant. This costs 150 piasters, about $2 at the official rate of exchange.

Torres walks around the little Vietnamese city and drinks an occasional bottle of the local "3 export" beer that costs 40 piasters.

This is better than the life of most of the troopers of the 1st Cavalry Division at An Khe, 55 miles east of Pleiku.

Prior to the CAV's arrival, An Khe had only one bar for its population of perhaps 1,000. Now An Khe is a garish soldier town with 91 bars, many of which serve what the troops call "boom boom parlors."

Inflation has come with a vengeance. Prices in many instances are double those of Saigon. A beer or a soft drink costs 50 piasters, a package of cigarettes 60.

Take It Easy

Most of the troopers don't get much time in town. When Spec. 4 Clarence Wayne of Columbus, Ga., got a few hours he said:

"I'm just going to sit and rest and drink a couple of beers."

"Last time I was in town I bought silk jackets for my four-year-old boy and seven-year-old daughter."

Pvt. Rene Contrere of Fitchburg, Mass., is an infantryman in the 1st Battalion of the 12th Cavalry. His outfit has been almost constantly in the field or on camp perimeters guard since it arrived in September.

His comments on his presence here reflect those made by many soldiers and Marines.

Some people bark home every night and miss a lot. Some they might have seen these dead PAVN (People's Army of North Viet Nam) This is no civil war. This is an invasion and we're here to stop it."

Pfc. Kenneth Oley of Washington, D.C., wondered if he is going to benefit from a GI bill of rights as did the veterans on Korea and World War II.

The 6-foot-2 225-pounder is a military policeman patrolling the muddy streets of An Khe and have a soft drink — I don't watch the GIs' antics."

"I got in two years of college before I was drafted and I sure would like to go back and make something of myself in the medical field," he said. "If not a doctor, maybe I could be a dentist or get into lab work."

Of his off-duty hours Oley said: "I just cool it. I sit down

This is the real Americans, a Viet Cong sniper cavalry unit of the 1st Cavalry Division, the men who do the lot of walking. Canady is a member of the 88th Military Police Detachment — canine.

The Berger, Tex., native spends his nights being tugged along by a German shepherd dog around the barbed wire perimeter of an Army helicopter squadron camp at Ban Me Thuot in the central highlands.

On a sweep with his battalion What does he do in off-duty hours? "Nothing," Canady said

There's nothing to do. The want to go alone."

High Court Allows Mass Transit Strike

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin statutes devote almost a page to the publication of a law to prevent the type of public transit strike that is crippling New York City.

But despite the wordage and emphatic language such strikes can and do happen here because of a U.S. Supreme Court decision that 15 years ago rendered the law invalid.

Sunday Post-Courier, A 11

"It shall be unlawful for any group of employees of a public utility employer acting in concert to call a strike or to go out on strike . . ." read Section 111.62 of the Wisconsin statutes.

The prohibition was put on the books in 1947. Four years later the high court in the land struck it down.

The late chief justice Fred Vinson wrote the decision. There were three dissents.

Vinson held that the act conflicted with the right to strike guaranteed by the 1935 Wagner Act and the 1947 Taft-Hartley Law.

Conservation Aid Available, River, Harbor Congress Told

Municipalities Must Have Plan, Match Money

FOND DU LAC — Methods of applying for federal funds for the acquisition and development of public recreation land were outlined Saturday to representatives of the Sixth District Committee of the Congress of Rivers and Harbors. Eric Jensen, staff specialist on land and water conservation for the State Conservation Department, said funds would be available if municipalities match those funds and submit approved projects.

Speaking at Cappell's Supper Club, Jensen added that in order to qualify for aid, the municipality must have started a long-range plan, and that the plan must be completed within an 18-month period.

Winnebago County this year could apply for $14,441. Other eligible counties in the district are Fond du Lac, $23,240; Calumet, $7,589; Green Lake, $6,834; Sheboygan, $14,130; Kewaunee, $7,086; Washington, $10,398; and Ozaukee, $9,785.

Jensen then outlined the procedure to be followed. He said a governing body — in most instances a branch of the County Board — must decide on a specific project as recommended by the parks committee. This project is then submitted to the Regional Planning Commission and finally to the Conservation Department.

He said the application must go through the Regional Planning Commission in order to allow that body to include all plans going to the Conservation Department in its own planning program.

Emphasis of the program is on the acquisition and development of parks. Funds are allocated on a basis of population, project and need.

Allocations, Jensen said, are based 60 per cent on population, 30 per cent on project and 10 per cent on need. The reason for the emphasis on population is to channel the funds into highly-populated areas, where they will do the most good.

This year a total of $1,177,847 is available to counties, and more is expected next year. Jensen said the average allocation over 25 years should be NEENAH — Possible reasons why Jesus chose 11 of his 12 apostles are given through contemporary comparisons by the Rev. K. Aart Van Dam in his first book "Men About The Lord's Table" released this past week.

The former pastor of Whiting Memorial Baptist Church, Neenah, who is now serving a congregation in Martins Ferry, Ohio, wrote the 95-page volume to help the reader identify himself with one or more of the apostles.

The book was begun as a series of sermons, some first at 2 p.m. Monday with 192 cases preached at the First Baptist Church of Sac City, Iowa, and court calendar. Few New Countries Left for Veteran Radio Operator

BY DICK MC DANIEL
Post-Crescent Correspondent

WAUPACA — Contacting new foreign countries is difficult for beginners in amateur radio, but it is becoming next to impossible for veteran Ham Paul Niles, who is running out of countries to contact.

Niles now has 310 confirmed contacts, each from a different country. There are possibly 25 more countries to contact but the absence of amateur radio operators in these countries presents a major obstacle.

A confirmed contact usually is a postcard bearing the call letters, date, time and signature of the person contacted. Both parties mail the cards to add to his and sometimes uses the long each other's collection.

Niles is an avid amateur radio operator, like other men take to hunting and fishing. All his spare time, when his hours as local manager of the Wisconsin Public Service Corp. office are ended, are spent at his 1,000-watt set at his home.

Sunday Mornings Best

Sunday mornings are an especially good time to spin the frequency dials. Many other operators are on the air then and some of the bands are filled and Niles then turns to the less frequented bands.

Telegram Tells Couple Son Hurt in Viet Nam

NEENAH — A Neenah police man knocked on the door of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers at 6 p.m. Saturday and relayed a telegram to the couple stating their son had been wounded Friday while on patrol in Viet Nam.

The message from the acting commandant of the Marine Corps said their son, Lance Cpl. Roy T. Rogers, 20, suffered multiple fragmentation wounds in the left arm and left leg while on patrol in the vicinity of Chu Lai.

"At the time of this report," the telegram read, "he was receiving treatment at the battalion aid station."

"His condition and prognosis were good," it said.

The official report from Washington D. C. said the had arrived with 19 men in his outfit and now only seven were alive and unwounded. The figure is now six.

The Rogers live west of Neenah on State 114. Roy is the oldest of four children. The parents are worried that their oldest boy's wounds might be worse than the telegram stated.

Woman Was Not Convicted

Post-Crescent Was Misinformed; Restitution Made

The last sentence in a Jan. 2 story in the Sunday Post-Crescent that Wauwatosa authorities said Mrs. Beverly Gentile was convicted of theft by trick involving some suits obtained by her husband was in error.

Mrs. Gentile was not convicted of the charge to which she pleaded innocent in Milwaukee County court on March 13, 1965.

On May 26, 1965 the charge against Mrs. Gentile was dismissed upon motion of an assistant Milwaukee County district attorney.

Wauwatosa Police Department records, according to Police Chief John F. Howard, show the case was dismissed against Mrs. Gentile and restitution in the amount of $287 made to a tailor, who was the complainant.

The Jan. 2 story concerned a beer-liquor license application made here by Vincent J. Maniaci, formerly of Milwaukee, and his association with Nicholas S. Gentile, another former Milwaukeean. Beverly is Gentile's wife.

Maniaci, a member of a family which operated restaurant in Milwaukee for years, wants to open an Italian-American restaurant in Appleton at 512 W. College Ave.

Maniaci told The Post-Crescent he managed a supper club a number of years with his family at 1902 E. North Ave., Milwaukee. The place closed June 30, 1965 when it was bought for expressway. Maniaci said his license application is pending before the Appleton Council and will be before the welfare-ordinance committee next week.

In his last letter, which the family received Monday, he told of being scared because he had so few days left.

"He said he was lucky because he had been out on patrol last week," his mother continued. While he was out on patrol his buddy was killed sleeping in their tent, she explained.

The letter recounted how he has ever been refused free counsel. Those who do not qualify for aid, possibly because they have no legal grounds for a case, usually are given helpful advice or are referred to proper agencies.

Domestic problems, compensation claims and landlord-tenant cases are among those frequently handled through the legal aid committee, Myse said.

There is no set policy on the types of cases that would not be accepted on a gratis basis, but criminal actions rarely qualify themselves. Said one lawyer, because state law provides "Legal aid is a public service on the part of attorneys."

Winnebago County set the pace in legal aid services in this part of the state, having founded such a program in 1959. Other counties have used the Winnebago plan as a model.

Oshkosh Office

The Winnebago County Legal Aid Association, comprised of five county bar members, maintains an office in the courthouse at Oshkosh. Every Thursday afternoon a staff attorney and a volunteer secretary are available to interview indigents who need counsel.

A qualified applicant is referred to one of 50 Winnebago County attorneys. An average of three cases per Thursday are heard in the Oshkosh office, according to Atty. Hibbard Engler, Winnebago County Bar president.

The Brown County Bar Association has had a legal aid office in the courthouse since last April. The office, open Tuesday and Friday afternoons, has a full-time secretary and a staff of 57 attorneys. Eighty-five persons have been served under the program.

Legal aid facilities in Outagamie, Sheboygan, Calumet, Manitowoc and Waupaca counties are less elaborate, but serve an equally important function.

Outagamie Program Atty. Gordon Myse heads the three-man Outagamie County Bar Association sub-committee dealing with legal aid. Working with him are attorneys Philip F. Schlichting and Donald B. Green.

New life has been breathed into the Outagamie legal aid program in the past eight months. More changes and updating are planned.

The Outagamie legal aid setup seems to be pretty much representative of counties not having a complex organization and a full-time office.

Cases referred to Myse and his staff come primarily from church and welfare agencies and other attorneys.

Free legal assistance is not provided everyone who seeks it. After there is no merit for such in Waupaca. He was charged with driving 46 miles per hour and having a legitimate case in a 25-mile zone.

Winnebago Bar Association Was First to Form Aid Program for Impoverished; Others Followed

Persons seeking legal aid are encouraged to pay at least a partial share of the court costs involved, such as filing fees, but often the attorneys pick up the tab on costs. Those receiving assistance are under no obligation to repay.

"Participation in the plan on the part of attorneys has been excellent," Myse said.

More Awareness

The Appleton attorney said he would like to see a greater public awareness of a legal aid provision in Outagamie County.

"The service is of little value if people do not know it is available," Myse said.

Legal aid programs in Brown, Dane, Milwaukee and Winnebago counties are being studied by the Outagamie unit and certain aspects of those programs probably will be incorporated in a formalized plan to be submitted to the Outagamie County Bar

State YGOP Backs Reagan Bid for Office

Executive Committee Parley at Oshkosh Hits Group Research

OSHKOSH — Resolutions critical of Group Research, Inc., and supporting movie star Ronald Reagan's bid for the Republican nomination for governor of California were approved by the executive committee of the Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans here Saturday afternoon.

The state executive committee meeting was one of several Republican gatherings at the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh Reeve Union Saturday. The other meetings were the northeast district college coordinators and the Sixth District Young Republicans executive committee.

Plans were outlined for the State Young Republican convention scheduled for the Pioneer Hotel April 29 to May 1. Speaking on the convention laws was Keith Mulligan, Oshkosh, Sixth District YGOP chairman.

Attendance of about 600 persons is expected for the state convention.

Criticize Group Research The resolution on Group Research, Inc., said that the Democratic national committee and its chairman, John Bailey, relies on the services of this group which has categorically black listed over 2,000 persons with the intent being that they receive awards from the freedom foundation, and that Group Research claims, at Vigilant's watches over the activities of extremists and lists such noted persons as J. Edgar Hoover, Rev. R. H. Graham, Bishop Fulton Sheen, and Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gus Hall.

The state YGOP executive committee said it deplores such service efforts by Group Research and does not admire the Democrats' reliance on the tactics of Group Research.

Support Reagan

The resolution on Ronald Reagan said that Reagan had been a vital and an energetic campaigner.

NEW LONDON — New Year's Eve ended two years of struggle and worry for the Edgar Algiers family, 112 Quincy St.

Mom graduated from nurses training at Mercy Hospital, Oshkosh.

Mom is a friendly, young woman with eight children, a happy husband and a cocker spaniel that seems to be having puppies all of the time.

Mrs. Algiers gleefully announces the fact that she no longer has to commute daily to Oshkosh, about 35 miles, to nurses school. This week she plans on beginning her duties as a nurse at Community Hospital here.

Fate did not always seem to be on her side in her effort to complete her nurses training which had begun in 1950 after graduation from New London High School. She dropped out of nurses school in 1952 to get married.

Since then life has been one blessed event after another. In order came Karen, 12; Mary, 11; Theresa, 10; Teddy, 9; Jenny, 8; Kathy, 6; Tom, 5; and Tim, 3. Lady, the family pet, came to the household two years ago. She has had two litters of pups since.

Physical Fitness Unit Huddles at Madison

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — With Gov. Warren P. Knowles calling the signals, the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness held its first huddle Saturday in the state capitol.

He called for an educational and public relations program boosting a statewide plan of physical activities for all persons from kindergarten through retirement.

The council was called together by the governor after Stan Musial, former baseball star and head of the president's Physical Fitness Committee, contacted the state's chief executive and asked for his help in establishing a Wisconsin council. A total of 35 states have taken similar actions.

Among those appointed to the committee by Knowles are Green Bay Packer Head Coach Vince Lombardi and quarterback Bart Starr as well as former Packer great Don Hutson.

To Name Co-Chairman

At the meeting Knowles hinted that a well-known sports personality such as Lombardi or Starr might be appointed as co-chairman of the council.

Knowles commented that he had been inspired to organize the committee by Musial and that he thought placing a prominent athlete in a similar position would have the same effect in Wisconsin on those working with the group.

Officers are to be appointed by Knowles within the next three weeks. Discussions at Saturday's meeting indicated that a physical educator or a member of the medical profession might also be appointed co-chairman.

Temporary chairman of the council is Prof. K. Leonard Larson, director of physical education for men at the University of Wisconsin.

Knowles pointed to the performances of other countries in competing with the United States in recent Olympic contests, the high rate of draft rejections due to mental and physical defects and the vast amount of leisure time provided state citizens by labor-saving devices.

"This signals the need for a great deal of emphasis on programs for the middle aged and the elderly," as well as for the young through daily school programs, he said. "I hope that some sound ideas can be generated which will lead to the encouragement of the middle aged and elderly citizens' participation in physical fitness programs."

The council, Knowles pointed out, will have no enforcement powers over state school systems but will work in the field of public relations and education. No state funds will be involved but it is possible that such programs on the state and local levels may qualify for federal assistance, it was suggested.

Other prominent athletes and area sportsmen on the council are John Buchholz, Manitowoc County agent, Manitowoc; Polly Erickson, woman's golf champion and wife of the University of Wisconsin basketball coach John Erickson; Charles Dragana, Oshkosh director of recreation; Win Brockmeyer, director of athletes and football coach at Wausau High School, and Arthur Mansfield, University of Wisconsin baseball coach.

The council is to meet again in Madison on Feb. 12.

The college and university Young Republican group at its meeting discussed membership promotion, activities on the campus and correlating money raising projects. Representatives from six of the eight colleges and universities in the north-eastern area attended.

Attention also was called to the leadership training school at Washington, D. C., Feb. 2 to 6 which will be attended by 25 Young Republicans from Wisconsin. Residing over the session was James Staples, East Troy. Also present to speak to the group was Peter Kohler, Sheboygan Young Republican national committeeman.

Winnebago State Hospital

New Structure to Replace Main Hall

BY ALLAN EKVAL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WINNEBAGO — In another year a familiar landmark will be gone as a new $750,000 administration building for Winnebago State Hospital opens its doors.

Main Hall, opened in 1873 and for many years the only patient housing facility at Winnebago State Hospital, will be replaced by a new two-story with basement structure.

The State Building Commission is expected to release funds sometime this month which will authorize the construction planning. Bids for the construction may be taken sometime in late spring. The program planning for the structure already has been completed.

6th Major Unit
The new administration building is the sixth major patient housing and service building constructed in the last 15 years. It will bring up to $14 million the building costs authorized by the state legislature.

All of these buildings have been replacements for old buildings rather than expansion of patient facilities. The present population of 715 patients is half of the projected total for this year when a long-range projection was made 15 years ago.

Estimates then were for about 1,500 patients at Winnebago State Hospital by 1965. The state hospital then had 1,032 patients. This included 845 in the Main Building, 119 in the cottages opened in 1930 and 68 in the barracks buildings moved from Truax Field at Madison in 1948.

Cites 3 Factors

Dr. Darold Treffert, superintendent, cited three factors for the decrease in patient population. First was the ability to secure sufficient staff so that patient treatment could be improved. From a ratio of about 500 employees for 1,000 patients in 1950, there are now about 750 employees for the 715 patients.

Second factor is the new methods for patient treatment, including the new drugs now available.

The third factor is the local resources and facilities, such as guidance centers, after-care projects and half way houses which play a major role in mental illness recovery.

Dr. Treffert indicated the average stay of a hospital patient now is 105 days. This results in a lower average daily patient population even though the same number of persons are handled each year now as were handled when the patient population was considerably higher.

Number of Youths Increases

The number of children and adolescents being admitted for patient treatment has greatly increased, he pointed out. Where it used to be about 3 per cent of the total number of patients, it is now about 16 per cent, or one out of every six patients.

Since 1960 the number of children and adolescents has grown from 49 to 150 at the end of 1965. These children are now housed in Hughes Hall.

First of the post war buildings was the $2.6 million Kempster Hall opened in August of 1951. This enabled moving patients out of the south cottage, making that building available for students.

Patient population was 718 in the Main Building, 61 in the North Cottage, 62 in the barracks, and 216 in Kempster Hall, a total of 1,057.

Opened in November

The $3 million Hughes Hall opened in November of 1956, now houses the children and adolescents plus half of the continued treatment wards for women. Ultimately, Hughes Hall may be used only for children and adolescent patient housing.

Kempster Hall now serves as the admissions building and the medical surgical unit. The new Gordon Hall, opened in 1964, serves as the geriatric and alcohol unit. It was built at a cost of $2,549,841.

Patient population was down to 634 on the average before Gordon Hall was opened. There with the moving of patients out of the 92-year-old Main Building.

Structure For Adult

Now under construction is the new Sherman Hall at an estimated cost of $2.6 million. This building is expected to be ready by November of 1967 and will house the adult patients now in Hughes Hall and the Main Building. Still in the Main Building are about 140 male patients in the continued treatment center.

The new Administration Building also is expected to be ready for occupancy in November of 1967. All patients then will be out of the Main Building and the offices relocated in the new Administration Building.

The rear extension of the Main Building will be razed this year and the new Administration Building built at that location, immediately behind the Main Building.

Long Range Plans

Long-range plans call for construction of a chapel building since the present chapel is in the rear section of the Main Building. After that may come a housing unit for student nurses. The state hospital now provides training for both registered and licensed practical nurses and expects to add occupational therapy and musical therapy affiliations.

Practice teachers for the children and adolescent patients, also may be housed in such a building. No priority has been assigned such a building, Paul H. Thies, business manager, pointed out.

Dr. Treffert credited the new building with a major part in reducing the length of stay for patients and the lower patient population. Surroundings affect both the patient and staff morale, he cited, adding that the character of an entire ward changes with a move from an older building into a new building.

Dangers Reduced

The construction program also has helped the state hospital receive accreditation from the Joint Commission on Hospital Accreditation. One reason is that the danger of fire and

No two bar associations carry out their legal aid programs exactly alike. And, in fact, some counties, especially those with small populations and an only mildly active bar group, have no established legal aid provisions.

Sheboygan County residents in need of legal assistance but short on funds may be assigned counsel by Atty. Peter W. Reiss, and the two members of his legal aid staff. Any one of 85 attorneys comprising the county bar may be asked to volunteer his service. Sheboygan County has had a legal aid plan for more than 10 years, according to Atty. John S. Walter, county bar president.

Legal aid committees in some counties prefer not to handle divorce actions. Examples are in Sheboygan and Waupaca counties.

The Calumet County Bar Association provided for such a committee two years ago. Any one of 11 attorneys donates his services when the need arises.

The Manitowoc County Bar Association has had a legal aid committee for about the same number of years and officials said most of the cases referred to attorneys on a gratis basis are of an "advice nature."

The Brown County legal aid office is financed by the bar association and United Fund monies. In all other area counties any expenses incurred are absorbed by bar associations and individual attorneys.

As one attorney said, "There which provides mental help is no reason for anyone legitimately needing counsel to want for it."

Winnebago representatives, present at Friday morning's conference with the Interior Department representatives, held at Wilderness Springs trout farm at New London, were Walter Weideman, Winnebago County ASCS committee chair-man, William Plummer, Ralph Zimmerman, Robert Hafemeister and George Framberger. Soil and Water Work Unit conservationist, Dennis R. Kraft, chief land-use planner of the Wolf River Commission, also participated in the Friday morning planning discussions.

Hafemeister reported to the group: "At one time there was a vast area at the mouth of the Fox known as 'Hay Bend'."

The area was so named because in the summertime farmers floated their hay mow-ers and horses to the marshy area by barges and rafts to cut the marsh hay for winter livestock feeding. About 20 years ago, a heavy ice flow removed large sections of the bogs and marshy islands from the area. Unless the existing islands, bogs and marshy area, which are extremely valuable for the preservation and propa-gation of waterfowl and wildlife, are restored and protected, the future wildlife resources which have been so much a part of the recreational and scenic resourc-es of the southern Wolf River region counties, including Win-nebago County, will be lost."

Rothwell Most Likely Candidate For State Higher Education Chief

Appointment of Executive for Coordinating Committee May be at Session Wednesday

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Runge acknowledges that he is a candidate. Rothwell has declined comment to question-ers.

Evidently one of the reserva-tions about Runge relates to his University-oriented background. Legislators and Gov. Knowles, when they expanded and reor-ganized the top policy-making board indicated they wanted an absolutely independent and ob-jective management of the planning program.

Professional Association

Rothwell has an advantage also in the fact that he has had a long professional association with some of the most influ-ential men in higher education, including the members of the boards of regents of the state university system and the Uni-versity of Wisconsin and with administration, a nonpartisan reputation, and the prestige of his statewide election in what is regarded as the most important office in the planning and budgeting of the hugely expand-ing state-supported program of higher education.

Two Considered

One statewide source in a ating Committee has discussed position to be closely informed on such strategic developments for its chief staff officer, which says that the only two men who would be a considerable boost will be seriously considered for the top staff job will be sent earnings and a significant contribution to his state retire-ment account.

An imponderable in the Rothwell situation is the problem of predecessor committee, and has been kept on by the new superintendency, in the event he committee as acting director leaves the office to accept the

WSU-O Offers Variety Of Courses in 14 Fields

OSHKOSH — Persons enroll-ing in the continuing education program at Wisconsin State University for the second se-mester have 70 different cours-es from which to choose. Late afternoon, evening and Saturday morning classes are being of-fered, according to Dr. Harold D. Crouse, director of extended services.

Subjects in the fields of art, business administration, com-puter science, economics, edu-cation, English, history, mathe-matics, political science, psy-chology, physics, music, speech and sociology will be taught. The curriculum includes both undergraduate and graduate courses.

Evening classes begin the week of Jan. 24. Saturday classes start Jan. 29 and late afternoon classes begin the week of Jan. 31. Registration for all late afternoon and evening courses will be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Jan. 17 and 18 in room 230 obtained from Dr. Crouse or of Dempsey Hall. Registration from Dr. Pyle.

Graduate courses tentatively scheduled include four in educa-tion, three in English and psychology, two in history, and one each in physics, music and speech. Students enrolling in graduate classes must have the approval of Dr. Everett G. Pyle, dean of the graduate school.

Graduate courses are open to persons admitted to WSU-O's graduate program or to those who want the credits transfer-red to another graduate school to which they have been admit-ted.

Seventeen class meetings are required of graduate students, with each class meeting two and a half hours.

Fees for graduate classes are $18 per credit while undergrad-uate fees are $13 per credit plus a book rental fee.

Brochures, application forms and other information can be obtained from Dr. Crouse or of Dempsey Hall. Registration from Dr. Pyle.

The Tale Of A Tiny, Tender Pea.

In the larger scope of things, a single little pea isn't too important — especially if you buy a ton or two of them at a time. So we really can't blame the big chain store fellows if their "perfect pea percentage" isn't quite 100%. Cause you tend to look at it in a different light if you get one of the larger ones for dinner.

We have to admit that we're not one of the giants — yet. So we have to get small, fresh bananas more often. After we bring the little marvels back to the store we take very special care of them for as long as they're here — which isn't very long because of the nice price.

Actually, we've got the big things (except for those chain stores) pretty well in hand — now we're happy about the little things. Like perfect peas. And people who smile. And the size of your bill at the check-out counter.

Plenty of Free Parking In Rear of Store

1421 N. Richmond St.

Amid a profusion of groceries and drygoods, Lester Norton waits on a customer (obscured by the merchandise) at his quaint Calumetville general store.

The building has seen few changes in its 130-year history. Right is an exterior view.

19th, 20th Centuries Clash In Quaint Calumetville Store

CALUMETVILLE — Enjoyed Lake Winnebago's east shore, is the plain 2½-story building site for its quaintness and used the general store operated by on the west side of U.S. 151 because it performs a needed Lester Nelson. Unpretentious on the outside, inside the 19th and 20th centuries jostle each other in what first seems like a hopeless confusion of unrelated articles, but upon second and third inspection, comes to make very good sense.

The building probably has been used longer as a store than any other for miles around, and was at one time a stagecoach stop and post office for Calumetville. Framed in oak and sitting on three-foot thick stone foundations, its pine front has remained solid for what is believed to be nearly 130 years. An addition to the north is relatively new, having been built in the 1890's and was used as a dry goods store and cobbler shop.

German Owner

The present owner, Lester Nelson, has operated the store for 11 years. He bought it from Martin Baltz, Proprietors before him were the Thurmachers, Jacky Brothers and Albert Mahner. Mahner obtained it after it had been for over 20 years, through the Civil War period in the hands of a Mahner in Germany. The first Leopold, Mahner, who owned the store in 1854, had died and title went to a German relative.

The land was apparently homesteaded in 1835 and a patent issued to Morgan L. Martin in 1837. It is believed the building dates from this time because of the requirement that the land had to be improved before title could be received.

In the midst of a rural and summer cottage area, Nelson's wide variety of goods for sale is welcomed.

Bottles For Lambs

Farmers find work pants and shirts, heavy gloves, and work shoes, as well as all the staple food items, Nelson says people have driven miles to buy baby bottles to feed orphan lambs and he keeps doll bottles which are good too feed kittens and puppies.

A shelf of remedies is included, for which he holds a rural pharmacy permit.

Fishing tackle, paint and toys occupy space around the staples. There are shelves of canned goods, but below them are the old-fashioned bins with slanting lids which were once found in every grocery store to hold the bulk of goods now sold in packages.

Nelson said some of the boards on the interior of the bins came from wooden cases used to transport groceries from the East in a day long before cardboard containers. Thick boards kept the groceries safe during journeys by ship and wagon. Thriftily, these became part of the store bins.

Won't Change

At the rear, modern refrigerated cabinets for meat, milk, cheese and ice cream adjoin a counter that dates to another day. Modern candy bars are in an old-fashioned cabinet with glass doors.

Once tempted to change it, Nelson yielded to entreaties to leave it as it was. Calumetville's oldest resident, Mrs. Jessie Huebschman, remembers it as far back as when Miss Mahner was married to one of the Jacky brothers. A postcard, postmarked October 24, 1907, when the post office was still in the store, shows it with a horse and buggy in front, but looking little different.

To Nelson, purchase of the store represented "My dream come true." A native of the east shore of Lake Winnebago, he had operated a store in Milwaukee for a time and then bought a small farm in the Brother-town area. Because the small farm didn't require all his time, he wanted a business to supplement it and was delighted to buy the old store. The years he has been in it he calls "the happiest of my life."

Stream of Salesmen

"There are no dull moments," Nelson says. Farmers, villagers, cottage dwellers in summer and fishermen in winter keep him interested and entertained. And beside them, a stream of salesmen keeps him posted on what is going on.

On a front window lettering of another day says "Groceries". Inside that window is an antique clock, still working, which advertises baking powder. "I could sell that any week," he says of the collectors who eye it covetously.

$200 Damage Results In Chilton Accident

CHILTON — Damage exceeding $200 resulted when the car driven by John R. Schoen, 23 1/2 Baldwin St., collided with the vehicle driven by Walter C. Wenig, 36 route 2, Chilton at 2:40 p.m. Wednesday on East Main Street in Chilton.

Schoen, an employee at the Hingess Chevrolet garage was traveling east on Main Street returning the car owned by Howard Gruett, Gravesville, which had been in the garage for a check.

Wenig told city police he had turned onto East Main from Adams Street and did not see the other car until it was too late to avoid the collision.

The auto driven by Schoen received damage to the right front fender, lights and grill and at the university's textbook library in the basement of the OSHKOSH — The Titan Band composed of 74 musicians will open the program with three selections: March, Carillon, Irish Tune from County Derry and Military Symphony in F.

In the second part of the program Dr. James Neilson, educational director for the G. LeBlanc Corp., Kenosha will be the guest director for the clarinet choir's portion of the concert.

Dr. Neilson is a former director of band and orchestra at Oklahoma City University. He has gained national recognition as a clinician, lecturer, conductor and adjudicator of high school college and professional groups. He recently conducted a similar clarinet choir for the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association Convention.

Symphonic Prelude
The concert band directed by Dr. Thomas E. Neice will open the final part of the program with a symphonic prelude based on "Black is the Color of My True Love's Hair." Gerrie Vogt, private trombone instructor at WSU-O and longtime area teacher who is being honored by the Music Department will direct "Marche Lorraine."

The two final selections by the concert band will be "Margaret Suite," a modern polyrhythmic suite for band and "Concertino for Band."

Campaign Fund Limit Called 'Meaningless'

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Politicians are spilling some of their most important trade secrets as a legislative-citizens committee begins the delicate job of reviewing the laws setting out prohibited practices in the management of election campaign and the courtship of the voters.

According to Assemblyman Vincent Mathews, a Waukesha County Democrat who is chairman of the project, the laws require "some drastic reforms," but the comments of his colleagues at the first work session this week indicated some doubts among them that significant reforms will be agreed upon.

Draws No Dissent

At the same time, however, their random discussions over a period of several hours served to verify what most politically informed citizens have known or suspected: that the ostensible controls in the present laws are widely ignored, evaded or violated.

Chairman Louis Hanson of the state Democratic party, a member of the committee, put it most candidly when he offered his view that "the laws here are to a large extent unenforceable."

The comment drew no dissent from the other members of the committee, most of them practicing politicians representing the two major political parties.

The original intention of the so-called "corrupt practices" act which sets out the rules for the conduct of election campaigns and the use of money for the influencing of votes was to impose limits upon the amount of money a party or a candidate could use as well as limits upon the methods of spending and controls over the source of campaign contributions.

But the members of the committee cheerfully conceded, almost as a first order of business when they held their first meeting that the ostensible campaign fund limits are meaningless, and that the parties have evolved a means to circumvent some of the key provisions intended to control the source of election campaign money.

Ever since the famed Kohl case — involving a former governor of Wisconsin who was elected more than 30 years ago — parties and candidates have tended to work through voluntary committees in the financing of their election drives, with the result that the intended campaign fund limitations have not applied.

The state supreme court held in that case that the candidate for elective office cannot be bound by the expenditures of a voluntary group over which he has no control. Thus a casual reading of the law by an uninitiated politician running for the first time might indicate that a candidate for a state-wide office such as governor or senator cannot spend more than $10,000. Yet it is now freely conceded that a campaign fund of $100,000 is regarded as minimum and that most of such campaigns in recent years have involved the expenditure of up to $200,000 or more.

The restrictions have been waived by the supreme court finding that such spending by a separate group on behalf of the candidate cannot be charged to the candidate directly.

Legal Evasion

Similarly, the law evidently intends to make political campaign contributions by corporations illegal. But time and experience have provided legal means for the evasion of that control, through the universal use by parties and candidates of "caused" program books and similar devices through which money is collected from corporate contributors in the form of advertising space sales.

Some politicians are uneasy about the device. Youthful Fred Kessler of Milwaukee, an assemblyman member of the study committee, complained about the practice at the session of the group here and suggested that the legislature act to force brightly to legalize that device which is now used as a standard tactic by all major candidates and non-parties. But he got little response.

Notably non-committal were Ody Fish, the Republican state chairman, and Hanson. Some observers speculated that like other politicians, Fish and Hanson are content with the present arrangements and will be reluctant to disturb them. The two party organizations are today more equally matched in organization size, staff, and financial resources than ever before.

But the discussions disclosed an underlying theme of concern about the dramatic inflation of campaign costs, a fact that has worried privately almost all of the politicians who have run for office in competitive situations in recent years. Taking the state political situation as a whole, the cost of running campaigns has doubled at least, during the last decade, according to the private calculations of representative party management experts. During the committee meeting, GOP Chairman Fish predicted that the cost of running an effective congressional campaign in a single district will soon reach $100,000. Translated into state-wide terms, that would be the equivalent of a million dollars in each party. One leading Wisconsin politician who has run successfully in several state-wide elections now says that he would advise any first time candidate for U.S. senator or governor, in the present Wisconsin partisan alignment, to arrange a campaign chest of $250,000.

Politicians of both parties are aware of the dangers in the situation, including the increased dependence of office holders on seeking reelection upon campaign funds donors. Parties have repeatedly tried to democratize the campaign budget by driving for contributions in smaller amounts for larger numbers of people, but with indifferent results.

Chairman Mathews of the study committee is an advocate of a new attempt to write clear cut and enforceable limits into the law for candidate and party expenditures.

The day will come when a man must be a millionaire, or the friend of millionaires, to be able to run for office, he complained as he opened the first discussion session of his group.

But there is yet no concrete showing that there is a consensus in favor of strict political budget limits. The skittish attitude of a majority of the committee as suggested during the first meeting hinted broadly that they may content themselves with minor improvements in the regulatory laws and defer action on the central issue to a later time.

Valley Donors Give to UW

Individuals, Firm From Neenah Listed In $1,750 Total

MADISON — A total of $1,750 in gifts and grants from Fox Valley area donors was accepted Friday by the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents on behalf of the University.

The J. W. Hewitt Machine Co. of Neenah gave the university $1,400 for student aid, to be used to continue a scholarship program for male undergraduates sponsored by the company.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Allen of Appleton presented the university with a $300 gift to be used in research in recognition of the work of Dr. Patricia Joon and Dr. L. L. G. Thatcher, both of the UW Children's Hospital.

A $50 gift made by Eunice S. Lencion of Weyauwega is to be used as partial payment of the expenses of a student majoring in landscape architecture at UW who attends a meeting of the American Society of Landscape Architects in May, 1966. The convention is to be at Yosemite National Park.

The Fox Valley area gifts were part of a package of gifts, grants and U.S. government contracts totaling $34,446,000 accepted by the regents.

Key Senators Disagree on Bombing Lull

Russell Urges Blasting Ports; Mansfield Warns of Larger War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key senators divided sharply Saturday on whether President Johnson should continue the pause in bombing of North Viet Nam in the absence of any public sign of Communist willingness to negotiate.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who has warned that the failure to start peace talks could lead to general war in Asia, said he is supporting the President's peace offensive 100 per cent.

"I am hopeful that the end is not in sight in the President's efforts to bring about honorable negotiations," Mansfield said.

Critics Lull

However, Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., of the Senate Armed Services Committee said in a separate interview that "the suspension of bombing has gone on too long already." He said he believes the Communists are using the lull to build up the air defenses. As he has before, he advocated bombing of North Viet Nam port facilities.

"I see no difference between bombing their ports and bombing their highways, roads and ground supply routes," he said.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he doesn't know whether any peace feelers have come from the Communist side and isn't sure whether the bombing lull will accomplish anything.

Support Johnson

Dirksen took occasion to reaffirm that he is supporting Johnson's course in Viet Nam despite the Illinois senator's comments Friday that the United States must force the Viet Cong to lay down their arms before there can be negotiations. Johnson has offered to begin talks without prior conditions.

Mansfield said he does not believe unconditional surrender of the Viet Cong should be made a requirement for peace talks.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., was reported to be supporting Johnson's suspension of bombing and the President's efforts to enlist aid in major world capitals toward bringing about peace talks.

Brief Fulbright

Although relations between the President and the Foreign Relations Committee chairman remain frosty because of the latter's criticism of U.S. troops use in the Dominican Republic, Johnson has acted to brief Fulbright on developments.

Undersecretary of State George W. Ball visited Fulbright at his vacation spot in Puerto Rico to inform the chairman of peace offensive aims.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., second ranking Democrat on the Foreign Relations group, said he feels that "we must escalate our military efforts" if there is no Communist response to the President's efforts.

5 Youths Found Slain in Beds

South Africa (AP) — Five white children from the same family were found murdered in their beds Saturday, police said.

Gavin Clark, 17, and two of his sisters, Heather, 14, and Fiona, 12, were believed to have been stabbed while the youngest two, Marlene, 8, and Stewart, 5, were apparently given fatal injections, police said.

The children's parents, Mr and Mrs. J. C. Clark, have not been living together for the last few weeks, police said.

Preminger Bloodied in Tiff in '21'

NEW YORK (AP) — Hollywood producer Otto Preminger received a bloody gash on his head Friday night during an argument in the plush 21 Club.

The Austrian-born Preminger, who produced such films as "Exodus," "St. Joan," "Advise and Consent" and "The Cardinal," was taken to New York Hospital for treatment of a cut.

None of the principals would discuss the incident Saturday, but the Journal-American reported Hollywood literary agent Irving Lazar bopped him with a glass during an argument over movie rights to Truman Capote's new murder mystery.

A celebrity studded crowd that included Craig Stevens, Gordon and Sheila MacRae, Molly Bostwick and David Merick witnessed the dispute.

Significant Data

The group cabled Sen. Wilam Fulbright, D-Ark., from Hanoi Tuesday asking a chance to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Members of the group are "to make available significant information which we believe is professor of American history not known to the American people, and perhaps not to the American government," a statement issued here said.

Fulbright was unavailable for comment but two members of Communist party.

Reds Deter Catholic Cardinal Vatican Visit for Wyszynski Banned

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski was reported Saturday to have been barred by the government from leaving Poland on the eve of his departure for the Vatican.

The spiritual leader of Polish Roman Catholics had planned to leave Sunday for Rome, presumably to report to Pope Paul VI on deteriorating church-state relations and growing obstacles to a papal visit to Poland later this year.

Polish Catholic sources said that when the cardinal left the Vatican Ecumenical Council last month he had instructions to start negotiations for a papal visit next May during the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Poland.

But informed Warsaw sources said the church was notified Friday by the premier's office that the primate's diplomatic passport to travel abroad had been withdrawn on grounds he had engaged in political activities harmful to the state on his last trip to Rome.

Letter to Bishop

Cardinal Wyszynski and the Polish bishops in Rome last month sent a letter to the bishops of West Germany asking them to join the millennium celebrations and to work for Polish-German reconciliation. The Communist government reacted with a storm of angry press attacks, accusing churchmen of meddling in foreign policy.

If the travel ban is continued, it would also keep the cardinal from making a planned trip to the United States and Canada next August to participate in Polish anniversary celebrations there.

The cardinal had been to Rome 11 times since October 1956, when the Communists freed him from three years of house arrest.

His office had treated the planned Vatican trip as a secret, but other sources said he was to leave Sunday by train. On his schedule, they said, was a modest celebration of the millennium with the Pope.

In Vatican City, reports of the travel ban hit like a bombshell. The Vatican had no official comment, however.

Food for Peace Under Scrutiny

Bill for Congress Stresses Possible Propaganda Values

WASHINGTON (AP) — The major farm legislation expected to engage the attention of Congress this year is the Food-for-Peace program under which $17 billion worth of American farm products have been either donated or sold at concessionary terms to needy countries since 1955.

Legislation authorizing disposal of what has been regarded as farm surpluses is due to expire at the end of this year. President Johnson undoubtedly will recommend an extension, but with possible significant changes.

Growing Problem

A growing problem of hunger abroad — a problem that has gained wide recognition and produced strong demands for greater American effort in solving — will put this legislation in a broader category than farm legislation. It may even become a major foreign policy issue, and as a consequence could be put into the hands of congressional foreign affairs committees instead of the agriculture committees.

There are strong demands that this program be given a change of emphasis. Heretofore it has been mainly one for helping stabilize American agriculture by moving surpluses to underdeveloped countries needing them.

There is much support for the idea that the program managers forget the surplus disposal objective of the past — largely because surpluses have been greatly reduced — and concentrate on using it as an instrument of foreign policy.

Under this change, American foods would be used primarily to bolster nutritional levels and economies of friendly countries striving to resist Communist pressure, both from within and from without.

The program would be used also as an instrument of propaganda—that is, to show the developing areas that this country's political and economic systems are able to produce more than communism can.

Strong Art Exhibition At WSU-O

Watercolors by Catherine Heintz At Dempsey Hall

BY DAVID F. WAGNER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — For those who stuffily contend that an artist must have formal training to be of worth, let the case of Catherine Garnes Heintz be considered.

Mrs. Heintz, an Oshkosh native who is an entirely self-taught watercolorist, has been the envy of many contemporaries during the past year, accumulating an impressive list of sales. Her secret of acceptance is basic: her sometimes loose, sometimes tight style contains a wide variety of subject matter, presented in enjoyable depictions of material that has appeal to a vast audience.

Where many artists zero in on a limited number of subjects, Mrs. Heintz branches out into any field that strikes her fancy, and most are handled with a professional verve and competence that belies her lack of guidance. This is not to suggest, however, that Mrs. Heintz is an art rebel who will not accept suggestion; it is only to say that she has a natural talent that has matured without professional assistance.

At WSU-O Now

An outstanding collection of 21 of her paintings are currently on display at the Dempsey Hall third floor gallery at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh through the end of the month. The grouping is an accurate cross-section of the artist's mastering of her medium, ranging from abstract to expressionistic to impressionistic to realistic. Some of her most interesting work is impressionism; notably "On to Winter."

Mastering of watercolor is a difficult accomplishment. There is no chance for reworking the painting; it must be completed here and now. In this respect, Mrs. Heintz has achieved a victory over the limitations of her medium, as evidenced in the obvious confidence with which she approaches her work; a confidence of technical competence seems to exude from the paintings.

"I have explored the possibilities of many mediums through the years, but watercolor remained my true love," Mrs. Heintz said.

Many Major Awards

She has been the recipient of many major awards at various shows throughout the state and many of her works have been purchased by public institutions and private collectors throughout the United States.

Her exhibits include: Rahr Civic Center and Public Museum, Manitowoc; Wayland Academy, Beaver Dam; Paine Art Center and the Public Museum, Oshkosh; Madison Art Center; Neville Museum, Green Bay; Wisconsin State Fair Professional Class, and many others.

All works on display at WSU-O are for sale, and the prices are in direct relation to her success; one cannot get better for the money. In fact, one would have trouble getting better for twice the money.

Dik Schwanke In One-Man Kenosha Show

OSHKOSH — A one-man show of art by Dik H. Schwanke, Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh art department teacher, is now being featured at the Kenosha Public Museum. It will continue until Feb. 8.

The exhibition features approximately 50 pieces, including drawings in pencil, stoneware pottery and wall hangings of clay and wood.

Schwanke was featured on Nov. 16 in a pilot art series program on WMVS-TV, Channel 10, Milwaukee. The TV program highlighted Schwanke's pottery and ceramic sculpture as well as his drawings. Other sequences were concerned with his art philosophy, creative techniques and associate influences.

The Oshkosh artist's television appearance was sponsored by the Milwaukee Art Center in cooperation with WMVS-TV.

Priebe Watercolors to Open At Bergstrom Center, Neenah

NEENAH — An exhibition of a group of 30 watercolor paintings by Karl Priebe, eminent Milwaukee artist, will open Wednesday at the Bergstrom Art Center, 165 N. Park Ave.

Priebe is widely known for his symbolic paintings of mystic people and enchanting birds. Influenced by many sojourns in Mexico, his sensitive personal vision also includes vivid concepts of real persons. With the exception of several pictures loaned from private collections, all items will be for sale.

Illustrated Lecture, 'Spain and Prado,' Slated for Paine

OSHKOSH — An illustrated lecture, "Spain and the Prado," will climax the current exhibition of Spanish Colonial Religious Art at the Paine Art Center here.

The lecture, by John W. Parker of the Art Institute of Chicago, will be given at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Center.

Wednesday will be the last day of the show.

Court Rules Schools, Foundation Should Get Equal Estate Shares

MADISON, AP — A federal court has ruled that a foundation and the University of Wisconsin must share equally in the estate of a $541,000 trust created by a donor.

The ruling in the case of Estate of Paine v. Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin was handed down by the U.S. Supreme Court in a 5-4 decision.

The foundation, which was created by the donor, had argued that it should receive the entire estate, claiming that it was the primary beneficiary of the donor's gifts.

The court, however, ruled that the foundation and the university should share the estate equally, as both were intended beneficiaries of the donor's gifts.

The Many Faces of Karlos Moser

Karlos Moser Comes Long Way

Symphony Director Is 'Man of Music'

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Karlos Moser, newly appointed director of the Fox Valley Civic Symphony, is a man of music.

But he is also a man of boundless energy, artistic skill and accomplishment, of demanding perfection and professionalism, and of humor.

He has come a long way since his birth to American missionary parents on the Matto Grosso in Brazil's far west back country. All the way to the Fox Valley, in fact.

But stops along the way have introduced him to the artistic world, and have made him one of the new, bright young men in American musical and operatic performing, conducting and directing.

He has shared the podium of music halls with conductors such as Boris Goldovsky, and has come away praised by the critics for his performances. And he has worked with Gypsy Rose Lee in summer productions of musical comedies. He has taken the performing platform in such places as Casablanca, Morocco, Salzburg, Austria, Sao Paulo, Brazil — and at the Fox Valley Center.

moving art form in today's society.

"We do not build houses structurally the way that people did 150 years ago," he continues. "And yet we feel that music that old is necessarily 'good.' I'm making a pitch for modern music. I guess."

But the move to modern music should be made slowly, Moser emphasizes. "I love the old music, and we should have a chance to enjoy its value. But we should never make the mistake of thinking that what we consider as this 'art' or 'classical' music is live, vital, American music. It is museum music."

Other, equally important reasons also figured in Moser's decision to accept the Fox Valley post.

"It is gratifying to find that material that exists in the Fox Valley," he says. "It is talent which is by and large unused. There are many amateur players there who never before have had the opportunity to develop to the full extent of their training."

Improve Skills

"There are many of these people who have learned music in the past and want to brush up on their technique and abilities, and they really should be given the chance. That is one of the values of a program such as this civic symphony."

"Then there is the physical reason — the chance for group delights. The whole is greater than the sum of its parts, when it comes to orchestral music, and these people should be given the chance of enjoying the pleasures of group playing."

"There is also the need to serve the community, which must have a chance to keep its ears in practice. The live musical experience means so much. A civic symphony provides the chance for the community to experience the real rewards and the pitfalls of a live performance as compared with a recording. And the demands are greater in the live performance, so again the rewards are greater. Music that way is just like any athletic event. The greater the demands, the greater the rewards, both for the performer and the audience."

The conductor believes that the new group can exist alongside and be benefited by the existing Lawrence University orchestra, which is now made up almost entirely of students. Former orchestra members will turn to the new Fox Valley group, he feels.

Moser's career has been divided between the great interests of his life: teaching, conducting and performing.

He expects that the start of the Fox Valley civic symphony will allow him to do more of the latter, and to continue his interest in teaching.

During his last year at the western university he took on the position of president and conductor of the Denver Businessmen's Orchestra for one season, providing an opportunity for his conducting debut, and a background in civic symphonic work that will serve him in good stead in his Fox Valley position.

Following the earning of his advanced musical degree he traveled to New York, where he studied under Boris Goldovsky, maestro of a famed touring opera company.

"It was Goldovsky who first interested me in operatic conducting and stage directing," Moser says. "Then through him I became an opera coach, teaching at the New England Conservatory of Music, and conducted operas of his company while on tour."

Moser also conducted in Sarasota, Florida, and spent a year in Louisville, Kentucky, where he conducted the University of Louisville orchestra in a number of programs, and served as acting director of the Kentucky Opera Association. In that position he produced, directed and conducted four operas.

Joined UW Staff

In 1961 he joined the UW staff, first as a visiting lecturer in music, then as assistant professor, and finally serving as associate professor and director of the Opera Workshop. His principal interest while on campus has been in opera, "new, old and traditional," as he says.

His wife Arcenia, a talented soprano and mother of their two daughters, Maia and Elissa, often takes part in Opera Workshop productions.

Fox Valley area musicians will find Moser a conductor and director of boundless energies, given to speedy quips and puns in the midst of conducting, usually at his own expense.

At work on a rehearsal of the Opera Workshop, he is given to fast darts from instrument to stage center, directing performers with hands, gestures and shouted commands, and leaps from the stage back to orchestra pit.

"My vocal range is loud to drastic," he laughs. "My voice is piercing. But I believe in temperament that does not get lost."

Tall, dark and wavy-haired, Moser for four years cut quite a swath on the Madison campus. He then sported one of the most picturesque and distinguished beards on a bearded campus.

But in August he shaved it off.

"It was part of my image," Moser admits. "But I also admit that it was pretty tiring, having an image 24 hours a day."

Fox Valley Artists' Show Opens Today

MANITOWOC — A work of the Fox Valley Artists' members will be on exhibit at the Rahr Civic Center here starting today, and continuing through Jan. 10.

An opening reception will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. with the general public invited. The reception is headed by Mrs. Bertha Green, Two Rivers.

One of the largest and fastest growing cultural groups in the state, the Fox Valley Artists' includes membership from Green Bay, Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Manitowoc, Berlin, Sheboygan and the entire Fox River Valley.

Moser plays the piano as an orchestral soloist, the cello and the bass.

He earned a bachelor's degree at Princeton University 20 years after his birth, studied at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, and obtained a master's degree in music from Colorado University in 1956.

Reeve Exhibit Was Good, But Not 'Fabulous'

OSHKOSH — "The Fabulous Decade," a collection of prints of art works of the 1950s, may be good, but it is not fabulous.

Currently on display at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh's Reeve Memorial Union, the exhibition purportedly represents a cross-section of the best of the 1950s, an era of heavy leaning toward abstract expressionism. Though technically, no single school dominates, there is a tendency toward sameness which at times approaches boredom. Individual prints, however, scattered throughout the show, pick up the pace and make the venture worthwhile.

The work of leading American and European printmakers, the traveling exhibition was organized by the Free Library of Philadelphia and is toured under the auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

Many Techniques Used

A variety of techniques are utilized, including etching, engraving, woodcut, lithograph, aquatint, etc. Perhaps the most profound attraction in the display is the use of color in the printmaking process. The technical excellence of the art in many cases exceeds the subject matter.

Individual highlights were fewer than a show of this number of works might have been, but the notable works were present.

The effective use of color printmaking is best defined in Karel Appel's 1959 work, "The Lovers," in which red, blue and orange dominate.

Abstract futurism at its best is seen in Seong Moy's "The Little '500'" (1959), a jumbled representation of what appeared to be three Arabs on either bicycles or unicycles.

The intricate, wandering lines of Stahly William Hayter's "Witches Sabbath" (1956) are intriguing, set off by green and muted purple tones.

Sad, Grotesque

Sadness is written into Arthur Danto's "Spinoza as a Young Man" (1956) and the grotesque "Three Mayan Women" (1955) by Adolf Dehn sets the viewer back a pace or two.

The contrast of delicate work and brutal appearance jump from Rudy Pozzatti's "Venetian Domes" (1955).

Among the new techniques seen in the exhibition are the calligraph, originated by Glen Alps, consisting of objects glued to a metal plate which is then run through an etching press.

The show is open to the public free of charge from noon to 10 p.m. daily. It closes Jan. 23.

First of Seven Films on Art Slated for Today

NEENAH — The first of seven documentary films about art is scheduled to be shown at 5 p.m. today in the main gallery of the Bergstrom Art Center, 165 North Park Ave.

The film will run about 25 minutes, and will be open to the public.

Produced by the Hon. Robert Erskine and directed by John Gibbon, Arcene's Pearl is an unusual film in superb color. Many of the prints used in this filmed history of printmaking are from the St. George Gallery, London. Some great artists are Francis Canaletto, Diener, and Rembrandt are among those who have used the print process since the Middle Ages.

The film brings to the screen not only the beautiful prints of old masters, but the work of today's working artists, the technical processes used in printing.

Strange Equipment

Strange equipment and techniques are used in the making of a print, and the history of the process is traced in the film.

Beginning with the earliest known print, the film traces the development of the process through the centuries, showing the various techniques used in the making of a print.

'The Fighting Minister' Pistol-Packing Padre Aids Army in Battle

By JOHN T. WHEELER
BEN CAT, South Viet Nam (AP) — He's a pistol-packing, grenade-toting chaplain, ministering to the Screaming Eagles in South Viet Nam's jungle war. Capt. Curtis Bowers, 33, Lancaster, Pa., looks the part of the fighting minister he has been dubbed by the men of the 1st Battalion of the 327th Infantry. The battalion is one of three in the Screaming Eagles, the 101st Airborne Brigade, stationed in Viet Nam.

His face is a mixture of choir-boy innocence and the ruggedness of a battle-hardened paratroop company commander.

So far the Church of Nazarene minister has accompanied the battalion on every major operation in Viet Nam as well as tagging along on many company and platoon-size actions.

The 45-caliber pistol and fragmentation grenade hung on his pistol belt?

"Not a Drag."

"I don't want to be a drag when the going is hot and heavy. I ought to be able to earn my own keep with these men. But I would only use these things in self-defense — my job is to save souls and not to take lives."

So far, the chaplain says, he hasn't had to use either grenade or pistol.

Although most of them don't, chaplains carrying arms in Viet Nam represent a reality in a war where a peaceful-seeming bit of jungle or rubber plantation can erupt in bloody hand-to-hand fighting without warning.

Like other officers, Chaplain Bowers turns his collar under in the field so his rank cannot be spotted by a sniper.

Likewise, he makes sure the small silver cross on his camouflaged helmet is hidden by a leaf. From a distance it could easily be mistaken for an officer's silver bar.

During a recent operation eight miles northwest of here, Chaplain Bowers was touring the perimeter chatting with the troops when the vicious snapping of Viet Cong automatic weapons filled the air around his head.

He hit the dirt behind a tree and moments later continued his rounds.

Religious Problem

Bowers, whose wife, Doris, and their three children live in Lexington, Ky., says the job of helping the men of his battalion meet the realities of war is the most challenging he could imagine.

"When we first came, the men's biggest worry was whether a Christian could kill and still be a good Christian. Most have settled this for themselves now.

"Lately they are worried about their families if they get that telegram (Defense Department notification of next of kin in case of death or wound)."

After the initial rounds of sniper fire by the Viet Cong following the heliborne assault, the operation became a job of routine and mostly uneventful sweeping the area.

"You know, I'm glad it was cold (unopposed) landing today. I prayed it wouldn't be a bad day for the battalion or the families."

South African Researchers Find 'No Ill Effects'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — An experimental group of pigs showed a marked increase in weight when they were fed wine. South African researchers found.

For six months each animal had a pint of chilled white wine a day with regular meals.

"There were no ill effects except when the pigs did not take enough food with their wine," said Dr. W. A. Vosloo, who headed the research team from the Stellenbosch Elsenburg College of Agriculture.

"The pigs that took proportionate quantities of food and wine were more relaxed and went to sleep soon afterward. But those pigs which took too much wine became fractious."

"Their hair stood on end and they blundered about noisily and unsteadily until eventually they fell asleep."

The pigs showed a 9.8 per cent improvement in feed conversion, — they consumed less feed than normal to reach slaughter weight of 200 pounds.

Analysis of carcasses showed the diet did not lead to excess fat deposits. The wine simply helped the animals to make better use of what they ate, said Vosloo.

He explained this could have been achieved in three ways: by the bank said in its monthly business review.

The study estimated that the average level of currency held figures out to about $500 for a family of three although the actual typical family unit probably holds only $50-200."

The continuing Mediterranean influence on the Home Furnishings scene is evident in the recliner, below, with high legs and sculptured cushion back. The wood is distressed, providing additional texture interest. The room at right was one of the 'How America Can Live' settings at the Furniture Market. The spindle poles support shelves and storage cabinets and the table-desk gives a functional work area. Designed by Ruth Eske for exhibitor Russ Stoner Designs, Inc., the room might serve both as an informal office and a part of the family room that mixes fun and hobbies.

Home Living

Designers Respond to Growing Sophistication of Homemakers

BY JEAN OTTO
Post-Crescent Women's Editor

CHICAGO—There's a revolution going on in the furniture industry, and the American homemaker is at the heart of the change. This homemaker, single or married, female or male, has at last managed to make a loud voice, and the furniture men are listening.

This year's International Home Furnishings Show at the American Furniture Mart and the Chicago Merchandise Mart is crammed floor after floor, with the kinds of rooms women would like to put in their purses and take home. The fact that so many do just that is evidenced in the comment by Roger Clapp, president of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers, that in this fifth year of our economic boom, total home furnishing shipments are estimated to be $6,270,000,000 retail. Each year has been better than the preceding and by '75 the estimate is that 11 billion retail dollars will be channeled through the furniture industry.

Any industry would be more than foolhardy not to listen to the individuals who are the source of this boom. At a Tuesday morning press conference at the Furniture Club of America in the American Furniture Mart, one of the news writers suggested that manufacturers adopt as their slogan, 'All business is local.'

The buyers, men and women from furniture outlets all over the country, had 'local' in mind as they made the market. They shopped with discerning eye for the folks back home, and they had a tremendous choice from which to please their customers.

First to be noticed were the wood pieces, massive in size but so skillfully designed that they missed being heavy or cumbersome looking. Entire walls of matching pieces cater to today's living. There are places for TV and hi-fi stereo equipment, books, desks, bars.

All looks solid and enduring as if, in spite of being brand new, it has already survived for ages and is going to last for generations more.

Part of this effect of solidarity is achieved by distressing. Pines are darkened and aged, looking like treasured family possessions the day they enter the home. The manufacturer said of a massive all-purpose desk that pine is soft and will distress naturally with use. What they have done is give it a head start.

Fruitwoods are in the majority, with distressing carried out on cherry, pecan and walnut. We saw only one mahogany dining group. The woods are rich, veneers elegant and craftsmanship excellent, with many pieces dowel-joined.

The women's fashion market doesn't have a corner on the fun furs so popular in coats and jackets. The Red Fox rug is real fur and the would-be fur in the long-haired pile is by Bora, shown in Richardson-Nemcschaff's Formula II Group.

The heavy, solid-looking furniture in the room at right is a part of the new 'How America Can Live' settings at the Furniture Market. The room at right was one of the 'How America Can Live' settings at the Furniture Market. The spindle poles support shelves and storage cabinets and the table-desk gives a functional work area. Designed by Ruth Eske for exhibitor Russ Stoner Designs, Inc., the room might serve both as an informal office and a part of the family room that mixes fun and hobbies.

The contrast between the Mediterranean and colonial designs was emphasized in the light and romantic approach of Victorian. 'Gracety' shaping of chair framework and table bases, elegant fabric and marble top table are played against the gilt-washed white wood which is solid mahogany. Pelham, Shell and Leckie, Inc., showed the setting of 'How America Can Live' at the Merchandise Mart.

Furnishings Show New Home Living Grace

Much is being done in groupings of wall pieces as the abundance of our living and the widened cultural experience of the homemaker cause her to turn to the expression of stability. There is much patterning in doors and shelves, wide use of marble, fabrics that look rich and feel soft.

Velvet is the big news in upholstery fabrics. It is rich and cushiony, and in every color imaginable. It is given pattern effect by crushing, and informality in the use of everyday warm colors such as brown and green. Corduroy is also making big news. Wide wale and soft, it is as popular as velvet and just as appealing.

Prints Abound

Prints are everywhere. Cotton fabrics take to linen and nubby weaves, and are combined with miracle fibres for long wear, resiliency, color fastness and finish. Florals are favorites, with quilting in abundance, but the quilt stitching follows the outlines of the print, and thus achieves a look that is elegant without being dated or obvious. There was a scarcity of plaid in coverings, but checks made their mark in colonial settings, with the favorite a red and moss green.

Blue and green, in all shades and all combinations thereof, were the hits of the market color spectrum. They showed up together in prints, in solids, in accent pieces, and in every fabric imaginable. Red was also a high color, and gold was almost standard.

High Backs

In design the high backed tufted chair promises comfort and a place to rest a weary head. While backs are higher, they are generally narrower and more graceful looking. This trend toward grace is evident in every facet of furniture lines. Stark modern, so popular only a few years ago, has all but vanished from the scene. Even the Danish and Swedish modern were in small supply. Replacing them are French and Italian provincial — the Mediterranean look that designer Henry P. Glass says is an impossible amalgam of Colonial and Early American are the by-words today. But they are not simple. They have been given the "dress up" treatment, and fit into the modern America with such ease that they are clearly our own and happily here to stay.

The large looks in wood and upholstered pieces has apparently brought stylists into the lighter approach in lamps. Many are of the romantic vintage, cupids and pink-cheeked elves holding bunches of grapes or entwining their arms about the branches that support silk fringed shades. Many floor lamps have a new design too — the elongated look of table lamps grown tall.

It was not all rich wood and sober solidarity, however.

Some manufacturers created a world of gold and white brocades, with regency scrollwork and pure English elegance.

The accessory world was evident in the garden shops that offered fountains and greenery to make the climate southern everywhere. Potted trees can be set in one's living room bearing whatever kind of fruit suits the taste. There are palm trees and blooming rose and azalea trees; Japanese gardens with ming trees, statuary and a huge lantern.

The furnishings of tomorrow possess abundantly grace of line, harmony of color and warmth of texture — the basics from which the homemaker builds to satisfy her own living needs. It is she who will determine that the crowded and speedy urban and rural world of the future will not become sterile and straightlined but will offer respite and comfort at the end of a day. However technological and scientific we become, the home will be her way of continuing to speak the comforts of family life and graciousness.

Her voice is compelling. Designers — hear.

Mother Ignores Questions; Daughter Turns to Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS I am 13 years old and very mature for my age. The other day I read the letter from the aunt who said her niece was four months pregnant and she did not know who the father was. I asked my mother if this was possible. She gave me a black look and said I should not be reading such things. This made me even more confused because she is always pointing out letters in your column and asking me to read them.

Please tell mothers that their daughters are going to find out all about everything, sooner or later, and it is better if they find out at home. Will you tell me why a girl doesn't know who the father of her child is?—J.M.J.

Dear J.M.J.: Every sex act does not produce a baby. A girl who has sex relations with several men might not know which of her partners fathered her child. This is only one reason sex should be reserved for marriage.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What happens to a woman who, after 15 years of marriage, finds herself displaced, divorced and suddenly on her own?

I was left with a 14-year-old, a comfortable home and a fair job. You might say I am luckier than most — and perhaps I am, but it's dreadfully lonely to sit down to a TV dinner — solo — because your daughter was invited to a slumber party

Even the ticking of a clock I hadn't noticed in years is beginning to get on my nerves. Is it possible to meet someone and make a new life? Where?

marries, his wife should be the Number One woman in his life but this doesn't mean that his mother should drop dead. A good wife wants her mother-in-law to be treated well — just as she will want to be treated when her son marries. It's really up to your husband to decide how much of his mother's repair work he wants to do. Stay out of it. If excessive drinking is wrecking your health or destroying someone you love, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Copyright 1966) does one begin? I can't put an ad in the paper or a magazine and say, "Attractive divorced woman desires male companion object matrimony." Or can I? Some women have, I need your help. Early Fifties.

Dear Early: Some papers and some magazines will accept such ads but what kind of man would it attract? I can tell you — the scum of the earth.

A tone of self-pity runs through your letter — and self-pity can be deadly for a woman alone. No man wants to be the star of a rescue mission.

Cultivate friends at work, join worthwhile groups that do things. Don't wait for the world to hand you a new life because it won't happen. Go out and make one.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is it fair for a mother to keep telephoning her married son and asking him to do her painting and repair work?

My mother-in-law's younger son lives with her now. Her constant interference finally got under his wife's skin and it broke up their marriage.

Yesterday my mother-in-law called and said, "Tell Olaf I need him to fix up the back porch steps and paint the basement." I asked her why she didn't ask Otto to do it. She snapped, "Because Otto works hard all day!" — and hung up.

My husband works hard all day, too, and if he has any extra time there are plenty of things that need doing around our house.

This problem has been the major cause for arguments between my husband and me. He says when a woman loses her husband her sons should help her out. I say when a man gets married his wife should come first. What do you say? — Fed Upsville

Experts Predict Solid Furniture Industry Future

Sunday Post-Crescent C 5

Four men with keys to the inside doors of the furniture industry talked about that industry's 'today and tomorrow' at a press conference last week at the American Furniture Club in Chicago. They told of present accomplishments and predictions for the years immediately ahead.

Offering their views were Roger Clapp, president of the National Association of Furniture Manufacturers and president of the Mersman Bros. div. of Congoleum-Nairn, Inc.; Donald L. Jordan, chairman of the board of Johnson-Carper Furniture Co. and chairman of the board of the National Association of Manufacturers; Kenneth Booth, vice president in charge of sales of Ward Furniture Co.,

and Robert Fogarty, director of marketing at Daystrom, Inc.

Test Fabrics

Among the points Mr. Clapp brought forth was new testing methods for fabrics—the best thing that's happened since stain resistance, he said. The fabric industries are now conducting tests to determine strength, color fastness, resiliency, seam slipping and other features important in creating a quality product. Their information is passed along to furniture manufacturers, so that when they buy, they can decide what features they want and know what they will get.

Mr. Clapp spoke of the increasing use of high pressure laminates on quality pieces, making available woods, such as walnut and pecan, which are in short supply. Suede and mat finishes have been perfected, he noted. He spoke of atomic wood, bombarded with cobalt with a plastic added, which is very strong and durable but unchanged in texture. It may be a thing of the future, he advised.

"The consumer dictates new design," Mr. Clapp said. This means easy care, drawer space, durability. The industry in the future will give users the chance to sit with design experts and tell what they want and need.

Special Groups

The industry in the future will design for age groups, he noted. This means young marrieds, between 18 and 25, the retired, whose children have gone from home, and the young 'singles', who have increased by 20 per cent in the last year.

Mr. Jordan pointed out that design and quality are being elevated in every price range. The industry, he said, has come to life, and in 10 years will double in volume and sales.

While this is happening, the U.S. will be increasing in numbers, the income level will be rising to $10,000 or more for one of three American families, and these people will have more sophisticated tastes and the means to satisfy them.

Only One

Along with increasing needs have come, fortuitously, methods of production and design technique that have improved the product while lowering its price. The furniture industry, he said, is the only one to improve quality and lower cost. In the last few years achievements include better glues and finishes, improved application, better machinery for joining parts so that authentic effects can be achieved in traditional as well as new designs. All this is done while keeping up the fast pace of production.

Kenneth Booth, drawing on recent projections of the cities of tomorrow, said that no matter how people live in the future they will want charm, warmth, appearance, stability and comfort. The population will be younger, with half the people under 25. They may live in urban complexes, but they will want the basic furniture attributes of good design, durability and usability.

Wood, he noted, in however short supply it may be in the future, will never go out of style. He wished, he said with a smile, that Lyndon had a

Dominicans Seeking Democracy

Unhappy Country
Ruled by Tyrant
Most of 35 Years

AP SPOTLIGHT
BY ROBERT BERRELLEZ
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — This is an unhappy little country of more than 3 million people looking for democratic government.

In the last 35 years it has been governed mostly by a tyrant and lately by administrative chaos and political violence.

Half the size of Ohio, the Dominican Republic is potentially rich in agricultural terms. Its wealth, by conservative estimates, gave the tyrant Rafael Leonidas Trujillo a fortune of some $500 million in 31 years.

Poking fun at themselves, Dominicans like to say they are rich enough to support two armies — one military, the other political.

The trouble is, they add in the same vein, the country is not big enough for both.

In a sense, this is fundamentally the cause of the country's plight.

Two Sides

To the politicians, the army represents Trujillo and all his repressive, freedom-choking thrusts. On the other side many army officers fear that the politicians want to wreck the military establishment to open the doors to communism.

This classic struggle for power has been papered over with political labels, slogans and euphemisms until it is barely recognizable.

Still, the outlines of old dictator Trujillo and Trujilloism are unmistakable to eyes familiar with the Dominican scene.

Some political observers here like to measure the residual strength of Trujilloism in two recent developments.

1. In the 1962 elections, the conservative candidate, Viriato Fiallo, seemed to have the presidency clinched until he spoke out against Trujillo followers the army included. It's generally agreed this turned the vote tide toward leftwing moderate Juan Bosch.

2. Once in power, Bosch seemed invincible — until he went against the Trujillos and the army. He was tossed out in seven months.

Last April's revolution, one of the most violent in Latin American history, was a clash essentially between the same military — backed by the still formidable ranks of civilian Trujillo followers — and its opposition, moderately leftist nationalists, anti-Trujillo conservatives and their sympathizers.

Among the latter were army dissidents who hungered and still do, for a change in the armed forces establishment from a quasi-political nearly autonomous entity to a purely military institution.

Violent Reminder

A firefight Dec. 19 between army regulars and former rebel fighters was a violent reminder of the nearly irreconcilable differences between the two factions.

This has raised questions as to the wisdom of trying to integrate the two military groups, a fundamental step set forth by the Organization of American States in the peacemaking formula it hopes will hasten the country's political and economic rehabilitation.

It's hardly a secret that while the military hierarchy has pledged full support to the provisional government, it fears President Hector Garcia Godoy, an aristocrat with liberal leanings.

These fears have led the military leadership into acts of disobedience, even of near-rebellion.

Massachusetts To Help Railroad

BOSTON (AP) — Gov. John A. Volpe has signed a bill authorizing Massachusetts to contribute $250,000 to continue long-haul commuter service of the New Haven Railroad.

Connecticut has contributed $500,000 and Rhode Island $500,000 to preserve the railroad, which runs through Line 30. The service to be subsidized links Boston and New York via Providence, R.I., and New Haven, Conn., and also between Springfield and New York via Hartford and New Haven.

Miss Redlin With AAL as it Grew

BY SENA GRAY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

When Miss Elynore Redlin began her career at Aid Association for Lutherans in 1922 there were seven people employed by the insurance firm.

Now at the time of Miss Redlin's retirement, AAL has over 550 employees and has recently moved into its new 10-story building-addition.

After high school graduation, Miss Redlin chose to continue her education at Bushey's Business College here. As a senior, she worked part-time as a legal secretary for the Morgan-Benton law firm located in the First National Bank building. Miss Redlin was also employed by the Appleton Construction Co. Joined AAL.

After receiving a business college diploma, Miss Redlin was approached by the late Albert Voelck. He was national secretary of the society and could not understand why Miss Redlin had not applied at the Aid for work. Her father was a Lutheran minister in the area.

So, in 1922, Miss Redlin became the sixth woman employee of the firm with offices in the First National Building.

She literally grew up with AAL.

For many years the tall, stately woman served as manager of the loan accounting department. During these years, the department converted from manual accounting to bookkeeping machines to punch cards and tabulation work to data processing and tape.

In 1922 College Avenue was riddled with hitching posts for the horses. The street car which traveled up the Avenue to the Junction where the railway depot is was jokingly called the "Galloping Grasshopper" by Lawrence University students. Miss Redlin recalls hearing the clatter and clop of horses' hooves on the pavement as she went about her daily tasks at AAL.

Celebrated Move

When the insurance society moved down the block in 1923 a Kaukauna orchestra and the Appleton Artillery Band played all day long.

AAL was founded in 1902. When its silver jubilee was marked another big celebration was in order. The entire group posed before Lawrence University Chapel for a picture.

Miss Redlin's home at 1026 1/2 W. Elsie St. is warm and inviting. Her personality and interests shine through the accessories and collections she has lovingly displayed.

I found I was spending so much money on shoes for myself, I decided to collect glass and china ones," she laughs. Many are early Americana — pressed Sandwich glass, cranberry glass and beads.

Looks for Unusual

The prized collection contains over 100 slippers, from all over the world. Many were given Miss Redlin by friends who have found the shoes on their travels.

Interesting French and Italian pieces carefully placed in her living room reflect Miss Redlin's interest in interior design. I have often thought that upon retirement I would like to return to the classroom to study interior design, she says.

But now her days are busy and she is finding time to do those things that long working hours just didn't permit.

Miss Long Named to 'Who's Who'

Miss Virginia Long, an Appleton native and granddaughter of Mrs. August Trettin, 523 W. Eighth St., has been selected for inclusion in the 1965-66 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities."

Miss Long, daughter of James G. Long, Bettendorf, Iowa, and the late Mrs. Long is a 1963 graduate of Xavier High School, Appleton. She is a junior at Marycrest College, Davenport, Iowa, where she is majoring in home economics.

The principal reason for her being mentioned in "Who's Who" is her high scholastic achievement. Also considered for candidates are leadership and cooperation in academic and extra-curricular activities, general citizenship and promise of future service to society.

IMPROVE

Your Home With New LIGHTING

Though the trend to high fashion decorating applies to every room of the home, nowhere is it more dramatic, or more rewarding, than in the bathroom.

Plain white cubicles can become glamorous sanctuaries with the addition of colorful fixtures and towels, smartly styled vanities, unusual room dividers, and most of all, imaginative lighting.

Here, in one of the smallest rooms of the home, you have your best opportunity to blend functional and decorative lighting into an expression of your individuality. Bright brackets brimmed with stylish pendants, built-in ceiling fan lights, supplemented by petite wall brackets. There's virtually no limit to the variations.

The Kling Country Hearth Collection is the name given the furnishings shown at right. The group was displayed by Baumritter at the Home Furnishings Market against lacquer red walls. The chair and ottoman are upholstered in a linen weave cotton in an Old English floral print. Woods are distressed pine. The three-sided credenza and mirror typify the massive colonial look. Below, in the same collection, is a Colonial room brought up to date. A deacon's bench faces a wide hutch, with pewter tankards on the shelf. The dowel-joined pieces are distressed and present an enduring, ageless appearance. Colonial furnishings were evident throughout the market, and were complemented by the continuing popularity of Mediterranean and the presentation of English stylings from the last three centuries. This Style, by Henry P. Glass and called "Enthusma," makes use of the molded plywood drum in walnut. The table has a large leaf which permits comfortable seating, with each person given ample room. The style was shown at the International Home Furnishings Market.

Molded Plywood Drum Basis for Design

CHICAGO — The molded plywood drum may turn out to be one of the new design materials of the future. Imaginative designer Henry P. Glass, working for Richbitt Manufacturing Co., has devised scores of beautiful and sound structural shapes from the drum. What's more, the 'Cylindra' line is economical. Mr. Glass says that designs are not only functional pieces of furniture, but sound and beautiful structural shapes. Executed in walnut, the pieces on view at the American Furniture Mart this week included a pair of high back chairs, a pair of low backs, a circular bar, buffet and dining table. Other designs are in planning stages.

Mr. Glass explains, "A breakthrough can occur only when technology devises new processes or has made available new materials. The Roman arch, the steel beam, precast concrete, each, in turn, gave birth to world wide trends in form and style."

The designer, preferring not to call the designs of molded plywood drums 'modern' or 'contemporary', has created his own name, "Enthusma." It incorporates 'esth' for esthetics, 'us' for use, and 'ma' for material. All are ageless prerequisite of good design. The same thing has happened before, he explains. The style isn't new, only the name.

Predict Solid Furniture Industry Future

stockpile to release on the market to bring the prices down. Technological and chemical substances, he predicted, plus the addition of manmade products, will continue to make available a number of style categories in all price ranges.

Better Easier
Technological advances have already brought forth a computerized router for intricate detail automatically; profile shapers to cut forms formerly done by hand, such as for French provincial or sculptured fronts; wood engravers, to supply elegant grain such as cherry to such inexpensive and plentiful wood as gum, and sanders which permit finishes formerly available only on the highest priced furnishings. Molded components permit the use of plastics for drawer fronts, and in bedroom furniture for drawer guides and frames.

The industry, Booth said, may seem to move at a snail's pace, but it is beginning to make rapid strides. And it has only, he said, scratched the surface.

New Endeavor
Fogarty pointed out that while the industry has been steadily making gains in design and technology, it is just beginning to grow up in marketing. This means, he said, finding out what people want.

Most manufacturers have design centers, not to design, but to research and interpret the needs of the market place. Manufacturers then synthesize the information and modify their designs to meet customer desires.

Easy Way Out
Manufacturers, he said, cannot leave design to the customer — that is the cowardly way out. He indicated that the manufacturer can inspire the customer to seek out the best, and then work with him to see that that desire fills his needs.

Quality of product is an absolutely integral part of the relations between a buyer and his source," Mr. Fogarty stated. The modern customer, he said, is buying value, not price alone. He will not be duped by a low price tag. The buyer-seller relationship today is rooted in integrity, mutual trust and the realization that success in the market place is a matter of cooperative effort, not sharp practices.

Brings Many Talents to Valley

BY JUDY DE WINTER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

WINNEBAGO Mrs. Donald E. Zborav describes herself as someone with an angel on her shoulder and perhaps she is just that. Dark haired, dark-eyed Mrs. Zborav seems able to say nothing but fond things about living and claims she has all the luck in the world.

British born Mrs. Zborav is the wife of Donald Zborav, superintendent of Winnebago County Institutions. Mrs. Zborav and her sons recently came from Pennsylvania to join him.

Among other things, Mrs. Zborav is an artist, a writer, amateur interior designer and sculptor. She is a mother of two boys, past president of PTAs and an enthusiastic hostess. She modestly credits her various and sundry talents to patience and bravery. After success in one thing, you become very brave. One success leads to another, she suggests.

First Hobby

Perhaps the foremost of Mrs. Zborav's hobbies is her refurbishing of French Provincial furniture. She is currently working on a tufted settee, two pianos, each over 100 years old, a dresser to match, a finished gilded bed and a second dresser, bureau and night table of deep cherry. "I don't like antiques from the collector's point of view," she admits. "I like the form, the structure and beauty of the old pieces, but not the scars." And time after time, she has put back missing roses, buffed out scratches and ended up with what it would cost hundreds of dollars to buy.

Began With Necessity

Speaking with a delightful British accent, Mrs. Zborav says it was necessity that started her refurbishing avocation. When her husband accepted a job at a near-Pittsburg, Pa. hospital, the quarters provided was a nine room home. It would have been a great expense to furnish that place as we'd have wanted, she recalls, and since we didn't know how long we'd be there, moving would have been another problem. Mr. Zborav is a retired army officer. His wife says, "We had 20 different homes, from pig sties to palaces, before we finally settled."

Mrs. Zborav has haunted many an antique shop and Good Will store. When she first began her projects, she felt victim of so much razing, she says, she was determined to make it work. Although neither of the other Zboravs share her enthusiasm for rebuilding French Provincial items, they enjoy watching her and consider it more or less mother's hobby.

Most of Mrs. Zborav's youth

Mrs. Donald E. Zborav, wife of the superintendent of Winnebago County Institutions, believes "art is one sphere of life in which you can be yourself." A talented writer, interior designer, artist and sculptor, Mrs. Zborav sits on a refurbished French provincial settee in front of one of her many paintings. She claims she's always been fond of French provincial pieces and has haunted many antique shops for them. (Post-Crescent Photo) was spent outside of London. She boastfully says she has two beautiful sisters, a handsome brother and dear mother still living there. Two of her sisters are high fashion models. One spent time working in the states. Jane did commercial modeling and kept us supplied with goods, she recalls. When she went home, our expenses went up," she says with a laugh.

The Zboravs met Christmas Eve, 1943, and were married the following May. Both were in the service of their country, and after ten days of married life were separated for more than a year. After being discharged from the British army, she was employed by the British Civil Service in an American installation processing war brides. Getting it all done was a panic, she recalls, but quickly adds, "One of the most enjoyable jobs I've ever had. When her turn to come to the States came, she took it."

Many Homes

The Zboravs have lived in New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire, Texas and had flints in several other places. The talented Mrs. Zborav says she loves Wisconsin — probably because she's so fond of the country. Another favorite home was Texas, although she admits she was not quite used to the heat there.

first time there. "I can look at everything with fresh eyes," she says, "because I haven't lived here all my life. You have many countries all rolled into one. In Europe you'd have to travel great distances to see as much."

Mrs. Zborav loves art in all forms and suggests you don't have to be good at it to enjoy it. Art is one sphere of life you can be yourself in, she maintains. Several of her essays, notes and poems have been published and she has exhibited her painting in various shows. Critics always say, "Mrs. Zborav has too many leaves, but I see them that way," she laughs.

Talent Show

The amateur artist maintains her various talents did not come easily. "It's hard for me to buckle down," she admits and insists she is by nature a lazy person. She says she can accomplish most when she is mad at herself for being defeated and feels most people can express themselves through artistic mediums by using their five senses. "Defeat is often what teach most," she philosophizes, but admits most of us need someone to encourage us along the way.

The Zborav boys are Donald, 14, a sophomore at Oshkosh High School and David, 11, a sixth grader at Emmeline Coop Grade School, Oshkosh.

The term "Transitional" has been given to the type of residential architecture which spans the gap between Traditional and Contemporary. It reflects the size of the forward step which the general home-buying public has been willing to take over the course of the years. It therefore depicts the choice of the majority of people when the owners have the proverbial house of choice. It isn't difficult either to picture it as a place for the youngsters to crouch and wait for Dad to come home Borrowed from the Contemporary is the storage wall in the family room. Multiple activities of the present day are organized in this long cabinet, 10 feet long and two feet deep. It is divided into four main sections, any part of which may be opened by itself. Bi-fold doors are used, so that no large open door is a hazard. At normal desk height two slanted desk tops provide work space. The cabinets contain book shelves, magazine storage, game slots, desk drawers, trophy space, refreshment

Signs Increase That Knowles Will Urge Cigarette Tax Hike

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — If Gov. Warren P. Knowles favors the idea of levying yet another one-cent increase in the state cigarette tax to finance an accelerated recreational lands acquisition program, he has not yet committed his position to the record.

But the signs are increasing that he will make such a proposition to the legislature when he presents his conservation legislation recommendations to it May session in spite of the determination of the tobacco trades to wage an all-the public relations field. The country's best publicists will be made available as consultants to the schools and state offices of education, under the plan.

There are signs that some of the spokesmen for education are skilled public relations practitioners, in spite of their amateur status. The man who prepared the resolutions for the forthcoming convention of the Wisconsin Association of School Boards currently provides an example. (George Tipler of Winnebago is executive secretary.) One resolution that will probably be adopted offers fulsome praise to Gov. Knowles and the current legislature for their far-reaching achievements and generous appropriations in the field of education. Then it "urges" the governor and the legislature to authorize yet another boost in the state school aid appropriation when the lawmakers return to the capitol next spring.

Definitive work of the reorganized Coordinating Committee for Higher Education, the key agency in the far-flung educational empire being built by the state government will probably await a decision on the selection of a staff director. The choice may be made at the meeting of the committee next week, but it is not yet certain.

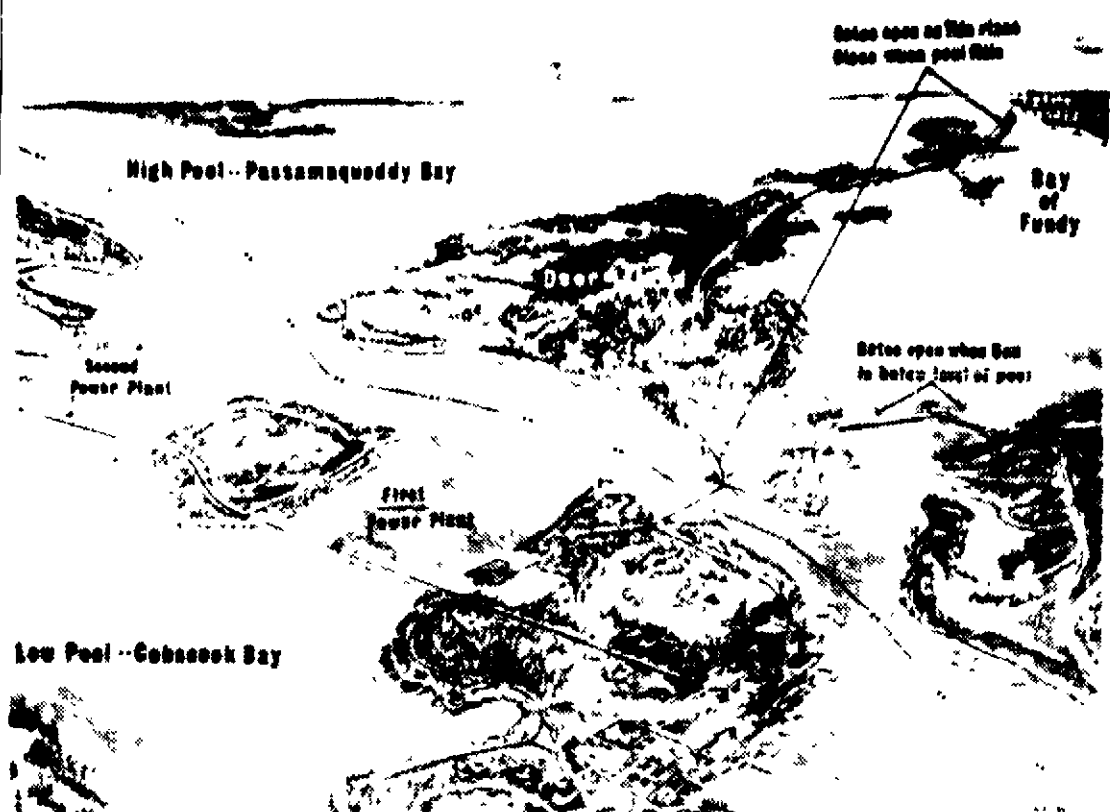

Carlisle Runge, acting chief of staff and co-director of the former committee, is a candidate by his own declaration. There are a number of candidates from outside the state. There is also some support among influential CCHE members for the selection of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Angus Rothwell, who has not yet reacted to the idea publicly but knows about the boomlet. Would Rothwell give up his elective office? It is not certain.

The idea of integrating the education in a single administrative agency continues to gain in favor among students of government. An illuminating example came recently when the Kellett committee drawing up a plan for the reorganization of the entire state government asked five experienced analysts in the state bureau of finance to prepare suggestions.

Their reports were prepared independently, and anonymously. Each of them concluded that there should be a single state department of higher education, although their proposals differed in many other details about a desirable reshaping of the state government as a whole.

Legislators privately predict that the reorganization of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education in a 1965 act to put it under the control of a majority of citizen members will be a prelude to complete centralization in an early year.

Most Democratic leaders are now convinced that Louis Hanson, the Democratic party organization chief, will make another bid for the 10th district what is described as a "major congressional seat of Republican breakthrough" for the schools in can Rep. Alvin O'Konski this

Three Democrats May Seek Post of Lieutenant Governor

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A two-way and possibly a three-way race is in the making for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Sen. Richard Zaborski of Milwaukee confirmed Thursday that he will seek the nomination.

Abe Swed, Milwaukee businessman, has informed Democratic groups that he will announce his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

Swed has complaint signed by his wife, Gladys, who alleged she was struck by Lien Dec. 23 in the Town of Iowa.

The trial will be held Jan. 26 before Municipal Justice Whalen. Lien was released on a $200 property bond.

Trial Scheduled in Battery Charge

WALPACA — Malcom H. Lien, 51, route 1, Iowa, pleaded innocent of a charge of battery Friday before Municipal Justice George Whalen.

From Tide to Electricity Aim of French Engineers

By HARVEY HUDSON
DINARD, France (AP)—The level at high and low tides is about 50 feet. Plans were first drawn in 1919 for channeling of Brittany with unrelenting tides, rushing and pounding these waters to produce electricity along the heavily eroded rocks of the coastline.

Twice a day the waters advance into the little inlets and estuaries the waves have carved during the centuries, and then retreat. The difference in water level between high tide and low tide may vary as much as 44 feet. On the variation may be only 20 feet, depending on the phase of the moon and the season.

But the ebb and flow, constant elsewhere, has been temporarily halted in the estuary of the Rance River, while engineers construct what may be the world's first electric plant using tidal power. Electricite de France, the nationalized French power company, is building the plant. Construction started in 1961 and is scheduled for completion in 1967. The first generators will go into service next summer.

Harnessing the power of the tides has long been a dream of man. As early as the 12th century, residents along the Rance built crude mills for grinding flour which were driven by the tides. The movement of the water in the Bristol Channel of a city like Marseille, with some England, and on the U.S.-Canada border where the ocean spurts into Passamaquoddy Bay from the Bay of Fundy, have been tempting.

The estimated production of 554 million kilowatt hours of electricity represents less than 1/2 of one per cent of France's current consumption. Still, it would be enough to meet about two-thirds of the consumption of a city like Marseille, with some 700,000 population.

The cost of the plant has been estimated at $100 million, about one-tenth the estimates for the Passamaquoddy project.

Witasek, Englund Show Way to Fifth Conference Victory

LA CROSSE (AP)—Gene Englund scored five baskets to lead a second half scoring spree that broke open a close game and gave Oshkosh a 94-78 basketball victory over La Crosse in a Wisconsin State University Conference battle for second place.

Trailing by a point 58-57 with 11:51 to play, the Titans racked up 18 points to only one by the Indians and in less than four minutes led 76-59.

Englund finished with 18 points and teammate Tom Witasek threw in 21. Ron Byers was high for La Crosse with 19.

Oshkosh, now 5-1 in the WSUC, led at halftime 42-40. La Crosse is now 4-2 in the conference.

TWO RIVERS — The Plymouth High School basketball team scored 53 points in the second half to beat Two Rivers, 87-55, in a non-conference game Saturday night.

Jack Gebler, with 31 points and 25 rebounds, paced the Eastern Wisconsin Conference team to victory. Mike Trindiville added 26.

E. J. Stireu scored 15 points to pace the Mid-Eastern Conference Raiders, who now have a 3-6 record, over-all.

Seventh-Rated Iowa Tripped by Morenz' Shots

Wisconsin Rallies To Score Third Straight Victory

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin upset seventh-ranked Iowa 69-68 Saturday, spoiling the favored Hawkeyes' Big Ten basketball opener.

Iowa scrambled back from a nine-point deficit and had a chance to win it with two seconds to go. But Gary Olson, fouled in a frantic rebound scramble, missed both free throw chances.

The Badgers, 1-1 in the Big Ten and 5-6 for the season, handed Iowa its second setback in 10 games with a defensive game that made up for their own scoring inadequacy.

Ken Gustafson led Wisconsin with 17 points. Gerry Jones had 17 for Iowa. Chris Pervall, the team's leading scorer, was held to 15.

Iowa made good use of its full court press early in the game and took a 24-12 lead in the first eight minutes. With 3:35 left in the first half, Gustafson hit two straight field goals to tie the count at 31-31. The lead changed hands five times before Gustafson and Mike Carlin scored to put Wisconsin ahead 40-35 at the half.

Paul Morenz accounted for Wisconsin's tying and winning points on free throws with 11 seconds remaining in the game. It was the third straight win for the Badgers and the second in succession by one point.

The Badger offense picked up steam in the second half and with seven minutes left, Wisconsin led 60-51. Iowa got back into the ball game on three straight field goals by sophomore Houston Breedlove. That sent it into a wild finish.

Wisconsin hit 26 of 47 field goals for a lofty .553 shooting percentage. Iowa made 27 of 76 for .355.

Falcons Sign Alabama Ace, Steve Sloan

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Steve Sloan, pinpoint passer who led Alabama to the national football title, signed a contract Saturday to play with the Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League.

Sloan, who hit 60 per cent of his passes during the season, was drafted by Atlanta on the 11th round. He was not drafted by any American Football League team but was being sought by the New York Jets after a spectacular performance in the Orange Bowl where Alabama beat Nebraska.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed, but Sloan reportedly will receive about $100,000. He signed two hours before the Senior Bowl game in which he was to play for the South.

FVL Trounces Racine, 80-63

RACINE — Fox Valley Lutheran, in one of its best performances of the season, downed Racine Lutheran High School 80-63, in a Midwest Prep Conference game Saturday night. The win gave the Foxes undisputed possession of third place and a 3-2 record in conference play. The 80 points is the highest output by the Foxes this season.

The Racine contingent jumped to a 7-2 lead early in the first quarter, but the Foxes then matched the Crusaders shot for shot through the remainder of the stanza.

Hawks' Comeback Stops Marinette '5'

BY TERRY GALVIN Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Though holding the key to the cellar in Fox Valley Catholic Conference standings and appearing slightly undernourished in its green and gold garb, a scrappy band of Marinette Cavaliers threw a major scare into Xavier High School's basketball team Saturday night before bowing to a determined Hawk rally, 62-54.

The victory left Xavier with a 5-0 mark in FVCC wars, while Central Catholic dropped to a 1-5 slate. Overall, Xavier, Wisconsin's sixth-ranked team, is 9-1 for the campaign.

The triumph was also the 49th straight over a 5-season span in FVCC action for the "Torches" Clark-directed Hawks.

The always unpredictable Cavaliers, coached by master strategist Marty Crowe, battled to a 12-point lead late in the first half, but finally succumbed to a cool, spirited Xavier rally midway through the third period.

Jack Scores 23

Gene Jack, who managed just one field goal in his first 11 tries and finished with nine baskets in 27 attempts, led Xavier with 23 points. Mike Heideman, hitting on six of 13 from the field, contributed a healthy 16 markers, while Don Hurley coined 10.

Steve Sequin led Marinette with a personal career high of 20 points, while the Cavaliers' leading scorer of the season, Rocky Slawinski, netted 11.

Sequin, a 6-1 center, scored nine baskets, all from within five feet of the basket, as the Foxes' strategy opened the FVCC.

The Crusaders came to life with 1:35 remaining, went ahead 21-20 on a tip-in by Jim Wright. FVL's Tiedt and Dahlke then each bucketed a 2 pointer to end the half. In the second quarter, Tiedt contributed 10 points to the FVL rally.

In the second half, the Foxes never lost the lead and steadily increased it. Dahlke led the scoring in the third quarter 19-4-4. French, 0-0-4. Totals—14 20 22 24 40. Dahlke 8 7 14 20 22 24 40. Dahlke 8 7 14 20 22 24 40. Dahlke 8 7 14 20 22 24 40.

4th Conference Win

It was the fourth conference win for the Knights, who had won three of the last four. Premontre is now 2-4 in Fox Valley Catholic league action.

Bad passes, the missing of easy layups and fouls combined to give Lourdes its most of the night. Premontre, meanwhile, took advantage of the charity charges hit 10 points in a row to streak to a 63-61 victory over the Foxes and flipped in 31 of 40 shots. Lake Forest '5' Triumphs Over Vikings, 75-67

Foresters Sink 58 Per Cent of Field Goal Tries

BY STEVE WILSON Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A rugged Lake Forest College cage team shot a blistering 58 per cent from the field and handed Lawrence's Vikings their second loss, 75-67, in as many nights in a non-conference tilt played at Alexander Gym Saturday.

The Foresters, boasting a 4-3 season mark, took the lead midway through the first half and didn't trail after that point.

The Vikes, now 3-5 for the season, stayed within striking distance, however, until the final two minutes of play when a Lake Forest scoring spurge put the game out of reach.

Lawrence jumped out to an early 10-4 lead, mainly on the strength of Dennis Kirchoff's hot outside shooting. But the Foresters came roaring back to tie the contest, at 13-13, and then tally 11 consecutive points to move ahead, 24-13. The Vikings gradually cut the margin to two points, though, and headed for the dressing room trailing by four at halftime, 34-30.

Tie the Count

Sparked by Tom Steinmetz and Kirchoff, the Vikings quickly tied the count at 38-38 with only three minutes gone in the second half. The Vikes stayed on the Foresters' heels for the next 15 minutes and trailed by only three when Steinmetz canned a bucket with 2:10 remaining to make the score 66-63.

Lake Forest then dropped in seven straight points to lead 73-63 with under 1:00 to play.

Lawrence's Steinmetz, who had only two first-half points, and Lake Forest's Fred Brodia tied for game scoring honors, with 22 points apiece. Dick Schultz with 16 and Kirchoff with 14 were the Vikes' other scoring leaders. Rick Kellogg, Doug Dunbar and Austin Penny hit 16, 14 and 12 markers respectively for the Foresters.

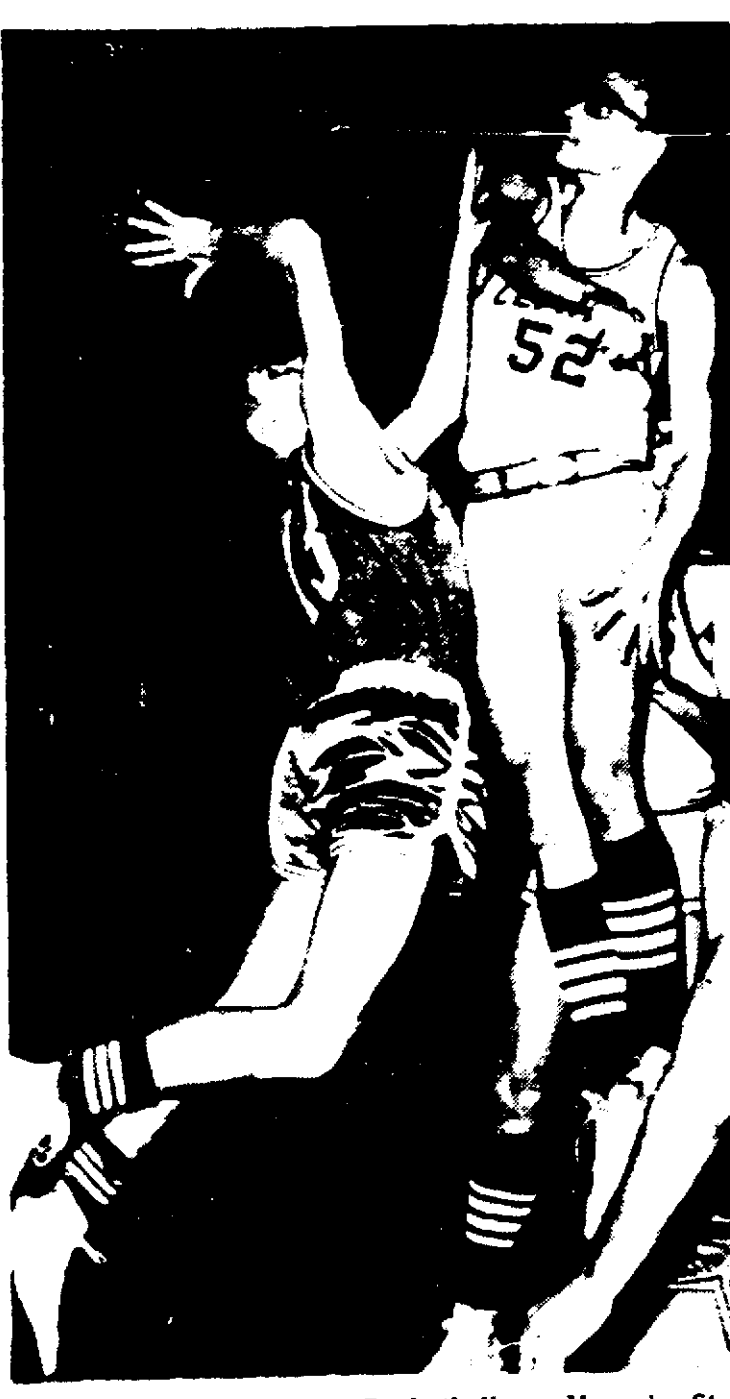

Lawrence connected on 42 per cent of its field goal attempts and was successful 58 per cent of the time from the foul line. Lake Forest banged in 75 per cent of its charity tosses.

Lombardi, Dedicated Genius, Gets Results From Players He Handles

By KEN HARTNETT
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Enigmatic Vince Lombardi seemed about as excited as a man who just won a fistful of wooden matches playing checkers with children. But the low key was deceiving.

An hour before when the Green Bay Packers were still locked in a struggle for the National Football League championship with the Cleveland Browns, Lombardi was almost exultant.

Paul Hornung, the veteran halfback Lombardi led to greatness, had just scored a touchdown. Hornung yelled as he returned to the locker bench. "It's just like the good old days," Lombardi took up the cry.

Did you hear that?" the 52-year-old coach and general manager shouted to his players. "It's just like the good old days. Just like the Good old days."

Game Was Over
But now the game was over and the Packers and Lombardi were back in the dressing room with their third league title in six seasons. But they weren't alone. Scores of newsmen filtered through the steamy room and television cameras pecked. Lombardi smiled and politely answered questions. Quietly, almost uncomfotibly, he accepted congratulations. But at the moment he was giving no clues what he felt and what he was doing in triumph. He said only one thing.

thought could only be guessed. But at the moment he was giving no clues what he felt and what he was doing in triumph. He said only one thing.

Small Group

"I think there are people who know him," a friend said. "It's a very select and small group but there are people. Remember that to get the most out of people you can't let them know your emotions. You can't let them figure you out."

Lombardi is a man who, as one Packer said, runs us until we can't run any more then he runs us more. He is also a man the same player said, makes football fun.

He is a man who swept Green Bay clean of players who did not share his concepts of dedication and sacrifice and replaced them with players he knew could win because they had won before. He is a man who will humiliate a player for a mistake but will apologize later should he feel he was unjust.

He is not going to waste his energy chewing you out if he doesn't think you have the talent, a player explained. Indirectly he's paying you a compliment.

Winning Attitude

Lombardi demands the winning attitude and for his winners nothing is too good. The coach spared no expense in outfitting the Packer clubhouse. After a championship he has rewarded Packer wives with milk.

Despite his reputation as a taskmaster, Lombardi has made Green Bay as attractive to the football player as New York was to the baseball player when the Yankees were the class of the American League.

Opposing players will say to you, "He's put in a good word for me with the coach will you?" a Packer said with pride.

Coach Lombardi will show his feelings to individuals but never to a group of people, one friend said. Later on that night of the championship game he was extremely gay. It just took him a while to release his emotions.

Never With Loser

The Brooklyn bred son of an Italian immigrant never has annual mother-daughter and been associated with a loser. In father son bowling tournament seven seasons in Green Bay he has won four divisional titles and three league crowns. Green Bay his authority is absolute and unchallenged.

He got his training with Red Blak at West Point where Lombardi served as an assistant coach and even now uses Army terminology in talking to his Packer said. It's chow time and formations and so forth. The Army way is his way of treating men. He's an officer and we're the enlisted men.

Few Get Close

Few get close to Lombardi. Players laugh and joke with him but only up to a certain point, a Packer said. You're afraid to go over a certain step. The Baltimore players, for example, call Don Shula "Shoe." You never hear us call him Vince. It's always Coach Lombardi or Mr. Lombardi.

At the same time, players hold Lombardi in awe. Gee, have I learned football here, one rookie said. I never knew there was that much to football before I came here.

The players agree that Lombardi is a genius and not just a football genius.

Lombardi has dedicated his genius to winning. He'll play cribbage like it's a matter of life or death, a player said. Anything he plays. Whether it's checkers or a harmless game of cards he plays to win.

Religious Man

He is also a religious man who sometimes will show up at practice with a Roman Catholic missal in his pocket. Lombardi tries to go to mass and communion daily and seldom fails.

Dedication and sacrifice are his two key words, a friend said. He has sacrificed an awful lot to be a winner. I sometimes have the feeling he would like to sit down and relax with the players but he can't for a minute. He's a leader and a leader is a lonesome man.

A player was asked if he understood what made Lombardi tick. Of course not, he replied. "Who does?"

Cazzie Russell Tallies 32 Points

Michigan '5' Defeats OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Michigan opened defense of its Big Ten basketball championship Saturday by coming from behind in the second half for an 81-78 victory over Ohio State.

All America Cazzie Russell sparked the Wolverines with 32 points and teammate Oliver Darden chipped in 25.

The Buckeyes broke out to a 10 point advantage in the first half and led 38-28 with 2:30 remaining before Russell ignited a rally that cut the margin to 42-38 at halftime.

Ohio led by as many as nine points in the second half before the Wolves forced a 62-62 deadlock.

The contest was nip-and-tuck the final nine minutes and was tied three more times before substitute Dan Brown dropped in a lay-up to give Michigan the lead for good 78-76.

Sophomore Bill Hosket, playing his finest game of the season for the Buckeyes, tallied 24 points.

Twins Land Hurler From South Africa

6-5 Johannesburg Star Will Report to Team's Spring Camp

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Calvin Griffith hopes he's landed a modern-day Paul Bunyan to pitch for the Minnesota Twins.

Dave Lowery is the prospect's name and he hails from the unlikely place of Johannesburg, South Africa.

He's 22 years old and stands 6-foot-5.

And the word is that he can throw a baseball like nobody ever has in his native South Africa.

Griffith is so impressed with Lowery's statistics and press clippings that he had invited him to the American League champion Twins' spring training camp opening Feb. 21 at Orlando, Fla.

We just might have uncovered a diamond in the rough," Griffith said Saturday.

A right-hander, Lowery was brought to the Twins' attention by Fred Fray, a retired Arkansas businessman and friend of Minnesota pitching coach John J. San Francisco has traveled extensively in South Africa.

Lowery is described by the South African newspaper Rand Daily Mail as a million dollar baseball player by American standards.

He was the leading pitcher and top hitter in the Transvaal's major league last season. He played for both the Transvaal and Crown Mines teams in Johannesburg.

Illinois Wins Second Big 10 Game in Row

Freeman Scores 28 as Illini Tip Indiana, 98 to 84

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Illinois dropped eight of its first nine shots over Indiana's zone defense and beat the Hoosiers 98-84 Saturday to hold the lead in the Big Ten Basketball race.

It was Indiana's conference opener and the second victory in two games for the Illini.

The early eight of nine gave Illinois a 16-10 lead. Indiana fought back and tied the score at 22-22 on a jump shot by Gary Greger with 11:27 to play in the first half but never went ahead. Illinois pulled away to a 29-23 advantage and led 53-41 at the half.

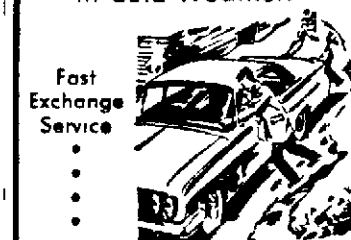

The Illinois lead shrank to eight points at 73-65 with 10:25 left in the game, but the Illini built it up to 21 at 96-75 with 2:53 to play.

Indiana switched to a man-to-man defense in the second half and went to a press after cutting the margin to eight points. Illinois staved mostly in a loose man-to-man defense.

Burnett, Johnson Pace South '11' to Senior Bowl Win

North's Twilley Grabs 12 Passes, Gets 'Outstanding Player' Award

By RON SPEER

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South wiped out an 11-point deficit by blending the running of Bob Burnett with the passing of Randy Johnson and defeated the North 27-18 in the Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burnett, the powerful Arkansas halfback, scored twice on two-yard plunges in the second half surge in the nationally televised football game.

Johnson, Texas A&I quarterback, threw two touchdown passes, hitting Jim Lindsey of Arkansas with an 11-yard scoring strike in the second quarter and tossing five yards to Charles Casey of Florida in the third quarter that put the South in front to stay.

Gary Lane of Missouri had powered the North to an 18-7 halftime lead, throwing two touchdown passes and scoring once himself on a three-yard plunge.

But the South, ignited by a pass interception by Doug Bufone of Louisville, cut the gap to 18-14 in the first three minutes of the third quarter. After the South shot ahead an interception by David Ray of Alabama with 83 seconds left clinched the victory for the Rebels.

New London '5' Tips Waupaca In Overtime

Rieckman Sinks Free Throw to Cap 66-65 Win

BY ROGER PITT

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW LONDON — Bob Rieckman sank a free throw with five seconds left in overtime to give New London a 66-65 win over Waupaca in a non-loop contest here Saturday.

The winning free throw capped a strong comeback in the second half by Coach Bill Beyer's Bulldogs. New London took a 48-46 lead with 6:17 left in the fourth quarter. It was the first time they had led in the game since 5:37 remained in the first period.

Sparking the comeback were spurts of six and eight points.

Leading the Bulldogs' attack was guard Bruce Feurig, with 27 points. Feurig put in two 20-foot jump shots in the overtime period to keep the Bulldogs alive.

One of the major factors in the ball game was that Waupaca committed only eight fouls. New London was unable to get the bonus shot late in the fourth period and this allowed the Comets to commit deliberate 1-shot fouls and eventually tie the game at 61-61.

New London shot 42 per cent for the game, sinking 31 of 73 shots, but in the second half the Bulldogs recorded a torrid 55 per cent. Waupaca, on the other hand, shot a steady 40 per cent, dumping in 27 of 63 shots.

Hitting double figures for New London, besides Feurig, was Reickman with 23 points. Leading the Comets was Rick Riddle with 22 points and Jeff Looker with 19.

NBA to Expand Within Month

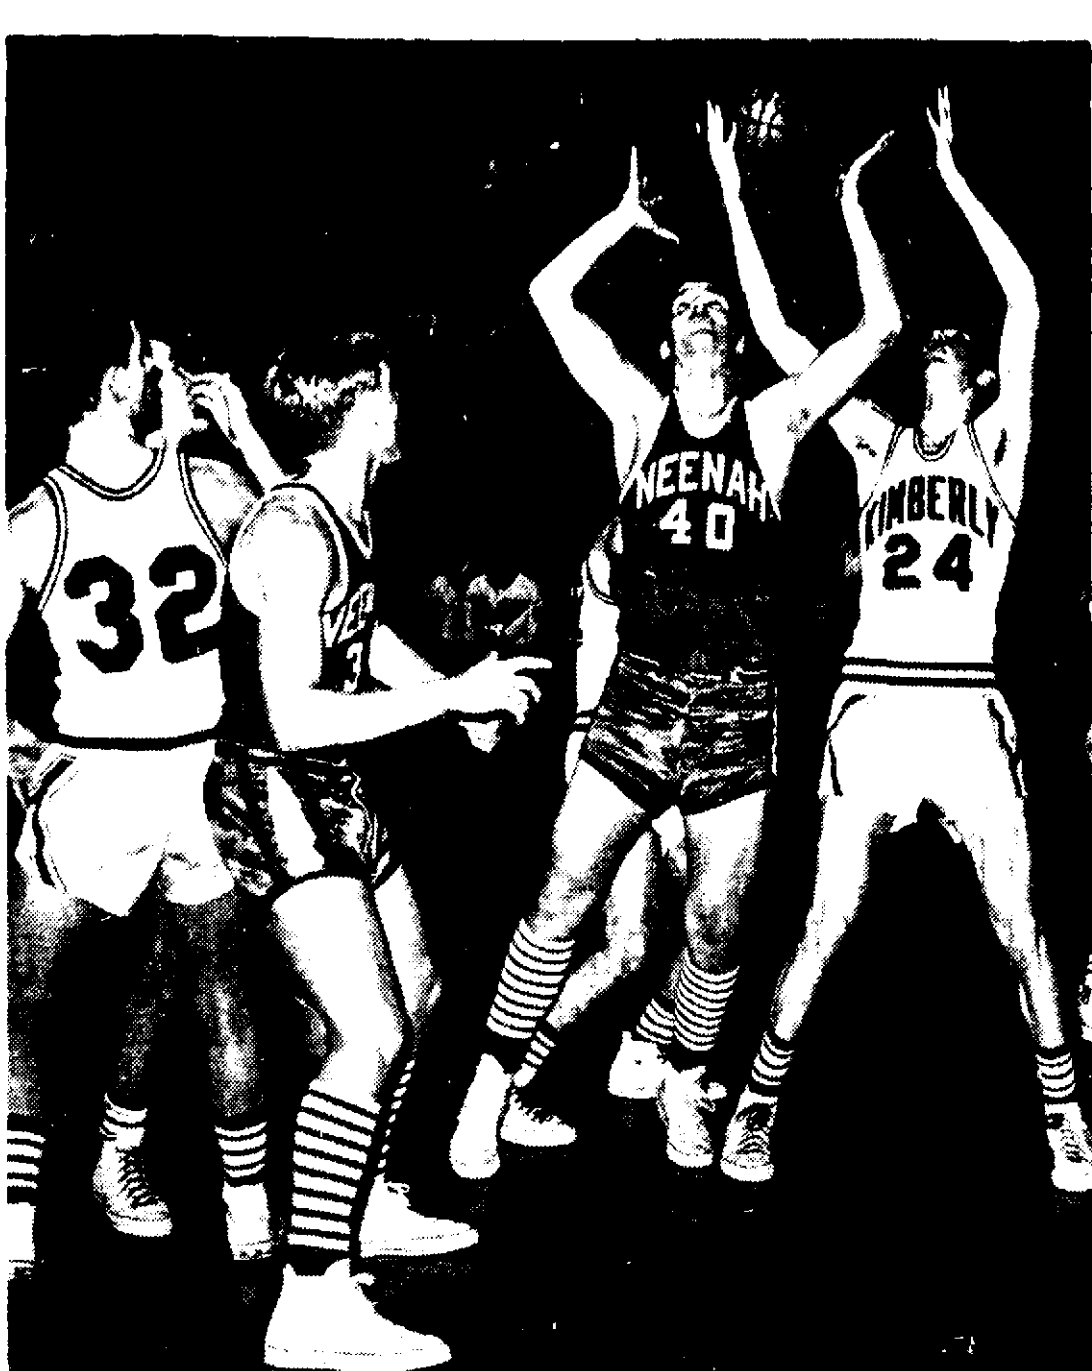

BOSTON (AP) — President Walter Kennedy of the National Basketball Association said Saturday the NBA plans to expand to 10 teams within a month.

"If nothing happens, a city will be named for our 10th team within 30 days," Kennedy told WHDH sportscaster Jim Pangelino in a taped interview.

Kennedy said the NBA had several applications for a franchise. He named Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Chicago as top contenders.

Competitive Action in 8 Interscholastic Sports

Swimming Team's Accomplishments Are Impressive

BY DOUG KOPLIEN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

OSHKOSH — Are females physically and mentally capable of participating in inter-collegiate competitive athletics?

Facts in evidence seem to indicate that they are.

At Wisconsin State University, Oshkosh coeds are competing on an intercollegiate level in track, swimming, basketball, bowling, badminton, volleyball, field hockey and tennis.

Currently, the swimming team, coached by Jan Moldenhauer, has been taking many first places in intercollegiate meets. Most recently a one-girl team, comprised of Allison "Candy" Neuman, placed ninth in a field of 16 teams in an All-Eastern meet at Kent State University.

Miss Neuman, swimming the 50 and 100-yard breast stroke events and the 100-yard individual medley relay, took a second in the 50-yard breast stroke, behind Cynthia Goyette, an Olympic Gold Medal Winner from Wayne State University.

Team Places Third

On the same day, Dec. 4, the rest of the 11-girl team, took a third place in competition between most of the State Universities and some northern Illinois colleges.

Lynn Prosser set a pool record in the 25-yard back stroke and a 100 yard free style team, comprised of Sue Judge, Joann Fisher, Patty Kaften and April Kowai also set a pool record.

To round off this year's swimming schedule, WSU-O Wisconsin Athletic and Recreation women will travel to Northern Illinois on Feb. 12.

Swimming at WSU-OK was on in two ways. First an individual college can invite another college to the men's team was formed. Under the direction of Mrs. Helenjane Cougan until 1964, when Miss Moldenhauer took over, the team has been competing on an inter-school level teams to the competition.

Basketball this year is coming into its own with the "weaker the area for a basketball sports sex." WSU-O will play host to day.

The Titan Invitational Sports Days Feb. 26, when schools from throughout the State University Conference will be on associate professor of health and physical education and head increased.

basketball according to girl's rules.

Common Opinion

Dr. Phyllis Rooney, head of the women's physical education department, explained that until recently the common opinion was that competitive athletics for girls was not only unladylike but also bad for the girls both physically and emotionally.

These fallacies, which until now have been based on social mores and traditions rather than fact, have been falling by the wayside.

Coming into their own with the advent of spring will be WSU-O women tracksters who last year set eight records at what would be comparable to a conference track meet in Milwaukee.

Under the direction of Vera Williams, Oshkosh women folk kicked off their high heels and donned track shoes and took honors in the high jump, 440-yard run, 220-yard dash, shot put, discus, javelin and the low hurdles.

"Interest Group"

The women's varsity players are chosen somewhat different than the men's teams. Rather than having varsity workouts and practice the women attend what is called an "interest group."

These groups are concentrated on specific sports such as "basketball interest", "bowling interest", "volleyball interest", and so on. From these groups, which are carried on in addition to the regular intramural program the teams which will compete on an intercollegiate basis are chosen.

Conducted by the Women's Recreation Association (WRA) locally and nationally under the WSU-O Wisconsin Athletic and Recreation Federation of College Women, the Sports Days are carried started back in 1960, even before the men's team was formed. Under the direction of Mrs. Helenjane Cougan until 1964, when Miss Moldenhauer took over, the team has been competing on an inter-school level teams to the competition.

Basketball this year is coming into its own with the "weaker the area for a basketball sports sex." WSU-O will play host to day.

The Titan Invitational Sports Days Feb. 26, when schools from throughout the State University Conference will be on associate professor of health and physical education and head increased.

As Able as Men

According to statistics compiled by Dr. Eric K. Kitzman, that with work and physical training the capacity could be increased for some competitive and physical education and head increased.

Spartan Quint Beats Gophers

Michigan State's Curtis Scores 23 In Big Ten Opener

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State overcame a 23-point first half performance by Minnesota's Archie Clark and went on to down the Gophers 85-65 in the Big Ten basketball opener for both teams Saturday night.

Stan Washington held Clark to only four points in the second half while scoring eight points himself and grabbing five rebounds.

The score was tied six times during the first half and the lead changed hands three times as the Spartans grabbed a 38-37 halftime advantage.

Clark made nine of 13 shots from the floor in the first half and continually kept the Gophers in the game.

Minnesota led briefly in the second half when Tom Kundla sank a free throw and Paul Presthus, scored on a driving layup, putting the Gophers ahead, 53-50.

Steve Rymal scored a three-point play — soon after Michigan State went ahead — to give the Spartans a 57 - 53 lead and the Gophers never caught up again.

MSU's Bill Curtis paced the winners with 23 points. Washington added 18 and Matthew Aitch and Rymal added 13 each.

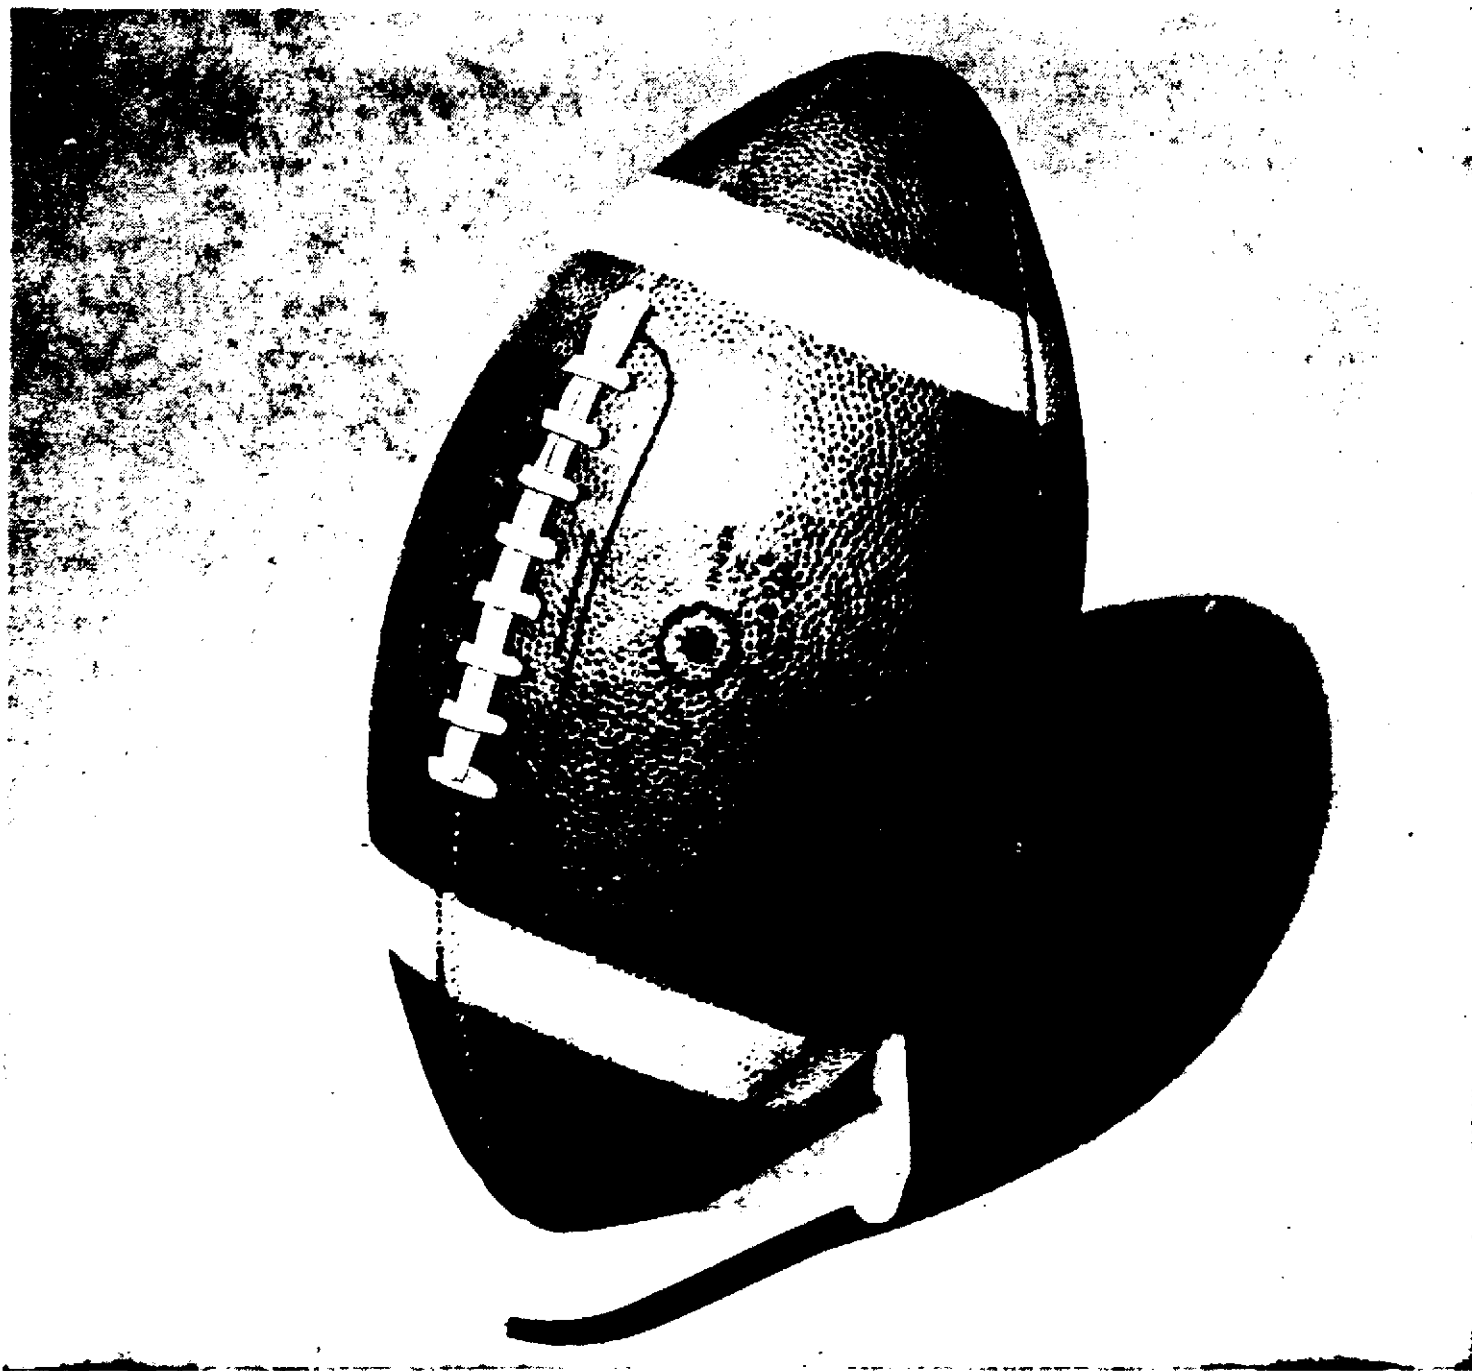

Clark's 17 points was followed by Presthus' 11.

Michigan State outrebounded the taller Gophers 51 - 30 with Aitch getting 15 rebounds.

baschall coach at WSU-O, for an article published in the October issue of Health Physical Recreation, women are basically as able to compete in sports as are men.

He compared the two sexes at the same age, height and weight on several criteria. Although 70 per cent of the strength of boys, he wrote, girls seem to be better at sports which require a high degree of skill as opposed to strength.

Lung capacity, he said, in comparing boys and girls could make somewhat of a difference with the girls' being about 80 per cent that of boys', although he qualified this by continuing that with work and physical training the capacity could be increased for some competitive and physical education and head increased.

Panel of Senators Says Viet Peace Prospects Are Slim for Near Future

BY WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield and his fact-finding team said Saturday the fighting in Viet Nam will escalate toward a general war on the Asian mainland if peace efforts fail. They said chances of a just, negotiated settlement are very slim.

The panel of five senators, led by Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said whatever the course — battle-field or peace conference — a rapid solution is not in immediate prospect.

Despite the massive U.S. troop buildup of the past seven months, the bipartisan team reported the overall situation in South Viet Nam stands much as it did a year ago.

“What was controlled then by the Viet Cong is still controlled by the Viet Cong,” their report said.

Their grim report on a 35-day

30,000-mile mission — a journey President Johnson urged Mansfield to undertake — came as the administration pressed its publicized peace offensive.

Missions Omitted
The report did not mention the globe-circling diplomatic missions nor the lull in bombing of North Viet Nam targets ordered by Johnson. The senators returned to the United States Dec. 18, before the current peace offensive began.

But it did include this comment on peace overtures aimed at Hanoi through other capitals: “Even though other nations may be willing to play a third-party role in bringing about negotiations, any prospects for effective negotiations at this time (and they are slim) are likely to be largely dependent on the initiatives and efforts of the combatants.”

Johnson has been described as confident that his peace offensive messages to capitals around the world are being relayed to the Communist regime in Hanoi.

In addition to Mansfield, the traveling senators included Democrats Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Daniel K. Inouye of Hawaii, and Republicans George D. Aiken of Vermont and J. Caleb Boggs of Delaware.

While they journeyed to 13 capitals in Europe and Asia, the report they made public today dealt only with the war in Viet Nam. It was titled, “The Viet Nam Conflict: The Substance and the Shadow.”

The senators said there is no reason to think that the Soviet Union is anxious to play a significant role in peace efforts.

Russian troubleshooter Alexander Shelepin went to Hanoi Thursday, and some Western governments are hopeful he will encourage the communist regime to negotiate for peace. But Shelepin took with him Soviet experts on military production and rocketry.

Soviet Role
The Senate panel discussed Viet Nam with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin on Nov. 19. Their report had this to say of grand jury:

any possible Soviet role in the peace effort.

They have emphasized repeatedly in public statements as well as in other ways that they have no intention of taking an initiative for peace in Viet Nam at this time.

And they said that as the war escalates, North Viet Nam becomes more dependent on Red Chinese support — and the likelihood increases that Hanoi will not be able to negotiate a settlement without at least the tacit consent of China.

“In fact,” the report said, “that point may already have been reached.”

Johnson wrote Mansfield Nov. 7 that it would be helpful to have the firsthand observations of Mansfield and other lawmakers on a mission abroad.

Call Chief in Claims Police Were Brutal

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Police Chief Harold A. Breier has been subpoenaed by the U.S. Department of Justice to produce police records in connection with two cases of alleged police brutality.

Justice department officials said both cases will be presented to a federal grand jury Jan. 11.

Breier and 18 other persons have been subpoenaed to testify on the two cases involving three Milwaukee police officers. One case involves a Negro youth and a Negro police officer. The other involves three Negro youths and two white police officers.

Attorney Orville L. Pitts complained last fall to U.S. Dist. Atty. James B. Brennan that the civil rights of the four Negro youths had been violated.

The FBI investigated and sent a report to the Justice Department in Washington. The Justice Department decided that the 1965 toll was the highest since 1965. The case should be considered by a grand jury.

“I do hope you will see your way clear to undertake this mission,” Johnson said then.

However, the White House insisted today “it was not a presidential mission.”

A spokesman there said earlier Johnson approved but did not initiate the senators’ fact-finding tour. Mansfield reported to Johnson on Dec. 19, the day after he returned.

The report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was made by all five senators. They were in Viet Nam from Dec. 2 until Dec. 4.

Firm Commitment
“We reiterated the deep and firm commitment of the United States to a just resolution of the conflict in Viet Nam,” Mansfield said. Johnson had asked the Democratic leader to emphasize U.S. unity in that pursuit.

The report told of mounting Viet Cong manpower despite increasing casualties, of food supplies for Saigon taxed by the Communists, of a possible strain on U.S. alliances as the war continues.

And it painted a bleak picture of U.S. prospects should negotiations come now.

“Negotiations . . . if they are accompanied by a cease fire and standstill, would serve to stabilize a situation in which the majority of the population remains under nominal government control but in which dominance of the countryside rests largely in the hands of the Viet Cong.”

“What might eventually materialize through negotiations from this situation cannot be foreseen at this time with any degree of certainty,” the senators said. “That is not, to say

New Jersey Has Top Road Toll in 28 Years

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — There were at least 1,086 traffic deaths in New Jersey last year, the highest total in 28 years. The State Motor Vehicle Division says the final toll will be announced in three weeks. The 1965 toll was the highest since 1937. The Peninsula is still held together only by a tenuous truce.

the least, a very satisfactory prospect . . .

“The visible alternative . . . the team reported, “is the indefinite expansion and intensification of the war which will require the continuous introduction of additional U.S. forces.”

“The end of that course cannot be foreseen, either, and there are no grounds for optimism that the end is likely to be reached within the confines of South Viet Nam or within the very near future.”

The senators summed up their prospects with these words:

“In short, such choices as may be open are not simple choices. They are difficult and painful choices and they are beset with many imponderables.”

“The situation, as it now appears, offers only the very slim prospect of a just settlement by negotiations or the alternative prospect of a continuance of the conflict in the direction of a general war on the Asian mainland.”

Desertion Rate High
— The rate of desertion from South Vietnamese forces remains high — and the government must share with the Viet Cong its sources for military recruiting.

— Communist forces control highways over which Saigon’s food supplies must pass. “The fact is plain: much of Saigon’s indigenous food and commodity supply depends on the surffiance of the Viet Cong and on payments to them.”

— December estimates placed Viet Cong manpower strength at 230,000. Infiltration of troops from the north is likely to increase from 1,500 men a month to 4,500. “Total Viet Cong strength, apparently, is steadily increasing despite the serious casualties which these forces have suffered during the past few months.”

— South Korea has sent 21,000 men to Viet Nam. “It is obvious that any withdrawal of forces for use in Viet Nam creates new problems of military balance between North and South Korea. . . . Peace in the Korean Peninsula is still held together only by a tenuous truce.”

Soviet Activity May Spur Mao To Raise Troops

Chinese Say Depth Of Peking Hatred Is Underestimated

By ForREST EDWARDS
HONG KONG (AP) — A growing number of Chinese in Hong Kong believe increasing Soviet activity in North Viet Nam seriously increases the danger that Red China will send combat troops into the Viet Nam war.

“The depth of Peking’s paranoiac hatred against Russia, and particularly against any Russian presence in Asia, is being under-estimated by Westerners,” says a well-educated Chinese refugee doctor, only 18 months out of Red China and with most of his family still there.

He was referring to the often expressed belief of Western government officials and diplomats here that China will do everything in its power to keep North Viet Nam fighting — everything, that is, short of sending in combat troops.

Not Risk War
Their consensus — and some have official contacts in both Peking and Hanoi — is that the Chinese leadership knows it can not win an all-out war with the United States at this time and thus will not risk such a war by sending combat troops into Viet Nam.

One Western source who has studied the Chinese Communists since the end of World War I says, “China appears convinced that the United States would send its bombers against China, if China should send fighting troops into Viet Nam.”

“The Chinese Communists are at a power crossroads. They can not now afford an all-out war which they surely know they can not win and which would, therefore, destroy them in China.”

Chinese Hatred
This man and other Westerners in the business of trying to gauge what the Red Chinese will do under any given circumstance do not underestimate the Communist hatred for both the United States and the Soviet leadership.

But they credit Peking with having a realistic outlook which would rule out risking all-out war until China has a stockpile of nuclear weapons and means of delivering those weapons. Most Western intelligence sources here say that is at least seven to 10 years away, unless China gets major missile help from the Soviet Union.

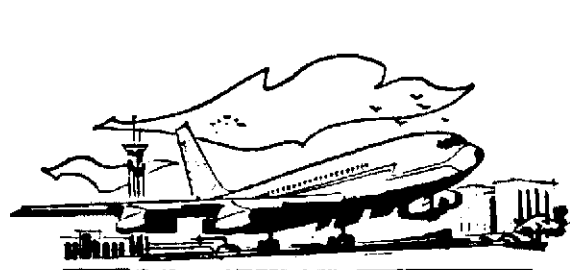

Until recently, most Chinese refugee intellectuals, industrialists and professional men here appeared to agree with that Western appraisal.

Overestimate Ability
Now, however, some of these Chinese — a number of whom still have good contacts in the China Mainland — believe Western observers are overestimating Peking’s ability to think realistically in the face of the Chinese Communists’ hatred for the Soviet Union.

They say their contacts inside Red China indicate that Communist hierarchy is in a state of what one called an “ultra-sensory fury” because Russian military aid — particularly the surface-to-air missiles which have been shooting down American planes over North Viet Nam — is much more effective than Chinese military aid.

The Russians themselves have complained that Peking is trying to stop Russian aid to North Viet Nam. Last week a senior member of the three-nation control commission was quoted as saying the Chinese Communists are deeply galled by the superior effectiveness of Russian aid.

NOTES and NOTIONS

It would scarcely be an exaggeration to report that the cups of Green Bay Packer fans runneth over. Not only is the third world (or NFL) football title in the last Anderson five years safely in the satchel, but the club has about concluded business in possibly its best draft ever (and, what's more important, in signing the top draftees). It appears certain that this will be the best rookie crop since the one that included Paul Hornung and Ron Kramer nine years ago. Last year, it was the Chicago Bears who came up with the prize catches — such as Gale Sayers, Dick Butkus, Jimmy Jones and Dick Gordon. This time around, the Packers made the NFL's biggest drafting-and-signing news with Jim Grabowski, Donny Anderson, Gale Gillingham, Tony Jeter and Fred Heron. In helping Anderson and Grabowski fight their personal wars on poverty, the Packers likely have come up with football's first "million dollar" backfield. If the new twosome fails a few farthings short of that astronomical figure, we can add Dennis Clardige, the Bays' possible QB of the future, who was also rewarded generously (no doubt) for affixing his signature to a contract two years ago.

From a sentimental standpoint, we'd like to see on the '66 roster all of the "fabulous 40" who dramatically brought Green Bay the title. But the realities of the situation dictate otherwise. At least three of the 40 are sure to have wound up their Packer careers — for that's the number that each established NFL club will probably "owe" Atlanta to make the new Falcons a representative ball club. Chances are, a few others will also go — via retirement, trade or release — to make room for the highly-paid and highly-regarded first-year men. In addition to top rookies, taxi-squad players, such as Allen Brown and Bill Symons, might be brought back to the varsity roster.

Falcons Will By-Pass Packers Near Retirement

Pro football's great turnover of personnel is amply demonstrated by the presence of only 19 men on the '65 Packer roster who had been members of the '62 Green Bay title team. Every NFL club will be allowed to protect or "freeze" a certain number of players but will probably have to make eight or 10 names available to Atlanta, from which the Falcons will choose three or four. It's likely the Falcons will bypass any Packer who is only a year or two from probable retirement and will concentrate on players with six years NFL experience or less.

Therefore, the Packers will stand to lose key spot players or rapidly-improving reserves on the verge of becoming starters. The greatest speculation, both in the Atlanta "draft" and in next summer's "cuts," will be at the running back spot. From the standpoint of sheer mathematical necessity, Green Bay will probably shed at least three of these nine backs: Hornung, Jim Taylor, Tom Moore, Elijah Pitts, Junior Coffey, Allen Jacobs, Anderson, Grabowski and Symons. How would you like to make that decision? Of course, Anderson could be employed as a flanker to alleviate part of the running back congestion. But, Donny is too good a runner not to make use of this talent, as well as his pass receiving ability. With the injury factor seeming to grow every year in the rough pro game (Taylor, Hornung and Moore were all sidelined or running below par for long periods) there would seem to be plenty of chance for Grabowski and Anderson to play, — assuming of course, that they wouldn't be cut. Even a "2-platoon" system wouldn't be a bad idea, with the 30-year-old Hornung and Taylor playing one quarter, and the two heirs-apparent the next period.

It looked for a time — prior to the fantastic turn of the tide in December and early January — as if the Packers' "old" war horses had taken the team about as far as they could. But, then the pacemakers of the earlier title days took charge — some of them installed in their original starting spots — and proved they are far from through. Eight members of the starting offensive unit in those climactic games were either 30 or over — or on the verge of hitting 30. The only younger offensive starters were Boyd Dowler (27), Carroll Dale (26) and Ken Bowman (22). While all the well-scarred offensive veterans apparently have a lot of good football left in them, it's equally obvious that the rigors of a 20-game season (exhibitions and all) would make it necessary for them to be spelled more frequently — if they all avoid the Atlanta lists. The younger defensive unit seems pretty well set for '66, and it would be a distinct surprise to see even one of the current regulars replaced (unless Doug Hart and Bob Jeter stage their private pre-season duel again). Besides all the prestige and money involved in the Grabowski and Anderson signings, the Packers put the cap on a couple of pretty good trades. What the deals amount to now are Grabowski for Ron Kramer, the Lions turned over their No. 1 draft choice in '65 and Anderson and Lee Roy Caffey for Jim Ringo and Earl Gros. The Eagles gave the Bays their No. 1 pick in '64, and Green Bay put in a reservation for Anderson. Why did both the '65 glamor boys cast their lot with the Packers when the NFL reportedly offered them more money? It's the realization that to make it in the NFL is to gain the pinnacle of gridiron accomplishment.

"Fuzzy" Thurston, a Fox Cities restaurateur when he isn't busy being the Packers' best left guard, considers this title the "most satisfying" of the four he's helped produce. (He played on one championship team in Baltimore and three in Green Bay.) Thurston, whose restoration to starting status helped key the Packers' offensive rebirth seems to have an inspirational effect on the team. His leadership and authoritative blocking were vital contributions to the cause. Asked about his reaction to the sky-high bonuses received by some of the new Packers, Thurston said the attitude of Hornung and Taylor — who face direct competition — was exemplary. "This thing (big bonus pay) has to be done if you want to keep a good football team," said Thurston.

We understand Johnny Unitas attended the Packer-Brown title game,ognito by wearing of all things, a Beate wig. Unitas revealed his identity to Appleton Adelman and Mrs. Norman E. Bever after he literally jumped into them in the stadium area. After giving his autograph and removing his wig, Unitas limped away, showing he hasn't recovered completely from the knee surgery of four weeks earlier.

Ski School to Hold Initial Class Tuesday

The fourth annual Post-Crescent ski school will begin Tuesday night (7:30 p.m.) with a session in the Appleton High School auditorium. Proper equipment will be demonstrated, and instructional films will be shown.

The first outdoor session is set for next Saturday at View Ridge (New London) and Fox Valley Ski Club (Calumet County Park). View Ridge, operated by Mo-Ski-Tow, Inc., reports excellent skiing conditions.

The Fox Valley club did not receive as much snow and the hill was not considered ski-worthy yesterday. The club planned to do some work on the hill and considered it possible for skiing to begin today.

For the first time since the ski school's inception, student patches will be distributed at the indoor session (Tuesday). This will make distribution simpler and will assure instructors those attending the outdoor classes have registered.

KING PIN capers

Frank Belsey, formerly of 135 and 139 and Harriet Downey Milwaukee, has been named posted counts of 155, 159 and 163 general manager at Sabre in the Four For Fun League at Lanes, one of the areas newest Hahn's each game four pins Bowling establishments. apart

Belsey, who has spent 15 years in the bowling business, formerly was with the Brunswick Corporation and prior to that was operator of a 24-lane establishment in Waukesha and also operated the Rose Bowl in Milwaukee.

Belsey is married and the father of four children, one girl and three boys. He is 44 years old and his family is still in Milwaukee, but will be moved here as soon as Belsey locates a home.

Frank is a past officer of the Bowling Proprietors Association, sixth district, and while with Brunswick was affiliated with bowling promotional work. He is a certified Brunswick instructor and last year put through his 10,000 student.

One of the major steps Belsey plans for the area is the development of a Senior League.

What's in a name? The Jenks and Jentz took the area bowling spotlight this week.

Mrs. Alvina Jenks slammed a 601 National Honor count in the Fox Valley Women's League at Menasha's Mid-Town Lanes Thursday night. It was the 11th national set recorded by women in the Fox Cities area this season.

"Bud" Jentz cracked a 719 series in the Builders League at Hahn's Lanes last Monday. Jentz racked up games of 258, 259 and 202 for the hefty set. It was the fourth men's national League Golf Tournament Friday with an adjusted two-round score of 140.

Ed Gerhartz rolled games of 152, 153 and 154 in the American League at Jerry's Lanes, Kimberly. Phyllis Ludwig posted a 136 tem.

Defensive back Dick LeBeau of the Detroit Lions, tied with Marge Melanson had a 143 triple in the Kimberly Ladies League at Jerry's Lanes. Carol Rosz had games of 131.

Under the Callaway System, players may eliminate a certain number of their worst holes, depending on their score. LeBeau did not have holes as bad as Brown's worst.

Meanwhile, offensive tackle Charlie Bradshaw of the Pittsburgh Steelers was elected president of the National Football League Players' Association.

Women's Pin Meet Entries Due Jan. 28

Entries for the Central Fox Valley Women's Bowling Tournament will close Jan. 28. The tourney, slated for two Appleton establishments, will start Feb. 26.

Doubles and singles will be rolled at Hahn's Lanes, from Feb. 26 to April 3. The team event will be contested at the 41 Bowl from March 5 to April 3.

The entry fee ($1 per member per event) must accompany the completed entry blank, which is to be sent to Mrs. Leone Uetzmann, 1738 N. Erb St., Appleton.

Pro Football Signature Derby Soars to All-Time Height, but NFL Wins Easily

Even Astronaut Gets in Act in Attempt to Land Nobis for Oilers

By MIKE RATHET
NEW YORK (AP) — Astro-naut Frank Borman hurtling around the world in his space capsule took time out to try and convince Tommy Nobis to sign with Houston.

Kansas City signed Mike Garrett immediately triggering report that he had been promised the franchise would be shifted so he could play in Los Angeles.

Donny Anderson was supposed to have been offered an $887,000 package deal — and turned it down.

"Unbelievable" Yes.

But Borman did communicate with Nobis by discussing the bidding war over his services from the space capsule, a franchise shift was reported to be mentioned as one of Garrett's fringe benefits and Anderson supposedly did take considerable less money when he signed with Green Bay.

And if that sounds fantastic it just underscores the battle that has been raging between the National and American Football Leagues over the top college players in the country.

Winner Both Ways

The NFL won the annual game between the two leagues both in quality and quantity, but the biggest news turned out to be the sums of money handed out to untired, untested players. If the figures tossed around can be believed some 20 top players cost upwards of $7 million.

Over all the NFL has signed 75 per cent of the 232 eligibles it drafted 174 players deciding to go with NFL teams and 40 with AFL teams while 18 remained unsigned. The AFL meanwhile has signed 46 per cent of its 181 draftees getting 84 players and losing 73 to the NFL while 19 remain unsigned.

Of 111 players drafted by both leagues, the NFL outsigned the AFL 79-28 with four unsigned.

Taking the first three rounds for a quality basis the NFL has signed 38 of 43 eligibles, 14 of 16 first round choices, 11 of 13 second round picks, and 13 of 14 third round selections. The five others went to the AFL.

The AFL signed 11 of 28 eligibles, five of 10 off the first round, two of nine off the second and four of nine off the third. The NFL got the other 17.

Get Top Three

Nine NFL teams grabbed off their top three draft choices — Atlanta, Baltimore, Green Bay, Minnesota, New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Washington while the AFL team was able to match that scorecard.

Minnesota and Washington each signed its first six choices while Atlanta signed its top five. The best an AFL team could do was two by Boston.

On the other side of the ledger only one NFL team — Los Angeles — lost as many as two of its top three choices while in the AFL Buffalo lost its first three and San Diego its first six.

The AFL did well on its future list signing six of the eight first round selections from its special future draft of 1964. The NFL, which picks its futures in its regular draft, signed eight of 14 leading futures drafted in 1964. Each league also signed one high future from this year's draft list.

Players are Big Winners

The biggest winners turned out to be the players. Some of the prices attached to their names border on the unbelievable with at least 20 players supposedly receiving contracts ranging from $200,000 to $700,000.

The list includes:

Texas linebacker Tommy Nobis, Atlanta NFL, $700,000.

Illinois fullback Jim Grabow, Green Bay NFL, $625,000.

Texas Tech. back Donny Anderson, Green Bay NFL, $600,000.

Tulsa quarterback Billy Anderson, Los Angeles NFL, $350,000.

At $325,000 are Oklahoma line backer Carl Adams, New York AFL, Kentucky halfback Roger Bird, Oakland AFL, Mississippi halfback Mike Dennis, Los Angeles NFL, Mississippi tackle Stan Hindman, San Francisco NFL.

The $300,000 group shows LSU tackle George Rice, Houston AFL, Missouri tackle Francis Peay, New York NFL, Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton, Miami AFL, Arkansas tackle Glen Ray Hines, Houston AFL.

In the $200,000 and over category are Kentucky tackle Sam Ball, Baltimore NFL, Michigan tackle Bill Yearby, New York AFL, Massachusetts end Milt Morin, Cleveland NFL, Tulane tackle Willie Towne, Dallas AFL.

How accurate the figures are no one will ever know. Officially

Phantoms Tip Seymour in NEW Contest

Post-Crescent News Service
DE PERE — West De Pere shook loose from a sticky Seymour Friday night to score a 69-58 win in the Northeastern Wisconsin Conference.

The Phantoms needed this one to bolster their league mark to 4-1 and remain in contention with undefeated De Pere high school. Controlling the boards and shooting at a 47 per cent clip West worked up a 16-10 early lead and a 10-point advantage, 34-24 at intermission.

Still trailing 48-43 going into the fourth period Seymour shot point for point down to the final two minutes when Jim Danforth drove in with a Dick Jockman handoff to close it to 60-56.

Dwight Anderson led West with 26 points. Jim Danforth paced the losers with 19.

White Sox Study Possibility of Installing Dome

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox baseball club said recently it had hired an architectural firm to study the possibility of making White Sox Park a domed stadium.

Owner Arthur C. Allin said "I think we can afford to go as high as $10 million."

Unlike the domed Houston Astro Stadium the White Sox dome would be movable with at least 50 per cent open at the top and permanently open at the lower level.

"I don't want to enclose the park," said Allin. "I just want to cover the top of it. I want to avoid the fantastic problems they have in Houston."

We would have the field covered from the direct assault of the weather, which means we could offer a better program for the fans as well as increase our profits."

Gary Player Named Golf's Putter of Year

Kathy Whitworth, Jack Nicklaus Only Other Vote-Getters

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Player, who made 1965 the most personal success year of any one golfer since Ben Hogan in 1953, was named winner of the Putter of the Year Award Saturday by the Golf Writers Association of America.

The compact 30-year-old South Africa professional who is now with his wife and five children on the farm near Johannesburg will be presented the trophy during the writers' 21st annual meeting in Masters Week at Augusta, Ga., in April.

Player was a runaway winner in the balloting with only Jack Nicklaus and Kathy Whitworth receiving other votes.

By winning the 1965 U.S. Open Player joined Hogan and Gene Sarazen as the only golfers ever to win the National and British Opens, the PGA and the Masters. After taking the National Open in St. Louis last June Player donated his entire purse of $21,000 to cancer relief and junior golf.

Juday Voted Top Back in Hula Game

HONOLULU (AP) — Steve Juday, Michigan state quarterback, won Back of the Game honors as he directed the North to a thrilling 27-26 victory over the South All Stars in the 20th Hula Bowl game but statistical honors went to a pair of Texas Tech standouts, quarterback Tommy Wilson and halfback Donny Anderson.

Carl McAdams, Oklahoma middle guard, was named best lineman of the Friday night's game.

Juday, who had trouble finding his legs in the first half, caught fire in the last two periods. He ran 20 yards for one touchdown and directed an 81-yard drive climaxed by a four-yard touchdown plunge by Tom Grabowski of Illinois. He later passed for 21 yards and the go-ahead touchdown. He completed 10 of 22 passes for 109 yards.

Wilson made good on 21 of 35 for 293 yards. He set records for passes attempted and passing yards.

Anderson, who caught two touchdowns passes, set a record for most catches, 10.

Kaukauna's JVs Whip Shawano

KAIKAUNA — The Kaukauna High junior varsity overcame continued underdogism in Midwestern Conference play and for the second time Friday night they rolled to a 74-46 win over Shawano.

The game was close for the opening period when both teams managed 14 points, but Harold Kohn coached Kaukauna pulled to outscore the visitors 27-8 in the second period for a comfortable 37-21 lead.

Rick Carls led the winner with 20 points and Terry Kohn contributed 18.

Dallas Rules 3½-Point Favorite Over Colts Today's Playoff Bowl

By WILL GRIMSLEY — lot more throwing."

MIAMI (AP) — Will Tomlin, a 29-year-old veteran, is the Dallas Cowboys' top pass receiver. That's the question that will be bugging the Dallas Cowboys when they square off against the Baltimore Colts here today. Both have been outshone by the National Football League's Playoff Bowl. Dallas' top receiver, Will Tomlin, has 10 catches for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns. Baltimore's top receiver, Jerry Hill, has 10 catches for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns. Dallas' top running back, Tony Stewart, has 10 carries for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns. Baltimore's top running back, Earl Edwards, has 10 carries for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns. Dallas' top quarterback, Roger Staubach, has 10 completions for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns. Baltimore's top quarterback, Earl Morrall, has 10 completions for 147 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Xavier Gymnasts Score Victory Over Manitowoc

MANITOWOC — The gymnastics team of Xavier High School took its third straight victory in its first season of competition by downing Manitowoc High School 61-46 in a meet held here Saturday afternoon.

In the contest, the David Hussey-coached Hawks took four firsts to Manity's three and made a near sweep of the third and fourth positions. Xavier's John Kuzler was high point man of the meet with 22, while Rick Gehlke led the losers with 14. Other high scorers for Xavier were Cliff Renker with 13.5 points and Larry Liebmann with 8.

Xavier's next meet will be Tuesday against the defending state public school champions at Granite High School. The first home meet for the Xavier team will be next Saturday against Erie High School in the Appleton St. Mary's grade school gym.

Takes 7-Stroke Lead in LA Open

Palmer Ties Record With 62

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Arnold Palmer turned the Los Angeles Open golf tournament into a shambles Saturday, blasting out a record-tying nine-under-par 62 and a 54-hole score of 200 at the Thunderbird Invitational in Palm Springs, Calif.

He attributed his putting to a change of hand position on the club. Palmer had 24 putts, the lowest he's ever had in his life in competition, he said.

Palmer's longest birdie putt was 25 feet on the 11th hole. Two were 15 feet and the others were 10 or under.

The lone bogey came when he missed the green. The wind came up he said just as he hit the shot and sucked the ball back. He said he chipped poorly about eight feet from the cup and missed the putt.

Palmer made a point of saving hello to his mother on national television. She is in a Pittsburgh hospital undergoing a bone graft.

Tomorrow's plan? "I'm just going out there and trying to make some more birdies," he concluded.

New London's Mat Team Beats Lourdes

OSHKOSH — A New London High School wrestling team composed of JV members with a few varsity matmen beat Oshkosh Lourdes 48-6 in a meet held at Lourdes Saturday afternoon.

Palmer's 29 strokes coming home to the thunderous cheers of his army bettered Rodgers' low nine-hole score of 30 in his victory four years ago.

Summary:

Dave Ragan, who led the field going into the third round, with a one-shot advantage over Palmer and Rex Baxter Jr., fell back with a 72 and into a group that included Baxter, Dave Marr, Harney and others.

Shoots a 66 — Casper, the pre-tournament choice, shot a 66. He was asked how it was to have a five under par round and still trail by seven. He could only shrug his shoulders.

Harney, good-naturedly added that to stay in the running all he'll have to do "is shoot 55 tomorrow."

Harney had a tremendous round himself, a 67 that included a hole-in-one followed by four consecutive birdies.

But this was no day for scores even as good as 66 and 67.

Palmer began his fabulous run of birdies on the eighth hole and didn't let up until the 15th. He added his ninth birdie of the day with an eight-foot putt on the 16th green and got his par the remaining two holes.

He had one bad hole, a bogey five on the fifth.

Baxter, still nursing his double-bogey, came in with 71 while Miller Barber, Mary Wes Ellis, Charlie Sifford and Dave Stockton also entered the 200 bracket.

Also tied at 209 were Don January, whose 66 went virtually unnoticed in the Palmer clamor, and Gene Lattier, with 68 field and also will become a kick return specialist, the Raiders said.

Labruzzo Signs Oakland Pact — OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The Oakland Raiders of the American Football League announced Saturday they have signed Joe Labruzzo, voted the most valuable player in the Colton Bowl for scoring both last touch downs in the 14, upset of pie Stockton also entered the 200 bracket.

The 5-foot-9, 170-pound offensive back, drafted 11th by Oakland and not at all by the National Football League, will be shifted to the defensive half and also will become a kick return specialist, the Raiders said.

Wildcats Set Scoring Record

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Northwestern set a school scoring record by walloping Purdue 111-97 Saturday in the opening Big Ten basketball game for both teams.

The old Wildcat scoring mark for a regulation game was 102 points against Notre Dame in 1959 and Western Michigan in 1958.

Purdue's Dave Schellhase wound up with 26 points. He bagged only seven in the first half as Northwestern drove into a 55-38 margin with Jim Burns hitting 18 points.

The closest Purdue came after that was 78-73 with 7:50 to go.

Rangers Post 6-4 Win Over Black Hawks

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Rangers pierced Chicago's tough defense for two goals in nine seconds late in the first period and went on to a 6-4 victory over the National Hockey League leaders Saturday.

Jean Ratelle and Earl Ingarfield gave the Rangers a 2-1 lead scoring at 14:16 and 14:25, respectively, and the fifth-place Blueshirts led the rest of the way in snapping Chicago's six-game unbeaten streak.

Vir Hadfield led the Ranger attack with two goals. Rookie Jim Johnson and defenseman Wayne Hillman also connected before a crowd of 13,102, who braved the city's rain strike.

Cesare Maniago, making his first start as a Ranger goalie, gave up a first period power play tally to Phil Esposito before Ratelle and Ingarfield shot New York ahead to stay.

Hadfield boosted the margin to 3-1 early in the second period, and the teams traded goals thereafter.

The Rangers' Bobby Hull, who was injured in separate failed attempts to score but added two assists to his league leading 10 points, got into a high-sticking duel with Ranger defense.

The game was immediately called off after the body of Hank Bowman, a writer for the New York Herald Tribune, was pulled from the water.

Bowman, who owned and operated a boat in the city, was pulled from the water.

Commissions and organizations charged with the duty of preparing the community for the future are a fine thing, but (and there is nothing personal intended) they don't go far enough with their planning.

For example, what if the planning commissions themselves do not prove adequate for the future? Is there any organization making plans for planning commissions?

In other words, who's planning planning?

What should be done, of course, is to set up a planning commission planning commission. And this inevitably leads to the possibility that perhaps these planning commission planning commissions may not prove adequate, thus requiring the creation of a planning commission planning commission planning commissions.

And then . . . well, this could, of course get out of hand, so what we need is a federal agency to regulate planning commission planning commissions. It would be the FPEPCA. Of course, for a planning commission planning commission to receive FPCPCA aid and assistance, it would have to meet FPCPCA qualifications.

Then there might be planning commission planning commissions which failed to meet the requirements.

This would obviously show a lack of planning.

Transportation is often credited with "shrinking" the world, but communications media also may have been responsible for the change.

This was illustrated recently when Miss Jean Volkman, Black Creek, saw a full-page story on Lawrence University's former dean, Dr. Chandler Rowe, in the Hawaii Times, published in Honolulu.

The page, and several others of an edition of the newspaper were wrapped around some small orchids which Jean and other secretaries at Aid Association for Lutherans ordered about the middle of December.

In addition to serving as packing for the flowers, the newspaper told of Dr. Rowe's efforts as president of Hawaii Lan College, on the island of Oahu.

Driving and raising horses has been a principal interest of Earl Rupple, Medina, since 1916. Rupple, who had his first pony when he was 14 years old, is seen here, holding the reins, while Sam Rupple stands beside him on the sled. (Post-Crescent Photo)

'A-Sledging We Will Go!'

MEDINA—If Earl Rupple had the choice of a luxury automobile or a team of horses to drive for pleasure, he would choose the latter.

Rupple, who has been driving and raising horses since August, 1916, owned his first pony when he was 14 years old. He is seen, reins in hand, in the color photo on the cover of today's VIEW. With him in the color picture is Walter Plunker, left, also a retired farmer.

During his years as a farmer, Rupple always had eight horses—four work animals and four colts. Since his retirement in 1963, he has continued to work with horses, and still owns three of them.

Seen in the cover photos are Flash and Pat. Both are registered Belgians, and weigh about 2,000 pounds each. They are used for some field work on the farm of Rupple's son, Sam, who is pictured with his father in the black-and-white photos accompanying this story.

During the winter months, the giant Belgians like nothing better than to draw a sled along snow-packed roadways at the Rupple farm.

Apparently, Rupple's enthusiasm for horses is contagious; it is shared not only by his son, Sam, but by his grandson, Jim Rupple.

Water Creates Magic Shapes

Post-Crescent

COMBINED LOCKS — The creative hand of Nature, the master artist, is touched each year to the trees, water, rocks and snow of the canal area below the U. S. Government locks here.

The result is a wonderland of intricately sculptured ice, capable of capturing the imagination of the artist or photographer who happens to be passing by.

Baeten attributes the spectacular shape of the ice to the fact that the water level had just been changed by engineers controlling the lock system of the Fox River valley.

Ice originally formed about the trees pictured when the water level was high. When the gates were opened and the level lowered, most of the ice broke away, leaving a saucer - shaped formation clinging to the trees.

Later, when the water level was stabilized, another layer of ice formed farther down on the trunk.

Then the sun warmed the ice, causing icicles to form, and bubbles to appear on the surface.

"The entire area had an eerie look," Baeten reported. "The water was eroding the earth from beneath the trees, which appeared to be clutching to life . . ."

Wisconsin's No. 1 Salesman

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON—There are plenty of salesmen in Wisconsin, but Lucian Schlimgen, Jr., is unique among them.

As newly-appointed head of the division of industrial development of the state department of resource development, Schlimgen sells something that few others offer the public.

He sells Wisconsin.

Schlimgen's task is bringing new industry into the state as an aid to the total development of Wisconsin's economy.

He works virtually alone, but with the good will of countless allies.

"There can be no doubt that this administration is more committed to industrial development than others in the past," he says. Efforts such as the governor's recent trade tour promote the much-sought development, he suggests.

Schlimgen labors with only the aid of a counterpart working in the area of total economic development, but he is helped by the efforts of 225 private industrial development corporations in communities previously just rejected us out-of-hand for any number of real or imagined reasons," he says. "We are 11th or 12th nationally in industrial ranking. We do not have to take our hats off to anyone when it comes to competing for industry."

Much of the state's new industry comes from the efforts of companies already located here that urge their associates in business to come to Wisconsin, according to Schlimgen.

"I am reasonably sure that this talking up the state helps us," he says, for many of the firms that contact him are referred to the state by existing businesses. He is given many other leads to follow up as well.

He estimates that about a third of his working time is spent on the road in Wisconsin and around the nation, selling the state.

About one-sixth of the agency's $250,000 budget is allotted to advertising.

"We try hard," he says. "In fact, we are swamped with work. But we don't go out and raid other states for industry."

Practices such as those of "Rhodes' Raiders" of Ohio, named after that state's governor, may achieve startling short term results, he implies. But in regard to long term economic development, such practices might be costly to the state.

Businesses, like baseball teams, can steal away in the night.

And although all states now have offices of industrial development, Schlimgen's is the only such agency in the country equipped with the essential facts, figures and economic information needed for his task punched into an automatic data processing system.

"We get a firm on the telephone interested in moving into the state and they can simply read us their needs, which we list on a standard form. Data processing supplies us with the needed information—fast."

The needed information can relate to water and space needs, available standing commercial structures, zoning problems and power supplies, as well as the size, skills and wage levels of the existing labor force.

Interested firms can learn of suggested and alternate sites in this manner.

Many major firms have adopted this means of picking Wisconsin as a site for expansion and new development, Schlimgen says.

In Letters From Lambarene

Dr. Albert Schweitzer's Life
Touched That of Oshkosh Man

BY DAN PAULICK

Sometimes, because of life's adversities, the spark of the humane quality in man is all but snuffed out — only to be blown into flame again by an encounter with another humane being. This is what Dr. Albert Schweitzer has meant to me, as I have grown to know him through his writings and the correspondence I received from his hospital in Lambarene.

The village of Lambarene is located near the western coast of Africa and some 50 miles below the equator in the Gabon Republic. It was here on the banks of the Ogowe River in 1913 that Dr. Schweitzer (then 38 years old) came to found his now world-renowned hospital. His efforts culminated in his being named recipient of the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize. All of the $33,149 prize money was put into his hospital establishment.

Schweitzer's was a manhood of many facets, each of which suggested greatness. He did not seek to find a place for himself in the world; the world sought to find a place with him. He was not moved by publicity; his life reflected true simplicity. Many sought him for address; his answer was couched in terms of silent compassion. He was doctor of medicine, music, philosophy and theology; yet his stature was one of undefiled humility.

He sought to combat man's inhumanity to man; in doing so he evolved a living philosophy to Reverence for Life.

Said Schweitzer oftentimes: "Silence should fall around me. I must not always talk about myself to the world. Let me be simple and modest. . ."

Le Grand Docteur's wish for the blessing of simplicity and modesty has at last been fulfilled. Silence has fallen around him.

Time of Decision

As Schweitzer grew from adolescence into manhood, he began to feel that he did not have the right to take as a matter of course a happy youth, good health and capacity for work. Also evolving was a deep sympathy for persons afflicted with pain in the world around him. It was this dual awareness that led Schweitzer, at the age of 30, to decide upon a life of medical service among the natives of Africa.

His reasoning suggested that whoever is spared personal pain must feel himself called upon to help diminish the pain of others. Said he: "We must all carry our share of the misery which lies upon the world . . . I wanted to be a doctor that I might be able to work without having to talk. For years I had been giving myself out in words . . . this new form of activity I could not represent to myself as talking about the religion of love, but only as an actual putting it into practice."

Reasoning also suggested to Schweitzer that contemplative thought was imperative if man hoped to progress to a state of true civilization. Since his university years, he had been baffled by the general neglect, even mistrust, of thought. While countless contemporaries were boasting of man's progress, he was noting the growth of a peculiar intellectual and spiritual fatigue.

Reverence for Life was Schweitzer's suggested antidote. Said he in summation: "Reverence for Life . . . does not allow the scholar to live for his science alone, even if he is very useful to the community in so doing. It does not permit the artist to exist only for his art, even if he gives inspiration to many by its means. It refuses to let the businessman imagine that he fulfills all legitimate demands in the course of his business activities. It demands from all that they should sacrifice a portion of their lives for others."

While contemplative thought proved to be Schweitzer's method of evolving the philosophy of Reverence for Life, the example of his life was to be the means by which he proffered it to the world. Said he in this regard: "Example is not the main thing in influencing others. It is the only thing. . . But they should not think, 'Behold, I am giving an example' — that spoils it. Anyone who thinks of the example he will give to others is occupied with things he ought not be doing. He has lost his simplicity. . ."

Reminded Schweitzer: "Only as a man has simplicity can his example influence others."

Leaves Rich Heritage

The impact of Schweitzer as a man lie in the power of his humane, almost saintlike, example. It was this example which led many of his contemporaries to label him as "the greatest man on earth." In this century, perhaps only Mohandas K. Gandhi can be viewed as his peer.

Many men presumed to know Dr. Albert Schweitzer. Few men, however, knew him like the African natives to whom he ministered for about half a century. If they had been asked to sum up their feelings concerning Le Grand Docteur, they might have chorused:

"He came to us as One unknown, without a name, as of old, by the riverside; he came to us who knew him not; he ministered to us and he healed us."

This probably would have been their evaluation, their tribute. What greater tribute could any man be paid?

During his lifetime, Schweitzer was oftentimes asked to give people a motto to live by. Following is one he is reputed to have proffered, a minute part of the rich spiritual heritage he has left to the world:

"Remain human within your own soul . . . If you surrender the ideal of human personality, the spiritual man is ruined, and with the end of spiritual man comes the end of civilization, yes, indeed, the end of humanity."

Reynard the Fox

*Beloved Animal Epic Opens
On Lawrence Stage Friday*

BY DON VORPAHL
Of Lawrence University

Reynard, the sometimes canny, sometimes pitiable subject of myriad bits of prose and poetry through the ages, is one of those delightful enigmas of whom no one knows the origin, but whose disputed parentage adds wonderfully to his appeal.

Scholars have long discussed Reynard's beginnings. The debate focuses on France and Germany, both of which claim him, and whether this fine fox must be assigned to birth by popular tradition, or to the writings of monastic poets.

It was none other than publisher-author Jacob Grimm who started the debate when he suggested in his edition of Reinhart Fuchs (Berlin, 1834) that a Beast Saga had been common to Indo-Germanic races since pre-historic times.

From this point, an epic contest arose almost of the magnitude of the Reynard tales themselves, as scholars sought to prove and disprove Grimm's theory.

Early scholarship revealed that much of what Grimm had taken for primitive German legendary material, had, in fact, been borrowed by monastic poets from collections of fables of antiquity and introduced into the Beast Epic. Among the borrowers' sources, interestingly, were Aesop's fables, thought to have been derived from other Indian writings.

But in 1893 a French researcher, Leopold Sudre, published Les Sources du Roman de Renart in which he meticulously pursued the Hindu, Greco-Latin and medieval origins of Reynard, and again concluded that the Beast Epic sprang from a popular oral tradition.

The debate raged back and forth until very recent years. Contemporary scholars, it seems, have settled on a middle ground, as one might expect. It is now generally accepted that Reynard's origin lay somewhere between the folk-lore and monastic beginnings, and that both Germany and France have legitimate claims on early versions.

In any case, Reynard has appeared in almost endless settings, and in a number of truly classic editions. These include the 2,266-line poem Reinhart Fuchs, written in a High German dialect by the travelling minstrel Heinrich der Gliechzare in about 1180, a 3,476-line Flemish poem by Arnout and Willem dating from 1250; a Flemish prose edition divided into chapters and combined with a set of appropriate moralizations, published in Antwerp in 1564; and the best known of all, Goethe's Reineke Fuchs, based on a Low German tradition, and published in Berlin in 1794.

Wilhelm von Kaulbach's famous illustrations, some of which accompany this writing, appeared first in an edition of Goethe's poem published in 1846.

English literature holds hardly a trace of Reynard until Caxton's translation in 1481. Chaucer took the story of his Nonne Preestes Tale from a fable which is related in the poems of Marie de France. It is the story of the capture of Chauntecleer by Russel the fox and the cock's clever escape, the same adventure which is met with in the Beast Epic.

Americans, of course, owe their best acquaintance with Reynard to the Uncle Remus tales.

After 130 film roles 58-year-old Ray Milland will make his Broadway stage debut in "Hostile Witness," due Feb. 17 following a seven-city tour. Milland (foreground) is seen here with Melville Cooper in the play. In the play, a hit in London, Milland is on stage continuously, as a well-known barrister accused of shooting a judge. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Milland's Versatility Challenged By First Broadway Role Since 1930

BY WILLIAM GLOVER

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A guy can dream—especially Ray Milland.

"I've written some great plots in my sleep," says the veteran star, "but by next morning I can't remember details."

He's been at it again. A few nights back he got to thrashing about in midslumber with some very tricky dialogue.

"I woke up, looked at the script—and found I'd made up about 15 pages of talk. I'd darn near written another play."

The incident gives some notion of the intensity of Milland's concentration upon the latest challenge to his versatility.

Having ridden in Britain's Royal Household Cavalry, won shooting honors, set a record at sailfishing and survived 130 film roles, the tireless Welshman is bracing now for his first in-person Broadway appearance.

In "Hostile Witness," due Feb. 17 at the Music Box, he enacts an eminent barrister accused of shooting a judge. The play had a long run in London, which explains why he's in it now.

"I got intrigued because it was hard to get tickets."

The role keeps on stage continuously, which Milland concedes is quite a test for a player whose entire living theater experience consists of single performance in 1930—he got fired opening night—and a recent 16-week, cross-country trip in "My Fair Lady."

"Oh, Lord, there have been lots of chances," he says. "Over the years I've had innumerable offers for plays—and they all turned out to be hits. One of them was for that very 'My Fair Lady' 11 years ago."

"But I had no time and no experience in the theater—so I figured, why risk making a fool of myself and destroying everything I'd built up in the way of a screen reputation?"

"Now I'm much more calm—and know my job better, too."

The musical comedy tour was a test of his adaptability to the night-after-night rigors of complete performance. A lot different he admits, from movies, "where you just break the back of a role but only learn a bit at a time because most of the shooting is out of sequence."

Milland has an "old-fashioned enthusiasim" for melodrama.

"I never go to the theater to see these problem plays that are the thing today. I've got enough problems of my own, like everyone else. I go to be entertained."

He would, however, thank people to stop associating him with that melodramatic peak of his own acting career, "Lost Weekend."

"After all," he says, "that movie was 19 years ago—but I still can't go into a bar on Third Avenue and buy a drink—they want to give me one."

Half of 'Conspicuous Six'

$100,000 'Midwives' Nurse New TV Shows

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Three men—a Phi Beta Kappa from Harvard, a former bandleader and singer, and a onetime comedy writer—are now busily deciding what Americans will see on their television screens next September—and the September after that.

They are half of what the show business journal, Variety, recently called "The Conspicuous Six," often charged with dictating what viewers in the nation's homes may see. This is an exaggeration in which lies a large kernel of truth.

Three of the "Conspicuous Six" are the presidents of the three major networks, ABC, CBS and NBC. On their desks the programming buck stops, since they are finally responsible for their networks' success or failure in attracting big audiences. But programming is just one of many supervisory chores they work on.

The Big Three are the network vice presidents in charge of programs, the men who actually supervise the selection and broadcast of about 100 programs that each week occupy the evening hours between 6:30 and 10 p.m.

Two-Thirds Right

Each year, the record shows, they are right about two-thirds of the time. Each spring—or sometimes long before that—30 or more entertainment programs disappear. Each fall, about the same number of new shows are born.

The top men work in a furiously competitive atmosphere. The rewards are high—each program vice president has a salary of approximately $100,000 a year. The penalties for failure are drastic: they are expendable, no matter how artfully or discreetly the resignation announcement is worded.

High turnover is evident in the length of time the three current program vice presidents have been in their jobs.

Mort Werner of NBC is the dean of the group—and will have been in the job only five years next summer. Michael H. Dann of CBS succeeded to his title in March 1963. Edgar J. Sherick of ABC was appointed in June 1963.

Werner, 49, the ex-singer, and Dann, 44, once a comedy writer have spent their professional lives in the entertainment business. Sherick, 41, the Ivy Leaguer, was a specialist in producing sports programs but climbed the network ladder via ABC's sales department.

Each heads a large staff of executives whose primary job it is to pick 10 to 15 new programs a year from literally hundreds of offers. These range from an idea dropped carefully over a very dry martini at the 21 Club in New York or Perino's in Hollywood, to a complete package including a $200,000 pilot film brought in by a major studio or big advertiser.

But if the three vice presidents act as midwives, nursing new programs to network life, it is the public—the viewers—which decides whether the shows live or die. Last season's executive hero can become this season's heavy if the national Nielsen ratings show that his selections, on the whole or even in part, are not approved by the viewing public.

At the moment, Sherick, Dann and Werner are in the busiest period of their year. They are looking at the current crop of entertainment programs, deciding which will reach the end of the road in April or May. They are nursing toward birth 90 to 100 new program ideas for next season which can be presented to potential sponsors.

"My job," said Mike Dann, "is to pick a lot of shows that will please most of the people most of the time, and to pick a few shows that will please some of the people some of the time."

It is an accurate statement of an almost impossible assignment. What qualifies these men to decide on the nation's television fare?

"Experience, I suppose," said Werner, a soft-spoken, unobtrusive man. "I've spent time as a musician, writer, a director, a producer and I know what makes good writing, good plotting and good stories."

"A good salesman can usually tell in the first 10 seconds whether he's likely to make a sale. A good program executive also gets some sort of signals from people. I bought 'The Man From U.N.C.L.E.' the minute I heard about it because I felt that the whole trend in literature and films was moving in that direction."

Sherick expresses it differently: "I react, like litmus paper, to ideas. I think you have to have an idea of the make-up of the American people before you can program to their tastes. They have strong family values, are adaptable, their tastes evolve and they root for the underdog."

In Letters From Lambarene

Dr. Albert Schweitzer's Life

BY DAN PAULICK

Sometimes, because of life's adversities, the spark of the humane quality in man is all but snuffed out — only to be blown into flame again by an encounter with another humane being. This is what Dr. Albert Schweitzer has meant to me, as I have grown to know him through his writings and the correspondence I received from his hospital in Lambarene.

The village of Lambarene is located near the western coast of Africa and some 50 miles below the equator in the Gabon Republic. It was here on the banks of the Ogowe River in 1913 that Dr. Schweitzer (then 38 years old) came to found his now world-renowned hospital. His efforts culminated in his being named recipient of the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize. All of the $33,149 prize money was put into his hospital establishment.

Schweitzer's was a manhood of many facets, each of which suggested greatness. He did not seek to find a place for himself in the world; the world sought to find a place with him. He was not moved by publicity; his life reflected true simplicity. Many sought him for address; his answer was couched in terms of silent compassion. He was doctor of medicine, music, philosophy and theology; yet his stature was one of undefiled humility.

He sought to combat man's inhumanity to man; in doing so he evolved a living philosophy to Reverence for Life.

Said Schweitzer oftentimes: "Silence should fall around me. I must not always talk about myself to the world. Let me be simple and modest. . ."

Le Grand Docteur's wish for the blessing of simplicity and modesty has at last been fulfilled. Silence has fallen around him.

Time of Decision

As Schweitzer grew from adolescence into manhood, he began to feel that he did not have the right to take as a matter of course a happy youth, good health and capacity for work. Also evolving was a deep sympathy for persons afflicted with pain in the world around him. It was this dual awareness that led Schweitzer, at the age of 30, to decide upon a life of medical service among the natives of Africa.

His reasoning suggested that whoever is spared personal pain must feel himself called upon to help diminish the pain of others. Said he: "We must all carry our share of the misery which lies upon the world . . . I wanted to be a doctor that I might be able to work without having to talk. For years I had been giving myself out in words . . . this new form of activity I could not represent to myself as talking about the religion of love, but only as an actual putting it into practice."

Reasoning also suggested to Schweitzer that contemplative thought was imperative if man hoped to progress to a state of true civilization. Since his university years, he had been baffled by the general neglect, even mistrust, of thought. While countless contemporaries were boasting of man's progress, he was noting the growth of a peculiar intellectual and spiritual fatigue.

Reverence for Life was Schweitzer's suggested antidote. Said he in summation: "Reverence for Life . . . does not allow the scholar to live for his science alone, even if he is very useful to the community in so doing. It does not permit the artist to exist only for his art, even if he gives inspiration to many by its means. It refuses to let the businessman imagine that he fulfills all legitimate demands in the course of his business activities. It demands from

While contemplative thought proved to be Schweitzer's method of evolving the philosophy of Reverence for Life, the example of his life was to be the means by which he proffered it to the world. Said he in this regard: "Example is not the main thing in influencing others. It is the only thing. . . But they should not think, 'Behold, I am giving an example' — that spoils it. Anyone who thinks of the example he will give to others is occupied with things he ought not be doing. He has lost his simplicity. . ."

Reminded Schweitzer: "Only as a man has simplicity can his example influence others."

Leaves Rich Heritage

The impact of Schweitzer as a man lie in the power of his humane, almost saintlike, example. It was this example which led many of his contemporaries to label him as "the greatest man on earth." In this century, perhaps only Mohandas K. Gandhi can be viewed as his peer.

Many men presumed to know Dr. Albert Schweitzer. Few men, however, knew him like the African natives to whom he ministered for about half a century. If they had been asked to sum up their feelings concerning Le Grand Docteur, they might have chorused:

"He came to us as One unknown, without a name, as of old, by the riverside; he came to us who knew him not; he ministered to us and he healed us."

This probably would have been their evaluation, their tribute. What greater tribute could any man be paid?

During his lifetime, Schweitzer was oftentimes asked to give people a motto to live by. Following is one he is reputed to have proffered, a minute part of the rich spiritual heritage he has left to the world:

"Remain human within your own soul . . . If you surrender the ideal of human personality, the spiritual man is ruined, and with the end of spiritual man comes the end of civilization, yes, indeed, the end of humanity."

Business Conventions Get Serious; Gone Are the Days of Skylarking

By PHILIP J. KEUPER
NEW YORK (AP) — When you think of a business convention do you think of the back-lapping, bourbon-drinking, card-playing, skylarking that makes a man feel like a boy again?

Forget it. Business conventions, while not all business, were never more serious.

Who says so? Hotel executives, who are hosts to the conventions, and trade association officials, who stage them. To them, the traditional hoop-la and gimmicks of business meetings are out. There is revelry, they say, but even that seems businesslike.

Businessmen today bring their wives to conventions, take notes during meetings, work harder to line up sales, strain to catch new ideas, stay alert for job offers and listen to experts on everything from automation to antitrust.

More Going On
"Business conventions today are staid, responsible and serious," says Robert H. Whalen, a New York hotel executive. "Yet there seems to be more going on than ever before."

The booming national economy and the complexity of modern business have sharpened business conventions more to the point of their purpose: to provide businessmen with ideas and new ways of looking at problems.

Convention meetings often begin at breakfast rather than late morning. Many meetings have added trade shows to unveil products, filling exposition centers in New York, Chicago, Dallas, Las Vegas, Miami and Detroit. Convention executives vie to lure top speakers: cabinet members and other government officials, college professors, management consultants, marketing experts, key corporation officials.

"We want to get important people who are going to make important statements," said a paper industry executive.

So diverse and far-flung are the enterprises of many modern corporations that smaller, regional conventions now supplement many national meetings. One large industrial corporation estimates it spends almost $1 million a year just belonging to convention and trade groups.

Within conventions, seminars have replaced some mass meetings so men can delve into their specialties.

Businessman Changes
Perhaps the biggest change at the convention is the businessman himself.

"The businessman going to a convention now is a better businessman," says Howard Fogel, a veteran industrial magazine writer. "He's more professional. He wants information."

Companies, too, are demanding more results for their company can line up a string of important contacts and lose a top man all at the same meeting.

If businessmen like conventions, hotels love them. They fill rooms and pump money into hotel bars, restaurants and gift shops. As a result, top hotels have squads of salesmen who roam the country lining up conventions years in advance.

"We wine and dine and try to get someone in the group's decision committee to swing the meeting to our hotel," said one salesman.

The growing percentage of wives at business meetings and tighter tax laws on entertainment expenses have added to the air of sobriety. But the drink bureau still is a hustler, too. The traditional business convention leaders, New York and Chicago, find themselves battling Dallas, New Orleans, Las Vegas, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Miami for the convention dollar.

"Jet travel has brought many more cities into the competition for the conventions and the struggle theater is worth more than the rest of the convention combined," says Charles Gillett, a visitors bureau. "But the battle is worth it."

Last year, New York, a city that historically had never started a product rolling, scrambled to lure conventions, estimated that delegates to pret-more than 1,000 conventions pumped $315 million into the city's hotels, stores and restaurants.

Reynard the Fox

*Beloved Animal Epic Opens
On Lawrence Stage Friday*

BY DON VORPAHL
Of Lawrence University

Fox Cities youngsters and adults fall heir to one of history's best loved animal epics when they encounter rascally Reynard the Fox on Friday, Saturday and Sunday in an Experimental Theatre production by the Lawrence University Theatre Company.

Reynard, the sometimes canny, sometimes pitiable subject of myriad bits of prose and poetry through the ages, is one of those delightful enigmas of whom no one knows the origin, but whose disputed parentage adds wonderfully to his appeal.

Scholars have long discussed Reynard's beginnings. The debate focuses on France and Germany, both of which claim him, and whether this fine fox must be assigned to birth by popular tradition, or to the writings of monastic poets.

It was none other than publisher-author Jacob Grimm who started the debate when he suggested in his edition of Reinhart Fuchs (Berlin, 1834) that a Beast Saga had been common to Indo-Germanic races since pre-historic times.

From this point, an epic contest arose almost of the magnitude of the Reynard tales themselves, as scholars sought to prove and disprove Grimm's theory.

Early scholarship revealed that much of what Grimm had taken for primitive German legendary material, had, in fact, been borrowed by monastic poets from collections of fables of antiquity and introduced into the Beast Epic. Among the borrowers' sources, interestingly, were Aesop's fables, thought to have been derived from other Indian writings.

But in 1893 a French researcher, Leopold Sudre, published Les Sources du Roman de Renart in which he meticulously pursued the Hindu, Greco-Latin and medieval origins of Reynard, and again concluded that the Beast Epic sprang from a popular oral tradition.

The debate raged back and forth until very recent years. Contemporary scholars, it seems, have settled on a middle ground, as one might expect. It is now generally accepted that Reynard's origin lay somewhere between the folk-lore and monastic beginnings, and that both Germany and France have legitimate claims on early versions.

In any case, Reynard has appeared in almost endless settings, and in a number of truly classic editions. These include the 2,266-line poem Reinhart Fuchs, written in a High German dialect by the travelling minstrel Heinrich der Gliechzare in about 1180, a 3,476-line Flemish poem by Arnout and Willem dating from 1250; a Flemish prose edition divided into chapters and combined with a set of appropriate moralizations, published in Antwerp in 1564; and the best known of all, Goethe's Reineke Fuchs, based on a Low German tradition, and published in Berlin in 1794.

Wilhelm von Kaulbach's famous illustrations, some of which accompany this writing, appeared first in an edition of Goethe's poem published in 1846.

English literature holds hardly a trace of Reynard until Caxton's translation in 1481. Chaucer took the story of his Nonne Preestes Tale from a fable which is related in the poems of Marie de France. It is the story of the capture of Chauntecleer by Russel the fox and the cock's clever escape, the same adventure which is met with in the Beast Epic.

Americans, of course, owe their best acquaintance with Reynard to the Uncle Remus tales.

'Some Progress' In Efforts to End N. Y. Transit Strike

Mediators State Monday Is Goal for Restoring Service

NEW YORK (AP) — This to obtain heavy union fines for city's multimillion-dollar transit strike entered its second week Saturday with 6,500 subway cars and 4,000 buses still idle, but mediators stating a goal of restoring transit service by Monday morning but conceding that eight or ten "hard money issues" were unresolved. President Michael J. Quill of the Transport Workers Union, AFL-CIO, and eight other labor leaders remained imprisoned. Pending was the New York Transit Authority's court effort.

Negotiations Ahead

Much negotiating ground remained to be traveled, the mediators said, before the metropolitan area's 15 million inhabitants could return to their normal modes of transportation.

The weekend, however, brought an easing of the incredible flow of vehicles which had all but turned Manhattan into a week-long traffic jam.

With the financial impact mounting by an estimated $100 million a day, businessmen across the country were reported to be feeling the jolt to the nation's financial center.

Within the city, the strike hit the poorest peoples, the ones most dependent upon the subway trains and buses operated by 34,400 workers represented by the Transport Workers Union, also an AFL-CIO affiliate.

The solution defied the efforts of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, sent here by President Johnson at the request of the Republican mayor, Lindsay turned to Washington after the unions rejected his plea to return to work pending settlement with the comment: "No contract, no work."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Congress confronted with the possible escalation of fighting in Viet Nam and the threat of inflation at home convenes for its 1966 session in a solemn mood Monday.

President Johnson will keynote his program with a nationally broadcast State of the Union address Wednesday night to a session in which the funding of "Great Society" social reforms will collide with skyrocketing costs of the Southeast Asia conflict.

Girl, 5-Year-Old Nephew Die as Flames Engulf Home

WEST BEND (AP) — Twenty-year-old Janet Peters, was spending the night at the home of his 5-year-old nephew, Randy Peters, died Saturday in a fire that raced through a farm home away, told authorities he had in 7 below zero temperatures. Authorities said they were not notice anything unusual trapped in an upstairs closet. Janet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Peters, were hospitalized, and her brother, William, 18, escaped injury when he jumped through a window to safety. Another brother, Donald, 15, had left for work earlier on a neighbor's farm.

The fire destroyed the Peters' two-story frame residence, two miles south of West Bend. The cause was undetermined but it apparently started in the kitchen area.

U.S. Launches Its Biggest Assault of Viet Nam War

3-Story Building Engulfed

Madison Fireman Victim of Flames

MADISON (AP) — One fireman died in choking smoke as he was carried from a burning three-story business and apartment building near the Capitol Saturday night.

The flames charred a carpet store and six apartments above it with damage estimated by an owner at $250,000.

Daniel Parkinson, 32, a Madison fireman, was dead on arrival at a hospital after he was carried from the smoke-filled building.

Winds up to 15 miles an hour fanned the flames and sent towering plumes of black smoke billowing above Madison's downtown district.

Four-Hour Struggle

The blaze was brought under control after a four-hour struggle by more than 75 firemen.

Parkinson evidently died of smoke inhalation, authorities said. He was carried from the burning building about two hours after he had entered it with oxygen.

The fire broke out in bitter cold with temperatures about 12 degrees above zero.

FBI agents made simultaneous raids at five locations in Miami and at others in New York City, Jersey City, Baltimore, Huntington, W. Va., Baton Rouge, La., New Orleans, Cleveland and Clarksdale, Miss.

Question Posed by 'Mansfield Report'

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The peak report on the war in Viet Nam by Sen. Mike Mansfield and four colleagues raises grave questions about whether the United States can ever win its major goal in that conflict regardless of whether the fighting is halted soon or continues to expand indefinitely.

These questions appear to pose the main challenge for President Johnson when he goes to Congress in the next few weeks for massive new appropriations to finance the struggle. They sharpen what is likely to be the central issue in the forthcoming debate. Where do we go from here?

The President will have an opportunity to give his answer to this consuming questioning when he reports on the state of the union next Wednesday night before a joint session of Congress.

Decision Is Due

The traditional speech will be broadcast on television and radio — and it will come at about the time some officials have been expecting a decision on whether and when the bombing of North Viet Nam will be resumed.

Mansfield's assessment of the conflict is not necessarily the same on all points as that of the Johnson administration. Administration officials have taken the position that what they call a reasonable peace settlement — one securing the independence of South Viet Nam — is not beyond possibility. Most top officials also believe that Red China would prefer to keep out of the war. But no one knows, in fact, what it may do in the months ahead.

The White House and State Department are giving the Mansfield report and particularly its conclusions careful study. The trip taken by the senators was undertaken with President Johnson's approval, and their findings are bound to command administration attention.

Pilots Report Good Results In Air Strikes

U. S. Jets Have Hit Ships, Trucks Carrying Munitions

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jet pilots are reporting excellent results from massive raids on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos during the lengthening pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam, informed sources said Saturday.

Squadrons totaling up to 300 planes, packing nearly 1,000 tons of bombs and rockets, are hitting daily at strategic junctions and southbound Communist convoys on the maze of roads and waterways making up the trail, these sources said.

Pilots told of numerous secondary explosions from ammunition-laden sampans and trucks that Hanoi dispatched to take advantage of the lull that descended over North Vietnamese territory by President Johnson's order Christmas Eve.

The informants, who are reliable, preferred not to be identified. Nor was there a pinpointing of the bases from which the jets have put the Laotian phase of the war into full swing. No official U.S. or Vietnamese spokesman would comment.

At one time or another in the past year pilots based in Thailand, in South Viet Nam and aboard U.S. 7th Fleet carriers in the South China Sea have made runs over Laos. Announced combat activity of the latter two groups has been limited for the last 16 days to strikes against the Red enemy within South Viet Nam.

Abel Adheres to 'Union Principles'

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Steelworkers President I. W. Abel said Saturday he had done away with a Washington hotel suite, two limousines, a chauffeur, several body guards and three secretaries which he inherited when he took over the union's top office last June.

"This is enough to give you some indication that if we're going to ask directors and staff men to live within trade union principles, we ourselves are going to be willing to do it," Abel said.

Abel was elected president of the union, the nation's third largest, last year in the climax of a bitter power struggle with David J. McDonald, who had been president for 12 years.

Australian Battalion Joins American Units for Drive On Reds' 'Iron Triangle'

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. troops and Vietnamese government troops have launched their biggest operation of the war in a push east of the capital in Hau Nghia province.

In sporadic contact Saturday, the Australians killed six Viet Cong while allied casualties were light. American troops ran into light opposition in four helicopter landing zones.

The Australians seized three weapons, 5,000 rounds of ammunition, 35 grenades and some equipment, a U.S. military spokesman announced.

The allies were, roughly, deployed in a "U" shaped formation with the open end facing the river. Intelligence agents reported that a Viet Cong regiment was in the area.

Menasha Marine Killed Saturday By Red Sniper

MENASHA — Word was received late Saturday night that a Menasha Marine, Pfc. Ronald H. Jahnke, 22, was killed Saturday by Viet Cong sniper fire in the vicinity of Da Nang in South Viet Nam.

Jahnke's father, Albert A. Jahnke, 116 Abbey Ave., was notified in a telegram received at 11:28 p.m. The message was sent by Lt. Gen. R. C. Mangrum, Washington, acting commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps.

According to the message, Jahnke received a gunshot wound in the chest from sniper fire while he was involved in a re-supply mission to his company's defensive position.

The young Marine, who would have been in the corps five years in June, has a wife, Sally, who lives at route 1, Bow, Washington.

UW Possible Site For Poverty Research

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Economic Opportunity was reported Saturday to be preparing to announce the designation of the University of Wisconsin as the site for a national research center on poverty.

Red China, meanwhile, said the United States hopes to sell its Viet Nam peace campaign through Shelepin.

Pham seemed to counter Chinese criticism of the Soviet Union in praising Moscow for its help in the war. The Chinese had charged that the Russians have skimped on their help.

Moore to Head State Tax Office At Appleton

Official Succeeds Jay L. Tibbetts Who Has Resigned

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Glen H. Moore, has been appointed to succeed Jay L. Tibbetts as director of the Appleton district office of the income and sales tax division of the State Tax Department.

Moore, field audit supervisor of the Madison district office will assume his new duties April 1. Tibbetts has served in the tax department for 31 years.

Born in Plover in Portage County in 1919 Moore joined the department in 1949, serving both in office and field auditing capacities. He assumed his present position in 1964.

Moore graduated from the University of Wisconsin, with a bachelor's degree in business administration after majoring in accounting. He is a veteran of four years service in the U.S. Army during World War II.

The father of four daughters and a son, Moore plans to move his wife and children to Appleton in June, at the end of the school year.

The Appleton district office of the tax department is composed of Brown, Calumet, Door, Florence, Fond du Lac, Forest, Green Lake, Kewaunee, Langlade, Manitowoc, Marinette, Marquette, Menominee, Oconto, Outagamie, Shawano, Sheboygan, Waupaca, Waushara and Winnebago counties.

State YGOP Backs Reagan Bid for Office

Executive Committee Parley at Oshkosh Hits Group Research

OSHKOSH — Resolutions critical of Group Research, Inc., and supporting movie star Ronald Reagan's bid for the Republican nomination for governor of California were approved by the executive committee of the Wisconsin Federation of Young Republicans here Saturday afternoon.

The state executive committee meeting was one of several Republican gatherings at the Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh Reeve Union Saturday. The other meetings were the northeast district college coordinators and the Sixth District Young Republicans executive committee.

Plans were outlined for the State Young Republican convention scheduled for the Pioneer Hotel April 29 to May 1. Speaking on the convention laws was Keith Mulligan, Oshkosh, Sixth District YGOP chairman.

Attendance of about 600 persons is expected for the state convention.

Criticize Group Research
The resolution on Group Research, Inc., said that the Democratic national committee and its chairman, John Bailey, rely on the services of this group which has categorically black listed over 2,000 persons with the criteria being that they received awards from the freedom foundation, and that Group Research claims to vividly warn over the activities of extremists and lists such noted persons as J. Edgar Hoover, Rev. B. A. Graham, Bishop Fulton Sheen, and Dwight D. Eisenhower but not G. H. Hays.

The state YGOP executive committee said it deplores similar efforts by Group Research and does not admire the Democrats' reliance on the facilities of Group Research.

Support Reagan
The resolution on Ronald Reagan said that Reagan had been a vital and an energetic campaigner.

Valley's Troubled Needy Assured of Legal Counsel

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

"Man's right to legal counsel should not be determined by how much money he has in his pocket."

It is on this premise that legal aid programs were founded and are operated in Outagamie and neighboring counties.

The mechanics of legal aid vary from county to county, but in each case, the plan is a part of the county bar association. There is no set policy on the and is for the purpose of providing free legal assistance accepted on a gratis basis, but for people who can't help themselves. Said one lawyer, because state law provides "Legal aid is a public service on the part of attorneys."

Winnebago County set the pace in legal aid services in a part of the state, having founded such a program in 1959. Other counties have used the Winnebago plan as a model.

Oshkosh Office

The Winnebago County Legal Aid Association, comprised of five county bar members, maintains an office in the courthouse at Oshkosh. Every Thursday afternoon a staff attorney and a volunteer secretary are available to interview indigents who need counsel.

A qualified applicant is referred to one of 50 Winnebago County attorneys. An average of three cases per Thursday are heard in the Oshkosh office, according to Atty. Hibbard Engler, Winnebago County Bar president.

The Brown County Bar Association has had a legal aid office in the courthouse since last April. The office, open Tuesday and Friday afternoons, has a full-time secretary and a staff of 57 attorneys. Eighty-five persons have been served under the program.

Legal aid facilities in Outagamie, Sheboygan, Calumet, Manitowoc and Waupaca counties are less elaborate, but serve an equally important function.

Outagamie Program
Atty. Gordon Myse heads the three-man Outagamie County Bar Association sub-committee dealing with legal aid. Working with him are attorneys Philip F. Schlichting and Donald B. Green.

New life has been breathed into the Outagamie legal aid program in the past eight months. More changes and updating are planned.

The Outagamie legal aid setup seems to be pretty much representative of counties not having a complex organization and a full-time office.

Cases referred to Myse and his staff come primarily from church and welfare agencies and other attorneys.

Free legal assistance is not provided everyone who seeks it. There is no merit for such in Outagamie. He was charged with driving 46 miles per hour and having a legitimate case in a 25-mile zone.

Telegram Tells Couple Son Hurt in Viet Nam

NEENAH — A Neenah police man knocked on the door of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rogers at 6 p.m. Saturday and relayed a telegram to the couple stating their son had been wounded Friday while on patrol in Viet Nam.

The message from the acting commandant of the Marine Corps said their son Lance Cpl. Roy T. Rogers, 20, suffered multiple fragmentation wounds in the left arm and left leg while on patrol in the vicinity of Chu Lai.

"At the time of this report," the telegram read "he was receiving treatment at the battalion aid station."

"His condition and prognosis were good," it said. The official report from Washington, D. C., said the

The last sentence in a Jan. 2 story in the Sunday Post-Crescent that Wauwatosa authorities said Mrs. Beverly Gentile was convicted of theft by trick at Oshkosh. Every Thursday afternoon a staff attorney and a volunteer secretary are available to interview indigents who need counsel.

On May 26, 1965 the charge against Mrs. Gentile was dismissed upon motion of an assistant Milwaukee County district attorney.

Wauwatosa Police Department records, according to Police Chief John F. Howard, show the case was dismissed against Mrs. Gentile and restitution in the amount of $267, made to a tailor, who was the complainant.

The Jan. 2 story concerned a beer-liquor license application made here by Vincent J. Maniaci formerly of Milwaukee, and his association with said after reading the tele-gram, "just four days from former Milwaukeean, Beverly Gentile's wife."

"I don't think it really hit us," Maniaci, a member of a family which operated restaurant and we reared the tele-gram," she said.

A 1963 graduate of Neenah High School, Rogers signed up for the marines while still in school. After basic training he served in Okinawa and Hawaii before leaving for Viet Nam with the Third Marine Division.

He was a squad leader with 16 men under him, his mother said.

In his last letter, which the family received Monday, he told of being scared because he had so few days left.

He said he was lucky because he had been out on patrol last week," his mother continued. While he was out on patrol his buddy was killed sleeping in their tent, she explained.

Emphasis of the program is on the acquisition and development of parks. Funds are allocated on a basis of population, project and need.

Allocations, Jensen said, are based 60 per cent on population 30 per cent on project and 10 per cent on need.

The reason for the emphasis on population is to channel the funds into highly-populated areas, where they will do the most good.

This year a total of $1,177,847 is available to counties, and more is expected next year. Jensen said the average allocation over 25 years should be

Modern Portrayal Given to Apostles

NEENAH — Possible reasons why Jesus chose 11 of his 12 apostles are given through contemporary comparisons by the Rev. K. Aari Van Dam in his first book "Men About The Lord's Table" released this past week.

The former pastor of Whiting Memorial Baptist Church, Neenah, who is now serving a congregation in Martins Ferry, Ohio, wrote the 95-page volume to help the reader identify himself with one or more of the apostles.

The book was begun as a series of sermons, some first preached at the First Baptist Church of Sac City, Iowa, and others preached when he served the Whiting Memorial Baptist Church, Neenah, from June 1957, to Oct. 24, 1965. It was written in answer to repeated requests from his congregations.

Forty of the criminal cases and ordinance violations, 120 jury cases and 26 to have some of the thoughts put into book form. It is the pastor's wish to have it considered an interaction between pastor and people product.

Question Posed
A mirror is held up to man in the pastor's book and the question is plain "Which one of them am I?"

Pastor Van Dam makes clear that he believes Peter was a man with three callings — to be a disciple of Christ, to be a constant companion of the Master and to be an Apostle.

Andrew is depicted as the First Century's public relations man for Christ. The brother of Peter, Andrew played his own gift role — used his own talents to invite men to see Jesus. The key to his influence, says Pastor Van Dam, was the fact that Andrew fearlessly approached others and was himself approachable.

James Ambitions
James, a fisherman and cousin of Jesus, was known as the "Son of Thunder." Two factors in his life were important when considering James place at the Lord's table," the book cites. He was ambitious and self-seeking. His anger was against

Sunday Mornings Best
Sunday mornings are an especially good time to spin the frequency dial. Many operators are on the air then and some of the bands are filled and Niles then turns to the less frequent bands.

His latest contacts are Bahrain Island, Ebon Atoll and China. Niles said about 120 contacts have been made by has ever been refused free counsel. Those who do not qualify for aid, possibly because they have no legal grounds for a case, usually are given helpful advice or are referred to proper agencies.

Niles now has 310 confirmed contacts, each from a different country. There are possibly 25 more countries to contact, but the absence of amateur radio operators in these countries presents a major obstacle.

Domestic problems, compensation claims and landlord-tenant cases are among those frequently handled through the legal aid committee. Myse said there is no set policy on the and is for the purpose of providing free legal assistance accepted on a gratis basis, but for people who can't help themselves. Said one lawyer, because state law provides "Legal aid is a public service on the part of attorneys."

Persons seeking legal aid are encouraged to pay at least a partial share of the court costs involved such as filing fees but often the attorneys pick up the tab on costs. Those receiving assistance are under no obligation to repay.

"Participation in the plan on the part of attorneys has been excellent," Myse said.

More Awareness
The Appleton attorney said he would like to see a greater public awareness of a legal aid provision in Outagamie County.

"The service is of little value if people do not know it is available," Myse said.

Legal aid programs in Brown, Dane, Milwaukee and Winnebago counties are being studied by the Outagamie unit and certain aspects of those programs probably will be incorporated in a formalized plan to be submitted to the Outagamie County Bar Association.

Burnett, Johnson Pace South '11' to Senior Bowl Win

North's Twilley Grabs 12 Passes, Gets 'Outstanding Player' Award

By RON SPEER
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South wiped out an 11-point deficit by blending the running of Bob Burnett with the passing of Randy Johnson and defeated the North 27-18 in the Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Burnett, the powerful Arkansas halfback, scored twice on two-yard plunges in the South's second half surge in the nationally televised football game.

Johnson, Texas A&I quarterback, threw two touchdowns after the passes, hitting Jim Lindsey of Arkansas with an 11-yard scoring strike in the second quarter

New London '5' Tips Waupaca In Overtime

Rieckman Sinks Free Throw to Cap 66-65 Win

By ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
NEW LONDON — Bob Rieckman sank a free throw with five seconds left in overtime to give New London a 66-65 win over Waupaca in a non-loop contest here Saturday.

The winning free throw capped a strong comeback in the second half by Coach Bill Beyer's Bulldogs. New London took a 48-46 lead with 6:17 left in the fourth quarter. It was the first time they had led in the game since 5:37 remained in the first period.

Sparking the comeback were spurts of six and eight points.

Leading the Bulldogs' attack was guard Bruce Feurig, with 27 points. Feurig put in two 20-foot jump shots in the overtime period to keep the Bulldogs alive.

One of the major factors in the ball game was that Waupaca committed only eight fouls. New London was unable to get the bonus shot late in the fourth period and this allowed the Comets to commit deliberate 1-shot fouls and eventually tie the game at 61-61.

New London shot 42 per cent for the game, sinking 31 of 73 shots, but in the second half the Bulldogs recorded a torrid 55 per cent. Waupaca, on the other hand, shot a steady 40 per cent, dumping in 27 of 63 shots.

Hitting double figures for New London, besides Feurig, was Reickman with 23 points. Leading the Comets was Rick Riddle with 22 points and Jeff Looker with 19.

Rams' Search For Mentor Centers on 4 Defensive Coach Of Bears Mentioned As Possibility

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams' search for a coach has focused on four individuals, according to sources close to Dan Reeves, owner of the National Football League club.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner reported today that the successor to Harland Svare, fired two weeks ago, is likely to be one of the following:

George Allen, defensive coach of the Chicago Bears; Paul Brown, founder and former coach of the Cleveland Browns; Buddy Parker, former coach of the Detroit Lions and Pittsburgh Steelers; or George Wilson, former coach of the Detroit Lions and now an assistant with the Washington Redskins.

Another Team
Also mentioned was Sid Gillman, coach of the San Diego Chargers of the American Football League and a former Ram coach. But the sources close to Reeves say the Rams' owner is reluctant to negotiate with the present head coach of another team.

Within the National League, Commissioner Pete Rozelle has established an understanding that a head coach will not move from one team to another without the consent of both.

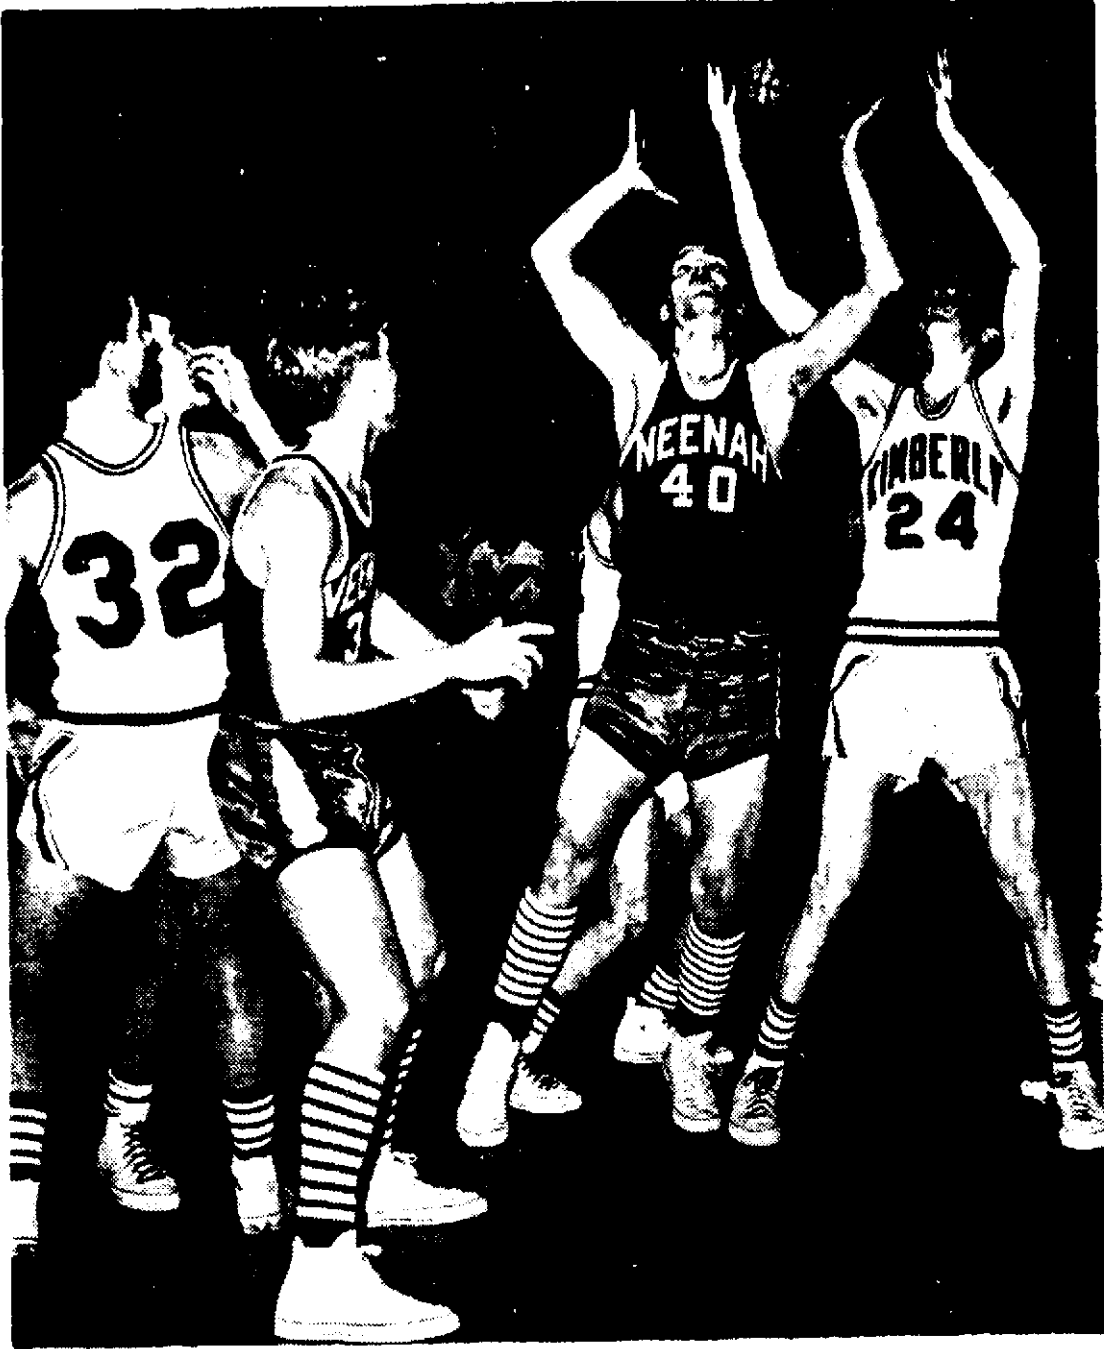

This understanding rules out Minnesota Viking coach Norm Van Brocklin, a former Ram quarterback, and any other NFL coach mentioned in earlier speculation.

In any case, Reeves is likely to deliberate at length, because the Rams have suffered through seven straight losing years, have employed eight coaches in 26 years and have seen attendance fall from $3,600 a game in 1958 to just 40,333 a game last season.

Cubs' Jackson Takes Salary Cut for '66
(CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran pitcher Larry Jackson and four rookies have signed their 1966 contracts, the Chicago Cubs announced Saturday.

Jackson, who slipped to a 14-21 record after posting a 24-11 mark in 1964, accepted a reduction in his salary.

Hortonville Second Seymour Wins Title In Wrestling Meet

SEYMOUR — The Seymour High School wrestling team took first place in the Seymour Invitational Wrestling Tournament Saturday by amassing 79 points. Hortonville took second with 73 points, followed by Manawa's 57 points and Kimberly's 52.

Appleton High School landed in the fifth position, with 41 markers, while Denmark placed sixth with 35. Omro took seventh position with 32 and Kaukauna last with 6.

In taking the win, Seymour placed in every one of the matches except the 138 pound division and took two firsts and three seconds. Manawa High School garnered the most firsts with three.

Appleton High School's Tom Gerritts placed first in the 145-pound class and Jeff Huttenburg took top honors in the 165-pound division.

WSU-O Women See Competitive Action in 8 Interscholastic Sports

Swimming Team's Accomplishments Are Impressive

By DOUG KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
OSHKOSH — Are females physically and mentally capable of participating in intercollegiate competitive athletics?

Facts in evidence seem to indicate that they are.

At Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh coeds are competing on an intercollegiate level in track, swimming, basketball, bowling, badminton, volleyball, field hockey and tennis.

Currently, the swimming team, coached by Jan Moldenhauer, has been taking many first places in intercollegiate meets. Most recently a one-girl team, comprised of Allison "Candy" Neuman, placed ninth in a field of 16 teams in an All-Eastern meet at Kent State University.

Miss Neuman, swimming the 50 and 100-yard breast stroke events and the 100-yard individual medley relay, took a second in the 50-yard breast stroke, behind Cynthia Goyette, an Olympic Gold Medal Winner from Wayne State University.

Team Places Third
On the same day, Dec. 4, the rest of the 11-girl team, took a third place in competition between most of the State Universities and some northern Illinois colleges.

Lynn Prosser set a pool record in the 25-yard back stroke and a 100 yard free style team, comprised of Sue Judge, Joann Fisher, Patty Kaften and April Kowai also set a pool record.

To round off this year's swimming schedule, WSU-O women will travel to Northern Illinois on Feb. 12.

Swimming at WSU-OK was started back in 1960, even before the men's team was formed. Under the direction of Mrs. Helenjane Cougan until 1964, when Miss Moldenhauer took over, the team has been competing on an inter-school level since 1960.

Basketball this year is coming into its own with the "weaker" area for a basketball sports. WSU-O will play host to day.

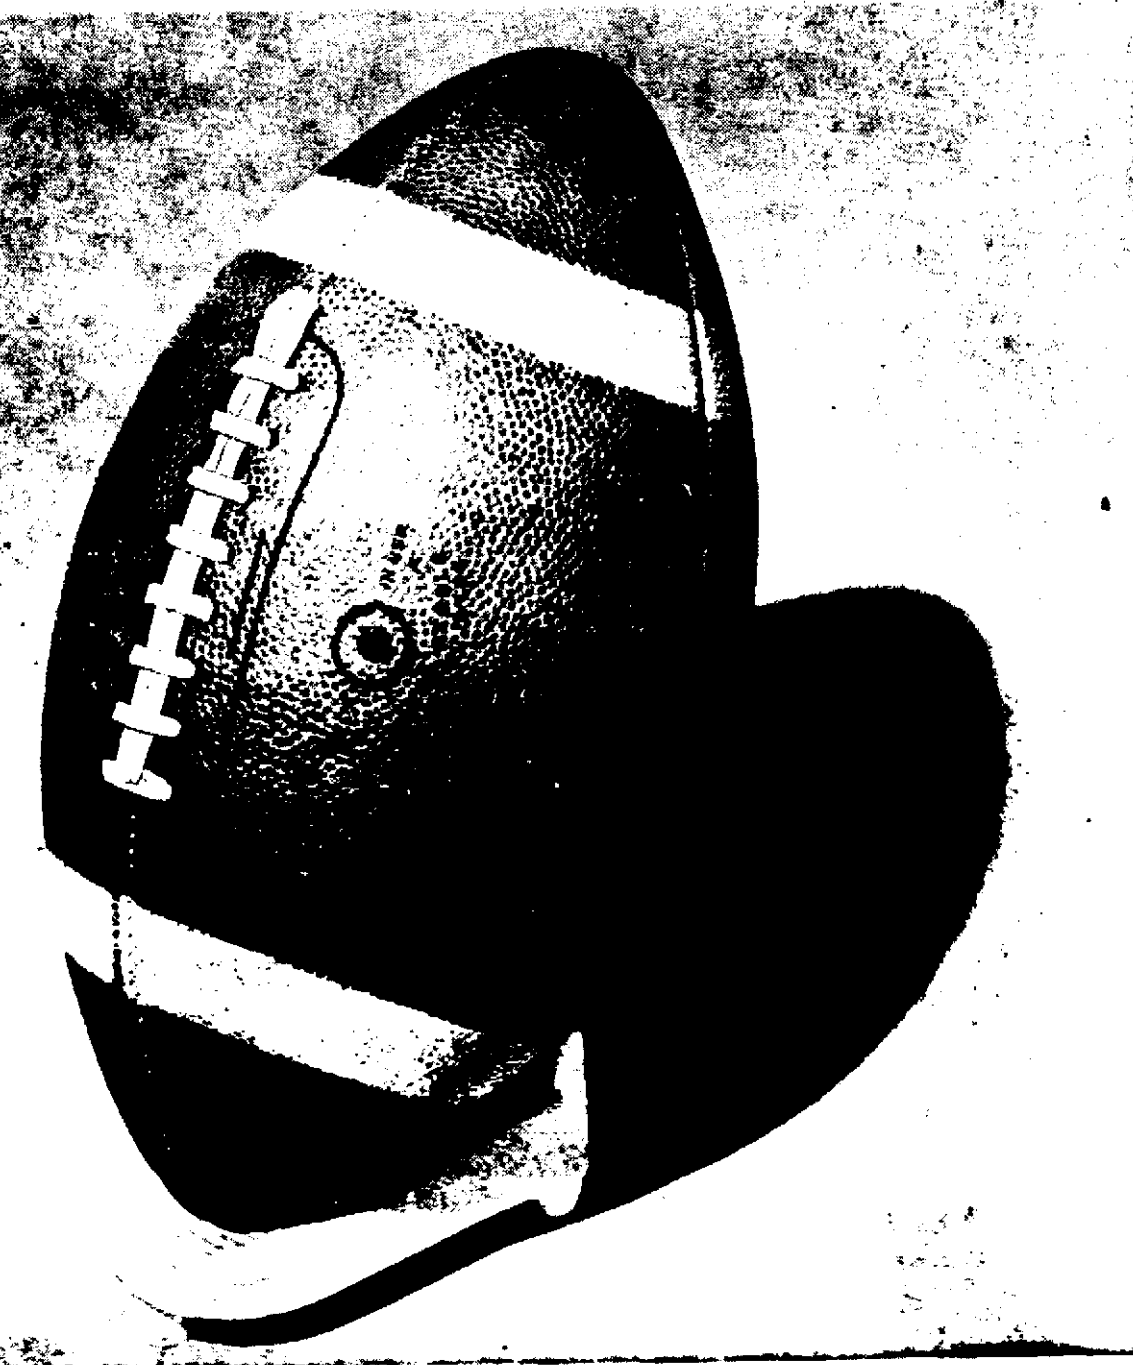

The Titan Invitational Sports Days Feb. 26, when schools from throughout the State University Conference will be on associate professor of health training the capacity could be double winners for LaCrosse hand for some competitive and physical education and head increased.

Conducted by the Women's Recreation Association (WRA) locally and nationally under the Wisconsin Athletic and Recreation Federation of College Women, the Sports Days are carried on in two ways.

First an individual college can invite another college to compete in an individual sport. Then a college can put in for all college sports day, when all schools in the association send teams to the competition.

On Feb. 12 WSU-O will play into its own with the "weaker" area for a basketball sports. WSU-O will play host to day.

As Able as Men
According to statistics compiled by Dr. Eric K. Kitzman, an associate professor of health training the capacity could be double winners for LaCrosse hand for some competitive and physical education and head increased.

Spartan Quint Beats Gophers Michigan State's Curtis Scores 23 In Big Ten Opener

EAST LANSING (AP)—Michigan State overcame a 23-point first half performance by Minnesota's Archie Clark and went on to down the Gophers 85-65 in the Big Ten basketball opener for both teams Saturday night.

Stan Washington held Clark to only four points in the second half while scoring eight points himself and grabbing five rebounds.

The score was tied six times during the first half and the lead changed hands three times as the Spartans grabbed a 38-37 halftime advantage.

Clark made nine of 13 shots from the floor in the first half and continually kept the Gophers in the game.

Minnesota led briefly in the second half when Tom Kundia sank a free throw and Paul Presthus scored on a driving layup, putting the Gophers ahead, 53-50.

Steve Rymal scored a three-point play — soon after Michigan State went ahead — to give the Spartans a 57 - 53 lead and the Gophers never caught up again.

MSU's Bill Curtis paced the winners with 23 points. Washington added 18 and Matthew Aitch and Rymal added 13 each.

Clark's 17 points was followed by Presthus' 11.

Michigan State outrebounded the taller Gophers 51 - 30 with Aitch getting 15 rebounds.

baseball coach at WSU-O, for an article published in the October issue of Health Physical Recreation, women are basically as able to compete in sports as are men.

He compared the two sexes at the same age, height and weight on several criteria. Although 70 per cent of the strength of boys, he wrote, girls seem to be better at sports which require a high degree of skill as opposed to strength.

Lung capacity, he said, in comparing boys and girls could make somewhat of a difference with the girls' being about 80 per cent that of boys', although he qualified this by continuing that with work and physical training the capacity could be increased.
